FREE VACCINATION FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

A system of free voluntary vaccination will soon be established in the public schools of the city. At a joint meeting of the board of health and the board of control yesterday it was decided to make all arrangements for the inoculation of the pupils, and a subsequent meeting will be called of the health board to complete final plans for launching the system in the schools.

It was also suggested that older people as well might be vaccinated under the system, and on motion the suggestion was approved.

LONDON CLUB'S OFFICERS

At the annual meeting of the London Club the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President—H. P. Skay; First Vice-President—J. Harry Brown; Second Vice-President—Fred Kerrigan; Committee—J. M. Dillon, A. D. McLean, W. H. Jenkins, H. S. Blackburn and Dr. A. Scott.

Report of the year showed the club to be in a flourishing condition.

FAMOUS COUGH MIXTURE

A representative of the Dr. J. O. Lambert Medical Company, of Montreal, was in the city yesterday and made arrangements to further promote the sale of their well-known cough mixture. This preparation has had a very good sale in this district, and altogether in the British Empire. It has one of the best sales of a similar article, Dr. Lambert was a graduate of Laval University, and got distinct honors on graduation. He made a specialty and study of lung diseases, and the cough syrup is a result of years of study. Besides the cough mixture, they have many other specialties, which are on sale in drug stores. It is the intention to use newspaper advertising space to further the sales in London and Western Ontario.

Labor Council Is Displeased With Hon. T. Crothers

Labor Minister Turns Down T. and L's Ship Resolution—After Donnelly Again.

The members of the trades and labor council, at their meeting last night, following a motion made by Delegate Hollins, passed a resolution to ask the board of education along with members of the trades council to make a thorough investigation of the plastering that has been done in the college institute.

Delegate Hollins stated that the plastering at the college institute was "simply rotten." Why in some places they have used planks to cover up the holes in the walls," said he.

"I happened to be assigned to work in the college," said Delegate Jackson, of the painters' union, "and the plastering I saw in that school is the worst I have ever come across in my life."

Ask Investigation. Other delegates voiced their opinions that the plastering that has been done in the college was worthy of an investigation, and the trades council here decided to ask the board to take up an investigation at the earliest date possible.

A motion advanced by Delegate Keats that the trades council go on record of being in favor of municipal-owned swimming and plunging baths carried unanimously, and the labor council will ask city fathers to take some action in the proposition.

"In the way of public baths London is the worst city in the world. We have over 10,000 children here and they have no public place to go to bathe," stated the delegate.

A number of delegates stated that they thought a public bathing place would be a great thing for this city and one or two went on to say that if they had the financial backing they would not hesitate a minute to build such a place.

"It would be different from the comfort station where the financial gain is made. In some cities where they have these public baths there is always a good cash surplus," said Delegate Keats.

After Donnelly Again. Alderman James Donnelly came in for his usual share of abuse over the way he does things at the city council and new members of the trades council are up in arms over their members' latest vote at a recent council meeting.

"Donnelly is not consistent in his voting," said Delegate Hevey. "He votes to let the controllers' salary and wages away with Gordon Philip, the industrial commissioner, and then he votes to pay Engineer Ashplant his salary."

Following a resolution that was made at the last meeting of the trades council, the members decided to ask Hon. T. V. Crothers, minister of labor, what he could do for them in the way of securing ships to take English mechanics home to fill vacancies in the old country made by the war.

Last night the council received a letter from the minister of labor to the effect that he did not think it would be a wise move to meet their request, as they were complaining about Englishmen coming out to the money and taking positions for less money.

Reply an insult. "Crothers reply is an insult to the trades and labor," stated Delegate Keats. "It is insulting our letter or has taken the wrong view of it," said the delegates' delegate, "these men are Englishmen who wish to get home to fill vacancies made as the result of the war."

Delegate Keats' motion that the minister of labor be sent another communication and the matter explained thoroughly carried, and it was dropped until the council receives word from Mr. Crothers.

HONESTY COUNTS IN APPLE PACKING

Good Advice of W. F. Kydd to Ontario Fruit Growers.

"Put honesty in your barrel of apples, honesty in the bottom, honesty in the middle, honesty on top, and after you have done this, you will find that the apples will sell better than any other apples in the market."

W. F. Kydd, in the course of an address to the London branch of The Ontario Fruit Growers Association yesterday night, said: "You have no conception of the things we hear out West about the apples, and the way they are packed, and the way they are sold."

He continued, "If I were inspecting apples, I would find very dishonest packers, or I would find very dishonest packers, or I would find very dishonest packers."

Mr. Kydd praised the work done by the fruit growers in the box packing class, conducted by Assistant District Representative Forsyth, characterizing the packs the best that he had ever judged, and stating that the growers had made marvellous progress in their two days course.

The contest, held Wednesday afternoon, as to who had the best pack, was judged by Mr. Kydd. That it was keen, can be seen by the fact that only 1 1/2 points separated the first five winners, and their scores: N. H. Cornell, 29 1/2; A. J. Cody, 29 1/2; F. G. Brook, 29 1/2; W. C. Pack, 29 1/2; and A. Sedler, 28 1/2.

