(1) Figures of intake do not represent actual strength of the armed services, as they do not take into consideration men discharged for medical or other reasons, personnel mentioned, casualties incurred and other factors.

(2) Population figures for the age group 18 to 45 (as at June 2, 1941) were estimated from summaries of the 1941 census which had been published in 5-year and 10-year age groups.

(3) Army appointments and enlistments do not include Reserve Army personnel called out on active service, from time to time, under various general orders.

(4) The above figures of enrolments, National Resources Mobilization Act, include only those men actually documented as NRMA recruits. Men who reported to training centres or to depots on being called up, but who volunteered immediately and were never documented as NRMA recruits, are included with appointments and enlistments.

(5) This column consists of men discharged from the army for the purpose of joining the navy (1,721 to June 30; 1,746 to September 30) or air force (10,209 to June 30 and September 30) and men enrolled under NRMA who subsequently volunteered for general service (57,034 to June 30; 57,309 to Sept. 30). No similar deduction has been made from navy or air force enlistments for personnel discharged therefrom to join other services.
