

Boy's Plucky Act

To-day a little boy named Bludoe was playing on board a dory at Bowring's, South Side, when he fell overboard and sank immediately. When he came to the surface he made no outcry and the few men about at the time did not witness the accident. Not so with a plucky little chap Matthew Primm, son of the late Joseph Primm, of the West End, aged 11 years. Seeing the boy struggling in the water he quietly slipped down on the shores and grasped the now drowning child by the hair of his head. The lad who was becoming unconscious pulled Primm into the water but he pluckily held him and managed to reach a cross stringer to which he clung still holding the boy and then cried aloud for help. This was promptly afforded by the men about and both boys were drawn up on the wharf. Bludoe was in a semi-conscious state and vomited much water. Primm was chilled from his immersion and ran home quickly for a change of clothing. He is a bright little pupil of the Holy Cross Schools and deserves commendation for his pluck. Had he not acted so promptly the other boy would have drowned.

The Police Court.

Four drunks were discharged. A drunk and disorderly who broke a pane of glass was discharged on paying the damages. Two drunks were fined $1 or 5 days each. A young man charged with attempting to rescue a prisoner and assaulting a constable, was fined $10 or 30 days. A man charged with being drunk and disorderly in his sister's house was convicted and sentence was suspended. A drunk and disorderly who was also charged with using profane language, was fined $5 or 14 days. A drunk and disorderly was fined $2 or 7 days. A drunk and disorderly fireman was discharged.

McMurdo's Store News.

MONDAY, Sept. 30, 1912. Although our Ice Cream season closed on Saturday, we decided to continue dispensing Milk Shakes with or without Eggs—to the increasing number with whom these invigorating drinks have become popular. As a liquid food, as a stimulant, mild but genuine, as an easily digestible "snack" to those who suffer from dyspepsia, or have weak digestive organs, it finds many who esteem it of great value. Those who have not yet tried one of these tasty drinks are invited to do so. They will find a Milk Shake a very pleasant drink. Price 10 and 15 cents each. We have entirely sold our first large consignment of Rat Corn, but have telegraphed for more which we expect along in a few days. So far as we learn Rat Corn has proved most successful for the purpose for which it is designed. The extermination vermin.

At St. Michael's.

The patronal festival at St. Michael's Church was pitifully observed yesterday, the predominating feature being eucharistic worship. The altar was draped in festal white and covered with beautiful flowers. A large and devout congregation attended the "Holy Sacrament at the altar" at 8 o'clock, which was a pleasing sight to the priest in charge—J. Brinton—Herbeck's Missa Cantata at 11 o'clock was the chief service of the day, the celebrant being the Rev. Brinton, assisted by Rev. Lorder as sub-deacon. The service was creditably rendered by the full choir, which speak highly of the admirable work done by the organist, Mr. Hutchings. Solemn evensong and procession followed at 6:30 p.m. The Rector officiating, who also gave a very forcible sermon on the ministry of the angel in the courts of Heaven and throughout the Holy church on earth. Immediately after evensong the Te Deum Laudamus was sung before the altar, as an act of thanksgiving to almighty God for blessings bestowed on the church of St. Michael and all angels during the past year.—Com.

RECITAL—Mr. Chas. Lench, assisted by Miss Herder and Miss Johnson, will give a Recital under the auspices of the L. C. A. An Appreciation.

The Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—Kindly permit me space in your esteemed paper to insert a few remarks concerning the departure of one of our talented young ladies from our midst. The person alluded to is Miss Bertha Hariman, who has left her home to enter an hospital at Montreal to be trained as a nurse. Miss Hariman is a very bright and promising young lady, of a splendid disposition, possessing noble traits of character, and has won the esteem and affection of all. This was truly verified on the evening of her departure. Quite a number of the Sunday School, of which she was an earnest and devoted teacher, and a number of other friends assembled on the station platform to say good-bye. The Superintendent, Mr. W. T. Baistow, handed her an address from the teachers and pastor, also a letter of recommendation from himself and ten dollars ($10) in gold contributed by the Sunday School and other kind friends. Before the signal for the train to pull out was given a verse of that beautiful hymn: "God be with you till we meet again" was sung, and the way in which it was given forth assured us that all around was indeed interested in the welfare of Miss Bertha. Then the conductor's quick "all aboard" told us it was time to say good-bye, and after many hearty handshakes and earnest wishes the train moved away and our friend started on her journey toward the land of strangers where we hope all will go well. Quite a number accompanied Miss Hariman to the junction, tickets being kindly supplied by Mr. H. J. Hansen. A surprise party was given by some of the ladies and gentlemen on the night of the 23rd inst. and was heartily enjoyed by those who attended. Miss Hariman was a candidate for the Intermediate Exams. this year and passed in First Division. We feel sure that she will be as successful in her new calling as she has been in other work, and we trust that in this noble work to which she intends to devote her talents, she will be a blessing to all. Thanking you for space, I remain, Yours truly, RESIDENT. Millertown, Sept. 25th, 1912.

Mr. Lench's Recital at the College Hall.

