LONDON GIVES ANOTHER BALL GAME TO HAMILTON

Graham and Lacroix Uncork Enough Wild Pitches and Passed Balls To Give Hams Sufficient Runs To Win With.

I Special to The Advertiser.]

AMILTON, June 22.—Even the mud cannot stop the Hams from winning. They played today on a slippery diamond, but they won just the same, although their victory was partly due to Graham's wildness and Lacroix's inability to hold him at critical stages. In fact, the London battery had an off-day and Hamilton's second run, the one that tied the scule the scule the scule that the scule the sixth, was nothing more than a linguistic form. A.B. R. H. Hamilton A.B. R. H. P.O. second run, the one that tied the score in the sixth, was nothing more than a presentation. Cristall had his weather eye open for such opportunities when he was allowed to walk and took additional took addi he was allowed to walk and took advantage of two wild heaves and a passed ball and completed the circuit without even going through the usual routine of running at top speed when travelling from one sack to another.

Hamilton may have got the breaks, and they have had them before, but never when Schroeder was on the mound, lamy, c.f. ... Reidy r.f. "Dutch" has been recognized as the hard luck pitcher of the staff and it was the first time this season that the breaks were not against him. He breaks were not against him. He pitched winning ball and deserved a victory, although it must be said that he received excellent support, McGroarty being especially prominent on the field and making many spectacular stops.

Schaffer Starced

Schaffer Starred.

But the Hamilton shortstop was not the only man to jump into the frame of fame, as Schaffer, the visiting second sacker also showed some real heavy stuff, and the Hon. William Cristall was also doing things. William undertook to cultivate the left garden, and he did the job nobly, making two one-hand catches of long flies from the bat of Lusk in the first and third innings that appeared to be on their way to the tall uncut. In fact, there was no fault to be found with the fielding of either team, and there were plenty of snappy plays despite the muddy going.

Belsing Panned

Reisling Panned.

Reisling sent his marathon heaver,
Graham, in to try and take the second of the series, but he failed to do so and has no person but himself to blame. He was given erroriess support, out lacked control at critical times and he was taken out in the eighth to make way for Dillinger, who managed to close that frame by allowing the Hams a run and another hit. Reisling came in for a great deal of criticism from the for a great deal of criticism from the crowd in the sixth inning when Tiffany injured his ankle sliding at first and asked that a man be allowed to run for him. "Not with the score a tie," said Reisling, and the crowd immediately started to "pan" the London manager, but "Doc," remained firm and Tiffany had to do his own hopping, but he did not have far to go as he was put out while on his way to second.

ways wild for the first two or three troi from the start and did not all troj from the start and did not allow a man to travel over the free route. A little peppery fielding in the first in-ning might have cut off one of the hits that the visitors made, but after that they failed to do anything in the way of bunching bingles, and the other hits that the chirps got were scattered over as many innings and two of them were the scratch variety.

London Started Well.

The visitors started off with a rush in the initial inning and scored two runs before the Hams got settled down. Lamy started the proceedings with a fly over Zeimer's head and advanced on Reidy's single Eckstein sent one to respond to the Reidy's single Eckstein sent one to respond to the Reidy's single Eckstein sent one to respond to the Reidy's single Eckstein sent one to respond to the Reidy's single Eckstein sent one to respond to the Reidy's single Eckstein sent one to respond to the Reidy's single Eckstein sent one to respond to the Reidy's single Eckstein sent one to respond to the Reidy's single Eckstein sent one to respond to the Reidy's single Eckstein sent one to respond to the Reidy's single Reidy's single Eckstein sent one to respond to the Reidy Reidy's single. Eckstein sent one to Schioeder which the latter held a little too long and which caught Tiffany off the bag, allowing Eckstein a life. Sacrifice hits by Schaffer and Lusk brough: in the runs. Myers started the second frame with a hit over second and ad vanced on Lacroix's sacrifice, but died the second sack. After that the Cockneys failed to get a man farther than first, and the four of the remain-ing innings but three men faced Schroeder each time.

Hamilton failed to show any danger signals on the paths until the fifth, when Gus Zeimer started the frame with a hit to right centre and advanced on infield outs by Woods and Pembroke. He scored on a passed ball. Schroeder got a two-base wallop, but Kelly Harris failed to advance him. The London battery showed a tinc brand of charity in the sixth and presented Cristall with a run on a stiver platter. Graham allowed the Hamilton manager to walk and to make sure that he would to walk and to make sure that he would not die on first he made a wild heave of which Cristall took advantage and reached second. A passed ball allowed him to advance another sack and then Graham put the finishing touches on by heaving another bad one and Cristall walked home without aven have tall walked home without even having to work up a trot. But that little piece of charity work did not end the scoring. Tiffany followed with a walk, but was out at second when Mi-Groarty grounded to Schaffer. McGroarty wed a fine burst of speed on a hit enowen a line burst of speed on a internal run play when he completed the circuit on Zeimer's single to right field. Woods also walked, but was nailed at second when Pembroke grounded to

This is Frank Baker's successor, the youngster who is tackling toughest job in baseball—W. L. Kopf. To attempt to replace the great Baker is a job in itself.
