THE ALERTS' LOSS. The demon of hard luck which has bursued the Alerts since the season pened, is bound to stay with them ill the finish. If ever the team needd its full strength it is now, when the final struggle for the pennant is beginning. Just as Pitcher Fisher was preparing to go to Guelph last night he received a telegram ordering him to rejoin the Detroit Club at once, and he left today. Fisher has endeared himself to the cranks here by his splendid work and his gentlemanly conduct. The Detroit Club at present requires all its available strength, and they have pulled the string which they kept on the junior twirler, whom they lent to London. Albert Woods will pitch for the Alerts today, and

PATCHEN CUTS THE STALLION PACING RECORD.

Portland, Me., Aug. 22.—Joe Patchen lowered the world's stallion pacing record, held by John R. Gentry, yesterday, at Rigby, by one-quarter of a second in a fresh wind, making the mile in 2:03. His quarters were: :30 1-2, :29 1-2, :30 1-4 and :32 3-4. Patchen was paced by a runner known as Little Friend, and was driven by Jack Curry. He belongs to Col. Curry, of Chicago, and his former record was 2:04. He made an exhibition mile at Rigby on Wednesday in 2:03 3-4, and another in 2:04.

TIPS. M. F. Dwyer heads the list of winning owners at Brighton Beach with $6,275.

The largest winning owners at Detroit up to date are as follows: W. J. Porter, $5,975; E. Corrigan, $2,230; M. F. Dwyer, $2,075; Santa Anita stable, $2,015; J. E. Seagram, $1,560. Charles Boyle has $240 to his credit and John Dyment $175.

THE WHEEL.

THE SIMCOE MEET. Simcoe, Ont., Aug. 22.—The 25-mile Canadian amateur championship bicycle meet, given here yesterday by the Simcoe Bicycle Club, was a splendid success in every way, and when the bell was rung for the first event there were nearly 1,000 people on the grounds. The star event was the championship race. For this there were ten entries, but only six started. The order of the start was: Axton, Davidson, McEachren, Blayney, Moore and Meehan. The pace-makers went off at a merry clip. The track was in a good condition, the weather perfect, and at one time the riders were within three seconds of the record, but the breaking of the tandem and the absence of pacing for a couple of laps threw them away from it. They made up some of the lost time, but could not do better than 1:06:2 1-5. Moore took a bad tumble on the first half of the fourth mile, and dropped out. Davidson also fell and lost over a quarter of a mile, but pluckily resumed riding and caught the bunch. McEachren and Axton also fell, but got into the race again. The finish was a beauty, and Blayney looked all over a winner, but seemed to be pumped out in the sprint, Axton beating him across the tape; Davidson third. The two Toronto tandem teams were the only advance entries for the twomile professional, but McCarthy and McLeod hitched up and made a post entry, and after a great race won in 4:59 4-5. President Robertson, of the C. W. A., was referee, and Secretary Donly starter. The summaries are

It was while the last dinner guests nothings to Bab, as she leaned against the mantel and the low firelight played on the satin sheen of her white gown till she looked as if taking life from a flame tinted jewel, that a slender shape slipped swiftly down the steps passed along in the shadow of the houses like herself. The girl had never been in the street at night before without attendance; every sound affrighted her. She shrank behind her veil from every passer-by. As soon as she had turned the corner she brought into sight the parcel she carried, that she might the more readily pass as a maid. A half-hour's rapid walk and she ran up some steps to make sure of the number, rang the door bell, said something explanatory to the man who inswered it, passed in and followed him to the door up one flight of the broad, low stairway there.

A man sat there, with his head bowed upon his arms as they lay along the table, in an attitude of utter de-jection. He did not look up when the door opened and closed. But the girl crossed the room quickly, and standing behind him, stopped with her arm laid across his shoulder. He lifted his head and looked straight before him.
"I suppose it's a dream," he said half to himself.

"I am not a dream, Jack," she said, bending lower, her soft, cold cheek touching him. "I am Felicia." There was a silence in heaven for the space of half an hour. For one moment there was silence and rapture here. And then the transfer men came for the luggage. "And this parcel, too," said Felicia.
"Felicia!" he exclaimed.

"This parcel," she repeated. "You know I cannot go back after coming here," she said, when they were alone again. "I have burned my ships be-hind me."

"Do you mean it?" he exclaimed, joyously. And then his tone fell. "I thought—oh, yes, centainly; I must take you home before my train leaves." "You will take me home? My home is with you, Jack."
"You don't know what you say," he answered her. "Oh, no; I cannot accept the sacrifice!" the eager gleam of his eyes belying his words. "Jack," she murmured. "the sacrifice is my coming here unasked." "You knew I loved you; you knew I loved you! And then the crash came-and there was nothing for me to say to you, who had lain in the lilles and fed on the roses of life. I, whose part was the husks." "Yes, I knew it, or I could not have come," she replied, as she moved away from him, going about the room and pausing at the curtainless window place, where the moonlight lay upon her, pale and impassioned.

"Don't make it so, hard for me!" he exclaimed. "An hour ago it was the darkness of despair. I was going to bury myself in the ranch, with its drove of cattle, the one thing left me, as if it were a grave. Now, I shall go out in that new life, radiant with this happy knowledge and my hope. And even if I should never prosper enough to come for you," he said, after a moment, taking a step toward her, "If you should weary in the long waiting and give some other man the love I have won-well, I could bear it, per-haps, remembering and living again in this night's joy."

"Some other man!" she exclaimed, unclasping his arms and looking for the hat and jacket that had been thrown aside. "I am going with you,

Jack. If you can live summer and winter in a tent in Texas, I can, too. I have the fit clothes in that parcel, I have my jewels here. They were my mother's, and are mine, and I have the right to take them, and their price will hinder my being a burden."
