

In the royal navy, and a revolver. The Kaiser expressed his general approval of the new uniform, only suggesting changes in a few trifling details.

Oldsmobile Climbs the Andes.
A cablegram received on Saturday last by the Oldsmobile Works from Buenos Ayres, Argentina, brought the news that Ramon Camano, in company with a party of friends, performed the remarkable feat of crossing the Andes in an Oldsmobile light coupe car. The trip was made from Buenos Ayres to Chili, and traversed for many hundred miles the roughest pampas roads, making the ascent of Cordillera Mendoza, on the Chilean side of the Andes, which is 13,000 feet above the sea. The trip was a complete success. The dangerous descent of Cordillera Mendoza was safely negotiated, and the daring tourist arrived at the sea coast of Chili without mishap.

Pined for Having Nasty Car.
Because his car made too much noise while standing in the street, an automobilist in England was fined $2 and costs, amounting to $10.

A policeman first noticed the automobile and checked it for "eight minutes," and still the noise continued. The watch of the policeman, who did not agree with that of the automobilist, as the driver declared he was only away from the automobile two minutes. The magistrate deemed it only natural that the officer of the law was right, and fined the automobilist under the Motor Car Act "for not using means to prevent his car making an unnecessary noise."

Dr. Doolittle in Buffalo.
The automobile school conducted by the Buffalo Young Men's Christian Association was opened Thursday evening, when an introductory address was given by Dr. Perry E. Doolittle, president of the Toronto Automobile Club. Stereoscopic views of 1935 cars were shown. At the close of the meeting an informal reception to Dr. Doolittle was held in the association rooms, where light refreshments were served.

J. C. Level, Niagara Falls, who for years has had the reservation concession on the state reservation, announces that horse-drawn vehicles will be a thing of the past with him the coming summer.

It is his intention the coming season to place in commission three large automobiles, with a carrying capacity of at least 24 persons, and as soon as the demand requires additional cars will be placed in commission. Level has long considered this move, and is of the opinion that the horseless carriage in its present state of perfection is far preferable to the horse in the matter of economy and comfort.

It is quite likely that the Ford Motor Works of Detroit will establish an automobile factory in New Westminster, B. C., within a few months. The company will also make all classes of gasoline motors for launches.

Got a $3000 Car for $1.

It is not everyone who can purchase a new four-cylinder Royal Tourist, listed at $3000, for the insignificant sum of $1, but T. B. Perrier, of Pontiac, Ill., is a man who has this distinction. Perrier was the lucky guesser in a contest conducted by the Royal Tailors Association of Chicago.

Examining.

In Semi-ready Tailoring nothing is left to chance. Out system of specializing reduces to a minimum the chance of any detail being overlooked, but that's not sure enough.

Every suit is carefully examined by a high class tailor before it leaves our tailors; some of our employees say he is a crank. They say he won't let work pass which is considered excellent by the average tailor. They say he will have nothing less than perfection. Well that's exactly what we pay him a big salary for, and we consider he earns it too.

PITTSBURG ORCH. STRA HEARD

Enjoyable Concert Held on Saturday Afternoon in Massey Hall.

Another splendid audience listened to the third of the Mendelssohn Choir series of concerts this afternoon at Massey Hall. The program presented was entirely orchestral, with the exception of a violin solo by Concert Master Louis Van Kunitz, the orchestra's principal violinist.

The wonderful state of excellence to which the conductor, Dr. Emil Paul, has brought the orchestra was evidenced at once in the opening number of the prelude to the third act of "Lohengrin." From the beginning of the number in pianissimo, as the great motive is introduced, to the magnificent climax, with full orchestra, this beautiful musical poem of Wagner's was played in a manner seldom, if ever, heard in Toronto.

