Movie-Making in Canadian Rockies

1—Directing an Alaskan drama in Alberta. 2—A Northern villain hiding in the Rockies. 3—A scene from "The Alaskan" featuring Thomas Meighan and screened near Banff. 4—Thomas Meighan.

While it may be true that in the making of moving pictures Canada lags a trifle behind the United States, there is at least one particular in which American producers are becoming more and more dependant upon the Dominion for the proper production of their super-films. And that particular is scenery.

They may have their stars, their mechanical contrivances, their experience and their wealth, but during the past few years they have learned that for sheer beauty of scenery and splendor of "settings", the Canadian Pacific Rocky Mountains are unsurpassable. That this discovery was made at all is due mainly to one, Mr. Ernest Shipman.

Two or three years ago it occurred to Mr. Shipman (who has produced some notable pictures in his time) that there were certain spots in the Rocky Mountains, such as Banff, Lake Louise, Emerald Lake and their environs, which were, on account of their singular beauty, admirably adapted to the production of Northern dramas.

So he marshalled his forces, placed his beloved megaphone securely under his arm and embarked, via the Canadian Pacific Railway, for the Rocky Mountains.

Here, with Henry MacRae directing, he proceeded to film "The Foreigner" near the shores of Lake Louise, with the magnificent mountains for a background, and, for a stage, one of the most exquisite spots on earth. The result was that not only did he produce a splendid picture but that the Rockies sprang into instant popularity as a setting for northern dramas.

Since then scores of other "super-films" have been produced and many villains have paid the penalty of their foul deeds, many modest maidens have yielded to the wooing of strong, silent men; many dauntless heroes have faced the nameless terrors of the Alaskan wilds, on the peaceful shores of Emerald Lake and the innocent highway between Banff and Windermere.

Among the most notable pictures screened entirely or in part, with the Rockies for a background, are "Back to God's Country", "The River's End", "The Alaskan", "Empty Hands", "The Sky Pilot", "Glen-garry School-days", "The Man From Glen-garry", "The Valley of Silent Men", "Frisolous Sal", "Strongheart" and "The Foreigner".

The chances are, then, that when you sit in your favorite movie house and gaze in silent admiration on the forbidding beauty of Alaska, the hills of Shasta or the still Sierras, you are, in reality, gazing at something far nearer home, not nearly so forbidding and infinitely more beautiful—the Rocky Mountains themselves.

So, America may have her Hollywood and her monopoly of the industry, but now that the value of the Rockies as a place where people may shoot the rapids, kill each other, make love, win fortunes and indulge in the other pleasant pastimes peculiar to moviedom, has been realized, it is to be hoped that Canada's position in the realm of the silent drama will shortly become more prominent than it has been in the past.

The Rockies are now easily accessible, there are Canadian Pacific hotels at some of the most attractive points, the light, atmosphere and other conditions are good, and there is no reason in the world why they should not eventually become a veritable "Hollywood of the Hills."

County Roads:—The report of advisory committee compiled after a trip over the county road system was received and the estimated expenditures and the designation of the roads on which the outlays were to be made this year was the business before the Lambton county council at a special session here on Thursday and Friday. The estimated outlay for the year totals $156,000 of which $80,000 will be raised by the levy of rates and $76,000 is made up from subsidies for last year's work. War-

Requisite on the Farm—Every farmer and stock-raiser should keep a supply of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil on hand, not only as a ready remedy for ills in the family, but because it is a horse and cattle medicine of great potency. As a substitute for sweet oil for horses and cattle affected by colic it far surpasses anything that can be administered.

"As indispensable as the Telephone"

"As indispensable as the Telephone" is now a favourite slogan used by many large manufacturers in their advertising, when describing their goods.

A frank recognition that speed of communication is the most vital factor in expanding business and social life.

Indeed, a firm's position in the business world may be fairly judged by the extent to which it uses the telephone—and especially Long Distance.

We now handle an average of over 41,000 Long Distance calls a day.

Costs a family less than 2% of its annual outlay.