Mr. Charles H. Lench who gives a recital in the College Hall to-morrow evening, has for the past three years been a pupil of W. Y. Archibald, the noted virtuoso of Toronto. Mr. Archibald's standing as a teacher in Toronto is of the first rank, being a pupil of at least fifteen teachers of international reputation, amongst the number being Van-der-Linde, David Ross, North and Shakespeare. He was also for some years director of the University of Toronto Glee Club, during which period very successful tours of Canada and the United States were undertaken. Some of the most popular Canadian vocalists have passed through Mr. Archibald's hands. Mr. Lench whose voice is classified as "high baritone," is equally at home in dramatic, operatic and oratorio selections. Amongst the numbers included in his programme are the two great dramatic songs "Mother O' Mine," "Kingdom of Heaven," "Death of Nelson," "Brahm," "Other selections are: "I'll sing the songs of Araby," "Clay," "Requiem," "Hark! Hark! The Lark," "Schwert," "A Perfect Day," "Mrs. Jacobs-Bond," and the musical "Berceuse de Jocelyn." God-dard, with violin obligato. Wegens's setting to Tennyson's famous poem, "Crossing the Bar," will be the closing number and an organ accompaniment will be rendered by Mr. King. Mr. Lench will be assisted by Miss Elsie Herder, Contralto, Miss Sybil Johnson, Violinist and Miss Rogers, accompanist. Miss Herder has recently returned after two years study in Germany and as this is her first appearance before a St. John's audience since her return, we are sure that she will be greeted with a most appreciative audience.—Com.

President of Conference At Wesley Church.

Solo By Mr. Charles Lench. An immense congregation assembled at Wesley Church last evening to hear the President of the Conference, Rev. Chas. Lench, now on a visit to this city. Very great interest centred in the service and before the time for opening the spacious building was packed with an interested audience. Many came out of abounding respect and kindly feeling for their former pastor whose services at Alexander Street created so many friendly ties and helped so greatly towards building up that mission and leading out into the splendid up-to-date church now occupied. The President's remarks were based on King David's lament for Absalom and consisted of an analysis of the characteristics which led to Absalom's ruin. The large congregation were greatly pleased to see their former pastor back with them once more. Mr. Charles Lench, son of the President, during the service rendered two solos in excellent style which afforded a fore-taste of what the public may expect on Tuesday evening in the College Hall. The solos rendered were: "He wipes the tear from every eye" and "David's lament for Absalom." The former by Alexander Lee and the latter by Frank Swift, the brother of whom by a singular coincidence, was setting to Tennyson's famous poem, taken some pains and some to some expense in going through a regular process of voice culture and he has excelled. A large audience at his recital to-morrow evening is assured. Rev. Dr. Rogers preached at the same church on Sunday morning.—Com.

The Morning After.

Oh, the sport awakes as the morning breaks, with a head like a load of brick, and his eyes are red in his aching head, and his poor old stomach's sick. His mouth is furred and he thinks some bird—a buzzard—has nested there; his throat is dry and he thinks he'll die, and there's free lunch in his hair. He notes with dread that he went to bed attired in his shoes and hat; and he sees a bear on his bedroom chair—but it's only the thomas cat. He groans and sighs as he tries to rise from his couch of misery. "This lets me out from the festal rout—it's never again," says he. To the joint he slinks for some saving drinks, the hair of the dog, you know; a few good jerks for his weakened works—he'll quit when the tremors go. But a slug of gin, when it's safe within, calls loud for a running mate; and the poor old sport takes another sport, and hits up the same old game. And the sport awakes when the morning breaks as sick as a glandered horse; his eyes are red in his swollen head, his comrade is R. E. Morse. To fill your vat with the suds like that, to sleep in your hat and shoes; Do you call that fun, Oh, you sporty one, just getting the taste for booze?

Fogota in Port.

The S. S. Fogota arrived in port at 11 o'clock to-day from the Northward. She arrived at Twillingate on Thursday at 10 p.m., and all the way North had fog, rain and head winds with very stormy weather. Wednesday night she was 6 hours laying off Musgrave Harbour being unable to make the port owing to heavy fog and stormy weather. She had it fine on the return. She brought a full freight of fish in casks, and her passengers were Messrs. Snelgrove, Wellon, Templeman, Bryant, Master White-way, Earle, Bennett, Elliott; Messrs. James Orr, Rodgers (round trippers), Kean, Richards, Oakley, Misses O'Neil and Winsor and a large number in steerage.

Making Good.

Mr. J. J. Collins, of Parker & Monro's, yesterday had a letter from an old friend and well known citizen in the person of Mr. Harry Swift, who left here 25 years ago. Mr. Swift has been the past 16 years in California where he has amassed considerable money and property and is a very well to do man. He is now spending a vacation with his sister in Boston and when the cold weather sets in will return to California. He wishes to be remembered to all old friends and chums.

Marine Notes.

The schr. Maggie Belle arrived to Goodridge & Sons from Sydney to-day with a coal cargo. She left Wednesday last and had fair weather on the way. The Euphrates will be due here to-morrow and will take a full freight to Conception Bay points. The R. M. S. Woodhull is due here to-morrow from Philadelphia. The City of Sydney leaves to-morrow for this port. The S. S. Stearns was supposed to have left New York on Saturday, but no word of her doing so has been received.

By the Fogota we learn that very little is being done with the fishery North the past week or so. The weather has been very stormy and boats cannot get on the ground; however, when they do get out and secure bait the fishery looks up as cod is fairly plentiful on the ledge and two and three quintals per boat are taken.

HELD CONFIRMATION.

His Lordship Bishop Jones accompanied by a city clergyman and Rev. Canon Smith went to Bell Island on Saturday, and yesterday imparted the rite of confirmation to a large number of candidates in the Anglican Church. His Lordship officiated at the morning and evening services in the church and last night preached a very eloquent sermon to a large congregation.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Mr. J. E. McGarry who was for a vacation in New York and other parts of the States, arrived by to-day's press. He was accompanied by Mr. Brown, of the Cable Company. The Portia left Grand Bank this morning for the west. The Prospero leaves Wednesday morning for Northern ports.
