"Dundonald Incident" Victims To Have Their Wrongs Righted

Hon. Mr. Hughes Will Elevate
Col. Smart and Col. Gregory. Second dragoons, St. Catharines, was dismissed for political reasons, despite energetic attempts to save him by Lord Dundonald, who had a high opinion of him as a cavalry of fice. The unfavorable judgment on Gregory has been reversed, and while there is no vacancy for him as brigadier at present, expectation is that he will ge the first vacant cavalry brigade in his district.

Substantial Aid to Cadets.

OTTAWA, Dec. 24.—(Special.)—Hon. Sam Hughes is making a number of appointments that at once indicate a resolve to retrieve past injustices and a full disposition to march with the times.

One of the side issues of the Dundonald dispute was the injustice with which Lieut.-Col. Smart, 13th Scottish Light Dragoons, was treated. This officer was selected by Lord Dundonald to raise a regiment, and when Mr. Fisher took the nomination of the officers out of Dundonald's hands. Col. Smart stood by his general. As a result, he was dismissed.

Col. Hughes has gone into his case and has caused him to be appointed brigadier of a new cavalry brigade to be constituted in the eastern townships, the present one having six regisments and so being unwieldly. Col. Smart, who is a good soldier, is to command it.

Another side issue of the Dundonald a batch of appointments which indicate the adoption of a vigorous policy with regard to the cadet movement. A change has taken place at headquarters, Capt. Borden, who was the staff officer for the cadets, vacating the appointment and taking the appointment of staff officer for the same purpose at Halifax. He exchanges appointments with Capt. Costin, R.C.R., who comes to the headquarters from Halifax, to look after the cadet movement. Capt. S. H. Hill, 8th Royal Rifles, becomes staff officer for cadets in Quebec City. In the west, Lieut.-Col Gwynne, Light Horse, who already has done remarkable work with cadets in Saskatchewan.

Another western military district.
