Ontario Will Spend Nearly $13,000,000 This Year on Development, Which Will Be Amply Justified.

The property of the province and the expectations of ever-increasing prosperity are well indicated by the estimitted to the legislature on Thursday, the total for the year ending, Oct. 31. 1912, amounts to $12,937,106.19. This is more than last year. It is probably more than any year in the history of added outlays. Ontario is the premier province of the Dominion. Bridges are being built in every part of the province. Rivers are being crossed and a network of highways will soon stretch over the country. Why worry about comparisons? The assets and liabilities of a prosperous province such as this need cause little worry. The balance will continue to be on the right side.

Her rendering of the "Spring Song," by Woodman, being extremely delightful. The other assisting artist, Mr. John Craig, sang flaydn's aria, "With Joy the Impatient Husbandman," from "The Seasons," in splendid style and clear enunciation. Miss Madelon Thomson was the excompanist. The Nordman was the excompanist and no doubt made many friends for themselves and the beautiful Steinway piano, which always gives added enjoyment wherever it is used.

OTTAWA, March 31.-(Special.)-Ucess the United States Congress at the present session approves of the regu-ations, which have been drafted by he commissioners appointed by the nterrational fisheries treaty, signed between the republic and the Dominion on April 11, 1908, it is likely that the Canadian Government will withdraw from the treaty.

Altho the treaty was signed four years ago and the commissioners, conisting of Prof. Prince, representing Canada, and Dr. David Starr Jordon, representing the United States, prepared a ccde of regulations which were agreed to 11 May 19, 1999, the American congress have never ratified

The British Columbia members, who are particularly interested, have been strongly urging that Canada withdraw from the treaty, and officials of the department who have made a report to Hon. J. D. Hazeh, minister of mavine and fisheries, also recommend consideration of withdrawal unless the United States acts at once.

The treaty was originally entered in to with a view of protecting the fish-cries along the Great Lakes and international boundaries waters. Unless there is common action by the two countries and similar laws and reguations as to closed seasons, etc., it is almost impossible to protect fisheries in waters common to both nations. Demonstration for Home

DUBLIN, March 31.—(Can. Press.)—Many thousands of residents and others who arrived on special trains, attended a great home rule demonstration here to-day, Four big platforms had been erected on O'Connell-street, from which the speakers addressed the crowds. All the buildings in the vicinity were decorated. 'A hundred bands participated and the principal corporations, except that of Belfast, attended in state.

Green flags with the words, "We Want Home Rule," were displayed everywhere. John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish parliamentary party: William Redmond, M.P., for East Clare; John Dillon, M.P. for Best Clare; John Redmond predicted that a home rule parliament would be established on College Green sooner than the most sanguine there expected.

Ballots for the referendum vote by the bituminous miners, it is said, will be sent out from the national miners' headquarters in this city as soon as the national president, John P. White, and the other officials return here from Cleveland. It will take more than two weeks to take the vote, as not all of the locals meet every week. Then it will take some time to canvas the vote, so the bitumionus miners are not expected to resume work under a month.

The suspension does not affect all of the mines in the south as the union is not so strong south of the Ohio River as it is in the northern states. The mines of Wyoming, Washington, Colorado and Montana also will not be affected, because the union contracts in those districts do not expire April 1.

benches have supported him with fainous zeal.

It is now plain that the chancellor's influence is a spent force and that he is no longer the power behind the leader. The prime minister will have full credit if the strike be settled by the minimum wage act, and the various factions in the coalition will be dependent upon his retention in the leadership. It may be an open question whether the government possesses sufficient vitality or authority for enacting home rule and Welsh disestablishment in the course of the next two years. Certainly Mr. Asquith is the only leader capable of holding the forces together. His retirement under the stress of what must have been almost intolerable physical and mental strain would be followed speedily by a general election.

Reaction Against Woman Suffrage.

Reaction Against Woman Suffrage.

The defeat of the conciliation bill has disposed of the troublesome suffrage question for the session and released ministers from the necessity for playing hide and seek on opposite platforms and in the division loshies. The window smashing and other vagaries of the extremists have set back the woman suffrage cause by a decade and brought pathologists like Sir Almroth Wright to the front with physiological pleas and scientific explanations of the hysteria of the militant suffragettes. The latter have a big war chest, which can be replenished with $56,000 after a single meeting in the Albert Hall, and they have reserves of power for arousing enthusiasm and appealing to passion for excitement, but a tremendous reaction against the cause has set in.

The reform bill, with its famous saffrage rider, is not likely to be introduced this year, and a private bill for the abolition of plural voting may be adopted as an official measure.

A Big Surplus.

Mr. Lloyd George will have a large surplus for parade when he makes his budget speech, accompanied as it will be by a fresh demonstration of the elasticity of the revenue, when the haves are scientifically bled for the benefit of the have nots.

Mr. Redmond has been smiling since his admission to a private conference at No. 10 Downling-street, and the financial difficulties over home rule are reported to be less serious than the pessimists (or the Unionist optimists) expected. Radicals are whistling shrilly to keep up their courage, but they know how-determimed and irresistible is the opposition to home rule in the north of Ireland and how widespread is the resistance to the Insurance Act, not only among domestic servants, but among work people as well.

England Bitterly Disappointed,
LONDON, March 31.—(Can. Press.)—
The long and impatiently awaited news of Captain Scott's Antarctic expedition has at last arrived, but will bring the keenest disappointment to the cherished hopes of all Englishmen that the British expedition might after all prove

British expedition might after all prove to be the first in the race for the south pole.

On January 3, nearly three weeks after Amundsen hoisted the Norwegian flag at the pole. Scott still had 150 miles to cover before attaining the object of his desire.

Since the news of Amundsen's successful attempt. Englishmen have built great hopes on Capt. Scott emulating, if not surpassing, the Norwegian's achievement. It was known that Scott had chosen the longer route, and as Amundsen's experience proved, the more difficult route, but, presuming that he was favored by the same exceptional weather conditions as Amundsen. Now comes the disappointing news that Scott is spending another winter in the Antarctic, and there will be further weary walting before it can be known whether he even succeeded in reaching the pole. According to some of Capt. Scott's intimate friends here, however, no surprise need be felt at his decision to spend another winter in the south, this having been within the original scope of his intentions. They suggest that he may have learned of Amundsen's exploit, and thereupon determined to attempt a great journey across the ice barrier, returning from the side almost opposite to that from which he started his journey.

If this is so, the Terra Nova probably received instructions to meet Scott at some fixed date at a point on the barrier opposite Graham Land, not far to the south of Cape Horn. It will be remembered that the German expedition is working from that side and it is possible that the two parties may meet.

The premier's speech was an appeal for a more concise statement of the city's objections to the bills. He requested Issac Campbell, K.C., one of the city's counsel, to prepare such a statement and presentation to the committee, and consideration of the bills was postponed until Monday, when the statement will be read.
