The New Year A little child to us has sped, This chilly winter night, He lies within his cradle bed And coos and laughs outright; The little child with eyes so clear It is you know the new born year.

How wonderfully fast he grows, But twelve months he can live, In look and speech much thought shows, Hear what advice he'll give ;

"Ye little children far and near On wings of wind flies every year."

I'll bring you many happy days Enjoy them as you go, May every hour in many ways With blessings overflow ; And may each hour bring to your mind,

The good alone true joy can find." "And when I die," the year declares

"On winter's next return, I leave to you my precious heirs, Whate'er of good I learn; Then I shall send my brother dear, Another friendly good New Year. SEIDEL.

Lieut. W. T. Ulens, of Parkhill, has een awarded the Military Cross.

The Amhersburg high school re-opened Dec. 30th, to atone for the loss of time during November and December, The school will keep open six days a week until Easter. This is a wise move and should be followed by other schools. Mrs. Boyce one of the early residents of Petrolea, died in North Dakota last week in her 100th year.

The two boys of Dewitt, Iowa, who started to raise hogs with a capital of $25 tour years ago, and who now own a herd of 600, must be no ordinary boys, but they show what is possible.

G. Mars Donaldson, of Strathroy, was found dead in bed on Friday morning. He lived alone and it is supposed that he died Christmas night. This week a barrel of Northern Spy

This week a barrel of Northern Spy apples was shipped to order, by express, to London, England. The express charges from Orillia amounted to some-thing over $28. A fortnight ago it was stated in the Packet that apples were selling in London as high as 75 cents a pound. This statement is confirmed in a letter from London received this week by Mr. C Miller Sevents for cents a by Mr. C. Miller. Seventy-five cents a

There seemed no valid reason for Austria's continuing to be except that she did not know how not to be. She she did not know now not to be. She was the undesired and inhospitable refuge of fragments of population, peoples that wanted to be free but were not to be trusted with freedom. were not to be trusted with freedom. She represented Europe's quandary over quarrelling groups of Czechs, Croatians, Serbs, Slovenes, Poles, Hungarians and Austro-Germans, good haters all, who were lashed to-gether to prevent them from using their fists. In short, Austria was an elternative to a bloody Central Europ their fists. In short, Austria was an alternative to a bloody Central Euro-pean Balkans. Her internal policy, whether it turned towards absolutism or universal suffrage, towards dual-ism, trialism or what not, was mere-ly a means of keeping uncomfortably together, of maintaining a conten-tious unity, of seeking to develop a common loyalty, a "Gesammt-patriot-ismus." Her foreign policy also sought to avert the inevitable crumb-ling. Austria's allegiance to Ger-many, her bullying of Serbia, her in-constant attitude, alternately cring-ing and challenging, towards Russia were all parts of one ill-concelved were all parts of one ill-conceived policy. It was to keep alive, to pre-vent her own dismemberment, that Austria at last made the fatal decision for a war against Serbla, the final echoes of which we are hearing to-day.—The New Republic.

New Year's Day.

During the past year there were only eighty-four days on which the banks were open all over the world. On every one of the other 281 days some nation was celebrating a civil or religious holiday, or observing the Sabbath.

Sabbaln. Only one of those holidays is uni-versal. This is New Year's Day, and eleven different dates are ob-served by various countries as the beginning of a new year. Five Chris-tian countries do not observe Christ-mas as a legal boliday mas as a legal holiday. Brazil leads the nations in the number of its holidays. It has eighty-four, and the United States is second with fifty-four. France observes eighteen formal holidays dur-ing the year, and Italy twenty-three. Among the other nations, Germany, it is presumed, will observe twenty days; Great Britain sixteen, Japan fifteen and Russia seventeen.

Among the favorite months for holidays the world over, November leads, with twenty-six out of its pos-sible thirty days. May comes next with twenty-five.—Tit-Bits.
