Lysander, a farm hand was recounting his troubles to a neighbor. Among other things he said that the wife of the farmer who employed him was "too funny for any use."
"This very morning," said he, "she asked me, 'Lysander, do you know how many pancakes you have eat this morning?'"
"I said, 'No, ma'am, I ain't had no occasion to count 'em.'"

That the people of Aylmer are lovers of good music evidenced on Sunday afternoon when the Opera House was full to capacity to hear the program thirty-five piece orchestra of St. Methodist church. Norris at the piano is a finish and accompanist.
Probably the outstanding n of the program were: Overture of Bagdad, concert waltz, "W of the Winds," and march, "Flambeaux." Mr. McCullough, soloist of Askia St. church intoned two vocal solos and w received and will be heard with at any future time.
The orchestra was brought t mer through the instrumenta Mr. Frank Whitehouse, of I who is a favorite with Aylme sicians and who has been hea on several occasions. The was under the auspices of church choir, who wish to th for their liberal response. ceon was served the orche the close of the program by choir committee.
