

SHIP NAVIGATOR TELLS TROUBLE

Was so Run-down He Had to Lay Off—Tanlac Certainly Put Me on My Feet.

John Willis, a young navigator, living at 83 McFarland street, St. John, Newfoundland, is still another who has cause to be glad he was induced by his friends to give Tanlac an honest trial. "Tanlac has certainly fixed me up in line shape," said Mr. Willis while discussing the medicine at Connor's drug store in St. John, recently, "and I believe it will do the same thing for anyone who gives it a fair trial."

Mr. Willis was for four years in overseas service with the Royal Reserves of the British navy.

"I had been in a badly run-down condition for several months," he explained, "my appetite left me, I could not eat much and lost weight continually. Sleep was almost impossible for me. I would be awake for hours and get up mornings feeling as bad as when I went to bed, or worse. My nerves became all upset and I got so weak the least exertion would leave me all out of breath. Then my stomach got out of fix so that what little I did eat disagreed with me. I suffered from indigestion and couldn't walk a block at an ordinary pace without feeling all in."

"I dropped down fifteen pounds in weight in just a few weeks and all my energy left. I simply got to where I couldn't work and nothing seemed to do me any good. I had read a good deal about Tanlac, several of my friends had also told me about it, so I got a bottle and before it was half gone I was eating like a wolf. I am eating just as well as I ever did before now and while I have just finished my second bottle of Tanlac I have already gotten back several pounds of my lost weight and am still gaining. All that tired, worn-out feeling has left me and I am just brimming with new life and energy. My nerves have quieted down so that I am now getting plenty of good, sound sleep and I am feeling so much stronger and better in every way that I am going back on the job in just a day or so. Tanlac has certainly put me on my feet and I am glad to give this statement to let in letting others know about it."

"Tanlac is sold in St. John by Ross Drug Company and by W. Munro under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative." (Advt.)

BURNED BY DAMP MATCHES.

London, Dec. 24.—A curious story of damp matches bursting into flames with any apparent cause, and resulting in the death of a girl who carried them, was told at the inquest. Grace Bartels was employed at a factory and with another girl carried trays of newly-made safety matches to the drying room, where they all ignited. Miss Bartels was fatally burned.

PROSPERITY IN IRELAND

Farmers' Bank Deposits More Than Double Those of 1918.

REDMOND'S TRIBUTE

Self-Government Prevails—Huge Grants from Government—The Farmers Are Now the Landlords.

One of the Ulster delegates to the United States gave in New York this week the following account of conditions in Ireland:

"I have obtained from a chartered accountant a statement showing the deposits in nine Irish joint stock banks for four particular years. In 1913 the amount was $386,000,000 in 1917, $502,000,000; in 1918, $661,000,000; and in 1919, $764,000,000."

Redmond's Tribute.

"The total deposits are now, therefore, more than double what they were in 1913. The bulk of the deposits come from the farming classes, and reflect the great prosperity of agriculture in Ireland. Speaking in Dublin on July 1, 1915, Mr. John Redmond said:

"Today, people, broadly speaking, own the soil. Today laborers live in decent habitations; today there is absolute freedom in local government and local taxation of the country; today we have the widest parliamentary and municipal franchise. The congested districts have been transformed. The farms have been enlarged; decent dwellings have been provided, and a new spirit of hope and independence is today among the people. In town, legislation has been passed facilitating the housing of the working classes, a piece of legislation far in advance of anything obtained for the town tenants of England."

"We have a system of old age pensions in Ireland, whereby every old man and woman over 70 is safe from the workhouse and free to spend their last days in comparative comfort."

"If that was true in 1915, it is more than true in 1919. Ireland is now so exceedingly prosperous as she is at this moment. In spite of the fact that one of our district councils, the Dublin and Fingert, which every old man and woman over 70 is safe from the workhouse and free to spend their last days in comparative comfort."

"This is seen in the case of our secondary schools, for we simply cannot find room for the pupils who are clamoring for admission, because farmers and business people have greater means than they had before. As to the wages of the laboring and working classes, they have gone up by leaps and bounds."

Self-Government.

"In 1898 a system of local government was established in Ireland. With the exception of education, which is upon a different basis, the Irish people have exactly the same control as the inhabitants of England, Wales, or Scotland over the levying and spending of the rates of the country, the elected representatives of the people have an absolute voice."

"We have a system of local government comprising county councils, urban and rural district councils. The demand therefore for self-government is a demand for exceptional treatment, Ireland should have rights and privileges which no other part of the United Kingdom enjoys. Again, since 1898 Ireland has been dealt with by Great Britain in a spirit of real generosity. The huge grants for land purchase, the figures in pounds but you can multiply by five to obtain the equivalent in dollars. Free grants for land purchase, twelve million pounds; to build laborers' cottages so that the people should be better housed, three million pounds; to construct light railways so as to give employment, and also in the export of produce, three million pounds; when tenants were evicted because they could not pay their rent, two hundred and fifty thousand pounds was given to help them get new holdings."

Lavish Grants.

"The technical education there was given two million five hundred thousand pounds and for primary education five million pounds. For university education three hundred and forty thousand pounds was the contribution for the University Grants. The grant for the University Grants was three hundred and fifty thousand pounds. The grant for county councils and local bodies was fifteen million pounds, and these sums were actually given to Ireland for these purposes. But the greatest relief of all was the new Land Purchase Act. In my young days the whole trouble in Ireland was over the land question. The most powerful organization opposed to the government of the country was the Land League. There were constant outrages and many landlords were murdered. There is no doubt that the Irish tenant did suffer the greatest wrong. But those wrongs have been righted. They do not exist today. By degrees the Irish farmer has been placed in a position second to none. The British government actually advanced the huge sum of one hundred and fifty million pounds to enable the farmers to purchase their holdings, the annual rate of interest being only 60 per cent. of their previous rents. The farmers themselves therefore have become the landlords of Ireland."

EIGHT HOUR DAY ON FARM

Text of Address by Master of Dominion Grange

Says it Would Mean Dollar Butter—Declares it Good for the People as Such a Move Would 'Jar Them Back to a Level of Commonsense.'

The despatches the other day carried part of an address by J. C. Dixon at the grange meeting in Toronto. The Toronto Globe gives the following extended report:

"An eight-hour day on the farm can be made entirely practical," declared J. C. Dixon, Warfield, Dominion Grange master, at the forty-fifth annual convention of that organization in the Carlton hotel yesterday afternoon. "True, such a readjustment will mean 30 cents a quart for milk, 82 a peck for potatoes, 82 a bushel for wheat, and butter 81 a pound." He suggested that the farmers unite in demanding an eight-hour day to help 'jar the Canadian people back to a level of commonsense.' The master's address was adopted unanimously.
