The Rip-Roaring Comedy Now Convulsing New York City LET'S GET MARRIED with Lois Wilson a Garamount Fleture

THE YARN'S SOMETHING LIKE THIS:-

FTER BEING ARRESTED FOR HAVING DISTURBED

AFTER BEING ARRESTED FOR HAVING DISTURBED the peaceful quiet of the night club with a big brawl and free-for-all, Richard promises to reform and become what his father wants him to be—a successful hymn book salesman. Then he meets Lois, and renews his vows of chastity to her.

Our hero goes to call on his first prospect, a "J. W. Smith," purchasing agent for missionaries. Expecting to find a quiet dignified gentleman, he equips himself with concert tickets. Imagine his surprise to find that "J. W." is a woman—and what a woman! Edna May Oliver has the time of her life. She insists on going to a night club, and they land in the same one where Richard is known for only two things—trouble and fighting. The inevitable happens. Lois enters and Dix exits—to the police court. 'Sentenced to a thirty-day prison term, he writes Lois a series of letters describing his adventures in the South Seas, where he is presumably selling hymnals to the natives. TWICE DAILY-4 P.