Technikovsky's symphony in B minor, No. 6, called pathetic, because some critics have assumed that the composer, while writing this, the last of his great works, had a premonition of an early death, was rendered by the orchestra under Dr. Paul's baton in a manner thoroughly in keeping with a proper understanding of the masterpiece. The probable interpretation of the symphony is that it adequately represents the Russian character, from which melancholy is seldom long absent. Even in the wildest orgies there is always a minor chord, and it may have been the revulsion of feeling expressed in the third movement, that was responsible for the brooding, mysterious solemnity of the finale.

The playing of the whole of this exacting number was masterly.

The delicacy of the adagio, the restrained beauty of "Allegro Con Grazia," the tumultuous force of the "Allegro Molto Vivace," followed by the lamentation of the finale, was nothing short of magnificent.

In the closing number of the program, the prelude and closing scene from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde," the music of this great love drama was rendered with great artistic effect. The exquisite softness of the earlier passages to the triumphant defiance of the "Allegro Molto Vivace" to musical and artistic faculties.

The interpretation of the two movements of Mendelssohn's only concerto for the violin was all that could be desired; the lightness, grace and fairylike beauty of the movements were admirably brought out, and the accompaniment of the orchestra was as harmonious as the background of an exquisite picture.

Why is there so much said about purity in business in this twentieth century? Simply because there is so much adulteration. You can scarcely purchase an article of commerce to-day but has its counterfeit by adulteration, and the same in the bread market, every baker says his bread is the best.

HUNT CLUB'S FOURTH DRIVE BIG SUCCESS ON SATURDAY

Many Members in Sleighs Regardless of the Cold Wind—Those Present.

There was considerable excitement around the guns in the Queen's Park on Saturday afternoon, when the fourth meet for this winter of the driving section of the Toronto Hunt Club took place. The wind was bitterly cold, with the result that the horses would not stand and there were very nearly several mix-ups with tandem leaders, who, wisely, they thought, refused to be placed on exhibition this unseasonable weather. However, with the assistance of expert groomers and the master calling the start sharp at the hour mentioned in the invitations, matters were put to rights and all got away safely, many of the equines showing their skill by stepping to their blows and looking their best.

It was a pretty sight as the cavalcade drove round the east circle of the park. There were tandems, pairs, one unicorn, a large number of single sleighs and saddle horses to no end. The master, who led, reached St. Alban's street before the last trap left Sir John Macdonald's stable, so that no one can doubt as to the popularity of the sport. The full pack of hounds were there, in charge of Mumford and two whips and looked as fit as the proverbial fiddle. Several dealers turned out to show the members their superb animals, among them being Crow & Murray with that grand pair Sporting Duchess and Empress; T. Holston, manager for John Macdonald, drove a rather green pair of cobs, tandem, who nearly got him into a mess thru some fancy plunging they did; Mr. Gregory drove a high-stepping brown cob to a light cutter.

Some of those riding horseback were Miss Muriel Barrie, Mr. Dinckley, Mr. Pote, Dr. D. K. Smith, Mr. Sandy Smith, Mr. Shirley Stewart, Hugh Wilson, Teddy English and a lot of others. The master led off round the park at a good smart pace, driving a tandem of a pair of blacks. Immediately behind Mr. Beardmore came Dr. Young, accompanied by Mrs. Young, driving his favorite pair of hackneys, tandem. Following the doctor drove Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Clarke, tandem; then Mr. Arthur Reinhardt with a tandem; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beardmore, a spanking tandem of bays. Some distance behind came Col. Stimson and party on a coach, driving unicorn, followed by Mrs. J. J. Dixon and Miss Boulton, a pair; Mr. Widower Hawke, a pair; Mr. Harry Beatty, single; Col. Williams, single; Dr. Charles Temple, single; Mr. John Rogers, single; Mr. H. C. Tomlin, single; Dr. A. A. Macdonald, single and half a score of others, followed by a squadron of cavalry made up of the ladies and gentlemen who prefer the saddle to driving. The route was round the park, St. George, Bedford-road, Vancouver-road, down St. George-street, and Beverley to John, east on Adelaide street and thence by Eastern-avenue to the Hunt Club, where the members stayed for dinner and a dance.
