the Fur Coat Reigns Supreme

We imported the styles, imported the pelts, and made them here. And by doing that we made sure of the matching and the quality of the skins; kept every whit of the charm of the imported models, and saved the high duties on the finished garments.

The huge Russian collar is a new feature—a big shawl-shaped affair, rounding almost to the waist. Big jeweled buttons—as artistic as can be—are another new feature, as is the increased richness of the linings.

Controller Hocken, who was the speaker of the afternoon, explained the nature of the tube railway. He claimed it would eliminate largely the slums of the city and make it possible for the working people to travel chearly and ramidly.

"I have just returned from New York where I paid particular attention to this method of transportation, and I found that I could go from Bleeckerstreet to a point representing the distance between King and Sinclair-avenue in 15 minutes.

"If proper facilities are not installed quickly," he said, "we will have tenement houses in the city. As all know, tenement houses are not a desirable addition to any place, but when they come it is impossible to get rid of them. If, however, we have the tube railway there would be no need of them. The accommodation, I might say that I have homes, but would also give the children not had a seat on a car for over four tubes would not only mean cheaper commodation, I might say that I have homes, but would also give the children not had a seat on a car for over four

"They say that the tubes will cost 5 million dollars," said Joseph Murphy of the New York Underwriter's Agen-cy, "but if it cost double that amount, We have got to have such a system, and we may as well face the proposi-tion now, instead of putting it on one side for a few years."

Many people prefer the grand plane to the upright, but have always found them too large for their drawing-room. To overcome this Heintzman & Co., 115-117 West King-street, have made what they call a Miniature Grand. This
