

The single plot of Anglo-Canadian wheat had the leaves badly, stems considerably and heads slightly rusted; the growth was uneven and patchy and the height 3 feet 6 inches to 4 feet.

It will be seen that all the varieties experimented with suffered from rust, the wheat being injured most. It is proposed to continue this line of experimental work next year at all the Experimental Farms.

broken.

heads
badly.

broken.

heads badly.

heads
lodged.

heads badly.