

hope, but from the Welfare of his Country; and nothing to fear, but from her Enemies. Uninfluenc'd as I am by Ambition, and unconnected with Party, my sole Study is to preserve that good Opinion of my Friends, that plac'd me in Parliament, by a steady and disinterested Conduct there. And if this Paper shall have any Effect to that Purpose, I shall not think the few Hours I have bestow'd upon it, misemploy'd.

I am, Sir, with great Esteem,

Your most obedient Servant.
