Our Baseball Column.

PLAGIARISED AND OTHERWISE.

The B. I. S. roster this year contains the following names:—French, manager; McGrath, Carew, Brazie, Power, O'Leary, O'Reilly, Channing, Kelly, Power, O'Donnell, Delaney, Wallace, W. Power, Doyle, Connolly, Conroy, Kennedy, and Skinner.

The boys have just come home from France; their fighting days are o'er; they've left the Kaiser sick and lame and also left him sore; they landed on Von Hindenburg and biffed him in the eye; they kicked the Crown Prince on the shins and made the poor boob cry; they chased old Gen. Ludendorff til he was out of breath, and till the royal councillors were frightened half to death.

And now they're coming home again to skate and bowl a few, and talk some about hockey and play a game of pool or two, and chew the rag about the fights, and maybe bet their dough, and go to see a baseball match or else a nickel show.

There may be other things to do and see across the foam, but most of them are strong for what we do and see at home.

That good old Turk Ali Bi will visit all four teams on Wednesday and more than likely will spend the season with us.

Being right or left handed means nothing in baseball. The real test occurs above the collar.

A hog has the right idea. He roots for himself.

It seems to us the College Cubs if they do not have a slump, will go along almighty strong in case they get the jump. The Irish have a nifty team, all young and full of pep. They ought to fool a lot of fans if they but watch their step. The Lions' outfit may surprise a lot of folks, and spite their own dyed rooters who supposed that they were jokes. And while we're talking pennants, don't forget that Wanders' crew! They lean a bit towards pennants and have captured not a few.

We do not like to pick a winner until the field is somewhat thinner, but just before the annual muss this is the way it looks to us.

The way some catchers throw to second base you'd think second base was in centre field.

Some pitchers try to get "hops" on their fast ones by drinking beer.

The way some ball players bat you'd think they were afraid of getting tired if they knocked out a home run.

Umpires don't need any Spring training. They can "miss 'em" without practicing.

Old Hughey Fullerton tells the story of an addle-pated fanatic who spent five years in figuring out 15,559 possible plays in baseball. The next day he went out to the Polo Grounds and saw two new ones he hadn't thought about.

A pitcher should have a lot of speed during playing-nights.

The herring season is about over but they aren't the kind of bones a baseball manager worries about.

The Wanderer Fan's Dream.

"Last night" he said with shining eyes, "I dreamt Hocken was back; I dreamt that Pritchard's wallop once more led the old attack; I seemed to see Dot Wallace make an old time Wallace spear, and hear Tim Hartnett barking in the shaking umpire's ear. And, like a dream of Heaven where the feathered angels horde. I heard the shoots of Brown and King hit the mitt of Charley Ford. I have cheered for old Macleod as he cracked one on the nose; I saw Jack O'Flaherty pick a wallop from his toes. And with the oldtime flash of speed, agility, and zest. We mauled the Lions to a pulp and stamped upon the rest——"He closed his eyes in retrospect, he sighed with joy and then, I kindly shot him through the heart before he woke again.

Don't forget that the pennant race starts on Wednesday afternoon with a big classy double-header.

Football League.

The adjourned meeting of the Football League took place Saturday at the office of the Vice-President, W. J. Higgins, who occupied the chair. It is hoped to open the football season with a game by a picked city team and an eleven from the regiment, which should prove of great interest to the sporting public. It is also hoped to be able to present the football trophies and medals won the last couple of years, and that the presentation will be made by Lady Harris. This season's football is expected to be the fastest and best seen here in years, as all teams are practicing hard, and are said to be unusually strong. The football and baseball leagues are now working in conjunction, and St. George's Field is being put in first class condition for the season. The football fixtures will likely be drawn about the end of the week.

Victory For The Vickers!

IT'S BEEN DONE—

What England intended to do—what should be done some day, AND AN ENGLANDER DID IT!

Cheer, you dummy, cheer—don't care what nation bore you—Cheer for the bravery that made Hell quiver at the Somme—come back to blaze a trail across the skies!

Touch it, you Son of a Gun!—You two of Magnificent Courage—painting the sky red at 125 an hour! The sky's no longer Blue—it's Red! Hang the Jack on the stars! Fling it across the sky—it's British!

In the whirl of the welcome over there, in the din and the tumult of the vast crowds that crush for a glimpse of you—hear this, coming across the waters that you have spanned, following in your wake, rising like a tide, swelling to a roar—Hear it! It's our message to you—you Dare-Devils!—from the Old Island—

Cheer-oh! It's a good pal shout! Cheer-oh! for the victors of a terrible venture—Cheer-oh! for the space bridgers!

And we won't see you again?—And here's our last clasp—here's our last word—But, Hang it All—

WE'RE PROUD OF YOU!

Wedding Bells.

A very pretty ceremony was witnessed at St. Thomas's church on Thursday evening when ex-Pte. Arthur Payne, of Gander Bay, and Miss Nellie Bennett, of Port Albert, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The young bride, dressed in a costume of navy blue silk with hat to match, looked very neat and charming. She was attended by Miss Elsie Garland, while the groom's brother, Mr. Kenneth Payne, of the Horwood Lumber Co., Ltd., office staff, fulfilled the duties of best man. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Dr. Jones, Rector of the Parish. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the residence of the groom's brother, Alexander St., where a splendid wedding supper was provided and where the friends of the bride and groom enjoyed themselves until past midnight. Ex-Pte. Payne went across with "Ours" in July, 1916. In July, 1917 he was reported "Killed in Action" and his relatives at home mourned him as such. But about ten days afterwards the welcome news came that this first report was incorrect, but that he had been severely wounded. After eight months in hospital in England, Mr. Payne returned home and has since been receiving medical treatment here. Mrs. and Mrs. Payne are leaving next week for a visit to relatives in N. D. Bay. We extend congratulations and the wish that this may be the beginning of a long and happy life together.

THE OTHER SIDE OF TH

RUTH CAMERON

One sometimes hears people who are disappointed in matrimony blame their disappointment on the fact that the party of the second part produced some entirely unexpected and disagreeable characteristic after marriage.

One never hears people say "I married him (or her) because he had this or that quality and now I wish I could unmarry him because he still has it.

And yet I fancy that is quite as often the case as the first.

He Likes Her To Be Silly—Before Marriage.

Take for instance the man who falls in love with a young girl partly because he enjoys her thoroughly feminine (according to the old connotations of that word) reactions to everything. In courtship he finds her lack of logic perfectly charming, her inconsequential ways are adorable, even things bordering on silliness delight him. All these things are such a change from the world of men and business in which he lives.

By and by they are married and in the course of time come down to the brass tacks of everyday life. And then to his surprise he finds that her old fashioned femininity, her lack of logic, her inconsequence are not half so adorable when they come into play in the relations between man and wife. He is at first surprised, then exasperated and perhaps in the end (it all depends on how she develops and what is the strength of the other ties between them) alienated.

She Has Not Changed—Just Stayed The Same.

Yet she has not changed or produced any new qualities. It is only because she kept on being what she was when he married her.

Again I know a man who fell in love with a woman largely because of her intenseness. She was "such an intense little thing," I heard him use those very words before they were married. She always went into
