Private Fishing Abolished in N. S.

Waters of Province Will Hereafter be Open to All Its Citizens, On Equal Terms

Halifax, N. S., May 16—The people of Nova Scotia in virtue of an act just passed by the Nova Scotia Legislature now have freedom to fish in any inland waters in this province, a privilege not enjoyed in the past. This comes as a result of a bill introduced by W. L. Hall, member for Kings in the provincial legislature. It will affect a large number of people who hitherto have had fishing pools for their exclusive use. As a result of an agitation some years ago the Government passed a bill giving the right of free fishing on all inland waters and the right of travel over all uncultivated lands for that purpose, but provided that municipal councils should have the right to pass by-laws and issue licenses, giving private owners on rivers the exclusive right to fish in their own waters. The act provided, however, that in the event of municipal councils not passing by-laws or issuing licenses in any county there should be no right of free fishing except over Crown lands and timber lands.

By an amendment introduced by Mr. Hall this act now has been changed so that all residents of the province shall have the right to fish in all rivers and lakes and tidal waters and to cross all uncultivated lands for the purpose of fishing, unless the owner, who claims exclusive rights has obtained a license from the municipal council.

The municipal councils of both Halifax and Queens counties have passed resolutions refusing to issue licenses and there is no doubt all the other counties will also refuse.

This deprives a large number of wealthy gentlemen of Halifax of fishing pools for their exclusive use. One of these for instance is J. Y. Paysant, president of the Bank of Nova Scotia, who has valuable pools on the Mersey river. These now are as free to the public as to him.

The argument is always hottest when both are wrong.
