Canada at the head of the list. The feet that Canadian contributions up to date exceed $85,000, representing a total of 343,680 packages of Tobacco and Cigarettes, is worthy of note. It is speaks of the generosity of the public, but if these figures are compared with the number of men at the ront, it will readily be seen how totally inadequate they are to meet the eads of the case.

Smoking to the boys at the front is virtually a necessity and there are but few non-smokers. The total number of 343,680 packages divided between the $0,000 Canadians now at the front does not supply a very large number of packages of tobacco per man, when spread over a period of fourteen months. If other efforts in this direction are added, even then
