Mr. Fowler—Mr. Friel would not be an officer of the department?

Mr. Flelding—He was acting as so liction and he might be considered an officer of the department.

Mr. Fowler—The then Minister of Railways said that the information came from the department, and na thrally we supposed it was correct. We had no idea it was a fraud on the face of it, and yet the Minister of Railways won great applause, and when the Minister of Finance spoke the applause was redoubled. This is quoque argument

Was Considered a Complete Answerbecause the late government paid more for the land than the present government did, and now it turns out to be untrue. The Department of Railways does not show up particularly well in this transaction. The Minister of Finance should make a retraction and an apology to the Minister of Finance should make a retraction and an apology to the Colling a paper.
