Refuses Liberals' Request.

Efforts of the Liberals to persuade the Government to provide and pay counsel to represent the Opposition before the royal commission to inquire into the Dewart charges against officials of the license board, were bluntly refused by the prime minister and the attorney-general in the Legislature this afternoon. They similarly refused to accede to the request of Wm. Proudfoot, K.C., the Opposition leader, backed by Mr. Dewart, K.C., to have the royal commissioner, Sir William Meredith, investigate not only the specific charges made by the members of For Southwest Toronto, but also "the enforcement of the liquor license act, and the enforcement of the Ontario" lightly as a meeting should be a deep, dark green if they imposed the sight of my husband's beloved figure once more in his place at the head of the family board, a place I had often feared with a terrified thrill that he would never fill again. But here he was, thinner, yet still bronzed and athletic, the only difference being his crippled arm, which, however, he had found time to assure me—in his characteristic phraseology—was "nothing in the world to throw a fit about."

So happily I cut up his food and helped him as unobtrusively as I could, too blissfully excited myself to do more oblissfully excited myself to do

[Special to The Advertiser,]
TORONTO, March 27.—This morning the public accounts committee was organized and plans were made to begin the investigation of the public accounts for the last six years relating to the license board and enforcement of the ontario temperance act, following upon the charges of H. Hartley Dewart last week against Chief Inspector J. A Ayearst.

Three motions were made for the production of all accounts for the past year of the license board and the appearance before the committee was possible by giving up Dicky to her as soon as we entered the house. That first give evidence of Inspector Ayearst, provincial officer, and Solicitor Saunders.

Mr. Dewart moved for the production of sasistance to Katie, had kept me learning and a humine was ready to be served. The flaving of the table, that arrangement of the flowers, the last bits of assistance to Katie, had kept me learning at the gate, and a plans were made for the production of all accounts for the past year of the license board and the appearance before the committee was possible by giving upon Dicky to her as soon as we entered the house.