The total number of points that could be received was 30. Ten men took part in the contest, the lowest score being 25.

Mr. Kydd stated that the spy, snow, and Macintosh red should be all boxed, and that the leading commercial packers should be thoroughly and laid great stress on the thoroughness. Grapes, he said, should be grown in rows ten feet apart and two feet in the rows. The first wire should be three feet in height and the second six feet high. The rows should run north and south, and should be fertilized with barnyard manure and bonemeal.

The speaker stated that in his experience he had not found it profitable to grow strawberries on the same patch two years in succession, declaring that the berries were smaller, and it cost just as much to keep an old patch clean, as it did to plant a young one. He advocated a straw mulch in the fall of the year, and had advocated a winter mulch to keep the soil warm and to keep the ground from being frozen.

Mr. Pettit, provincial apiarist and professor of agriculture at the O. A. C., gave an interesting illustrated address on bees. Mr. Pettit devoted most of his address to the way in which blossoms were fertilized. He declared that insects were necessary in transferring pollen from one blossom to another so as to give better fruit and more of it. Bees were the most reliable insects for this purpose, and they visited the blossoms for food and nectar. He advocated the placing of bee-hives in the orchard as the bees were not satisfied when their hunger was appeased, but kept on gathering nectar and distributing pollen as long as there was any to distribute.

Mr. Pettit stated that the honey shortage was due to the fact that the bees were not getting enough to eat. He stated that he did not like the present weather for bees. He liked to see the ground covered with snow at this time of the year. The honey shortage would be felt next year, if the crop was as short as it was in 1914.

IS ARRANGING FOR SHORT BOND SALE

Council To Authorize Disposal of $1,000,000 Debentures Today.

GOSSIP OF THE CITY HALL

The Glaubitz Salary Question Comes Up Tomorrow—To Settle Stockyards.

This afternoon the city council meets in special session to authorize the calling for bids of $1,000,000 of short-term debentures of the city of London. The board of control met to discuss the proposition yesterday afternoon, and laid the question over for the ratification of the council.

Mayor H. A. Stevenson has secured a number of what are considered splendid offers for these debentures or notes, which will have a life of three to five years, and which are being placed on the market in order that the city may secure the very best possible rates in the present financial situation.

Federal Square Park.

Now that the old McCormick factory on the corner of Wellington and Dundas streets has been razed and this corner of the Federal Square is once more open land, amusement men are bidding to secure the rights to operate an amusement park there. Several offers have already been sent into Mayor Stevenson, but none of them have been considered.

There is a possibility that the city may endeavor to secure some revenue from this property by leasing it out as an amusement franchise, but the mayor plans on making it a park in any event.

"We will fill in this summer and spring, and we will fill the whole thing down and make it a park," said the mayor to The Advertiser.

"It will make a splendid little park until we are ready to go ahead with the new city park."

No Grant Yet.

Appropriation of the Federal Square scheme is still a strong possibility of any Government grant, as per the elaborate promises made during the Graham regime. It is true that the Government has made a definite promise of $50,000 as a "first instalment," but so far none of the city officials have seen the color of the money. When it is forthcoming it is an interesting question that remains to be answered.

Next week Mayor Stevenson and Council are going to Ottawa, and the mayor says he will take up the question for the eleventh time with the Government.

No Raises Anyway.

While nothing further has been heard of the proposed 10 per cent reduction in the salaries of municipal officers receiving more than $1,000 a year, it is an assured fact that there will be no increases granted this year to any of them.

The salary question will not be settled finally until after the estimates for the year have been considered, but it is now said, at the city hall, that the proposed cut will not be put into effect.

To Employ 100, He Says.

General Manager H. J. Glaubitz of the public utilities commission, who is scheduled to leave the employ of that board on May 1, is now working out a plan for starting a waterworks and electrical manufacturing company.

In this city as soon as his public career ends. The G. M. declares that he has secured a number of American and Canadian patents, and will be in a position to turn out specialty devices for both waterworks and electric departments at a very low cost. He further declares that his new factory will employ from 100 to 150 men at the outset.

To Consider Tile Making.

When the board of control meets tomorrow morning the question of city-made cement tile for sewer work will be again considered. The city engineer has prepared a report on this question, and the controllers will go more extensively into the proposal for the city to make its own sewer tile.

Branch Library Must Wait.

What will be done by the council in connection with the proposed East London branch of the public library will not be decided for some time yet. There is unusual press of business ahead of the council at present, and as it is proposed to get all the committees together on the library proposition, this other work will have to be cleared away first. The aldermen want to consider what will be done with the old East London Town Hall before going ahead with extensive alterations to accommodate the library.

To Decide on Stockyards.

The special stockyards committee of the council, of which Ald. G. H. Harey is chairman, will meet tomorrow to decide on the site for the new municipally owned stockyards. A number of options on suitable properties are held by the stockyards idea, but Ald. Harey is determined to fight to the end.
