Mints for Travellers, More than thirty-five years ago we read a following scheme for emigration in a "par library or miscellany," or a book having so such taking fitle; and here it turns up ag a our exchanges as good as new:

The "Brewers" should to "Malta" go. The "Boobies" all to "Scilly." The "Quakers" to the "Friendly Isles,"

The "Furriers" to "Chilli," The little snarling, carolling babes Who break our nightly rest Should be paced off to "Babylon,"
To "Lap" land or to "Brest."

Frem "Spithead," "Cooks" go 'o'er And while the "Miser" waits His passage to the "Guinea Coast,"
"Spendthrifts" are in the "Straits."

"Spinsters" should to the "Needles" go. "Wine bibbers" to "Burgundy,"
"Gourmands" should lunch at "San

"Wags" at the "Bay of Fundy." "Rachelors" to the "United States." 'Maids" to the "Isle of Man;" Let "Gardners" go to "Botany Bay." And "Shoe blacks" to "Japan."

A Voice from the Farm. "You say that my life is a round of toil? The stalwart farmer said;
"That I scarce can wrest from

My pittance of daily bread? Well, what you tell me in part is true, I am seldom an idle man, But I value the blessing of rest as you, Who have so much of it, never ca "And, surely, I have never worked in vain,

From the spring to the golden fall; The harvest has ever brought waving grain Enough and to spare for all.

And when in the evening, free from care I see at my farm house door My wife and little ones waiting there Oh, what has a millionaire more

"My children may never have hoarded wealth Their lives may at times be rough; But if in their homes they have love

They will find their riches enough. The only land they will ever own Is the land that the strong right arm And the patient, fearless heart alone Can till a fertile farm,

"I have nothing beyond my simple wants, And a little for cloudy days; But no grim spectre my homestead haunts, Such as silver and gold m'ght raise Around meare eyes that with sparkling mirt Or with placid countenance shine And no wealth-clogged lord upon all the earth Has a lot more blessed than mine.

"Oh! yes, I am laboring all day long. With the mind and the muscle, too; But I thank the Lord, who has made m And has given me work to do.

For what, indeed, is the idle drone But a vampire on the land, Resping a fruit that by others was sown, The work of another hand.

Dirt Eaters of the Amason.

"You say they are dirt-eaters?" "Yes, sir, and I mean it in its literal sense. You know the French traveller, Macrois, who explored the sources of the Macrois, who explored the sources of the of the oil on them from the top of their River Amason, found a tribe of Indians heads to the root of their tails, applying so infernally lazy that having eaten up it particularly where the lies were more all the four-footed animals in their reach numerous, and it was really amusing to all the four-footed animals in their reach, including parrots and monkeys, snakes rub. Farm and Garden.

Turf can successfully be laid down, if necessary, in dry and hot summer weather, by simply covering it when finished, before it gets too dry, with about a quarter of an inch of light soil put through a half-inch sieve. The grass begins to grow through the soil in a very few days.

Hawke have a partiality for a tall pole from whence they can survey the field before seizing their prey. The knowledge of this propensity of the hawk by the farmers sometimes induces the latter to erect poles at certain locations, at the top of which are tastened steel spring traps, which close when the hawks alight on them.

It is a good plan to burn sulphur is cellars where milk is kept, especially if they are damp. The sulphurous acid evolved destroys the midew, which, if not ehecked, will injure the flavor of cream and butter. In many damp cellers the mildew wastes the cream so that the butter product is seriously decreased, besides the injury to quality.

Slow milking of cows never secures the full product. The cow becomes tired of relaxing the udder muscles, and after a time resumes the more natural position of contracting them. This makes much Huxley. The works are confrom the Fine Art Society. stripping necessary, and a slow miker will never have patience to strip a long time. Partial milking soon dries the cow, and greatly reduces her value

The Lancet stoutly opposes the practice of putting blinkers on horses. It says: "It seems to us that they are useless, ugly, and, to some extent, impurious to the eyesight. The most beautiful feature of the horse is the eye. If it were not hid from our gaze, it would serve to denote sickness pain or pleasure. Many a time would the driver spare the whip on seeing the animal's implosing eye.

Newly seeded fields should be carefully ooked over at this season. In many places weeds will appear that make it un advisable to keep them in grass another year.
