MOB DEMOLISHES NEW SANITARIUM

Dublin, Ireland, July 22-A nearly completed consumption sanitarium under construction at Liscannore, a village about seven miles to the west of the city, under the auspices of Lady Aberdeen and the A. N. S. National Health Association, was demolished today by Irish dwellers in the vicinity.

The mob, armed with ropes and pick axes, tore off the roof and then threw down the walls, leaving nothing but a debris.

SERIOUSLY INJURED. At least one of the ladies who were in the bus accident yesterday in the Red Head road, to which reference is made elsewhere, is quite seriously hurt. It is believed that her shoulder blade is broken and her leg painfully hurt as well. The young man who drove the wagon is supposed to be in bed, also being severely hurt about the head. Another woman had her wrist sprained.

WAS ALSO IN ST. JOHN. A Socialist member of the Alberta legislature, who addressed a large open-air meeting from the bandstand at Amherst, last summer, was arrested and locked up in Calgary last Tuesday evening on a charge of obstructing the street. A large crowd of nearly two thousand persons followed O'Brien to the city prison. He was later released on a $250 bond.

CARD OF THANKS. Mr. and Mrs. J. McKinley wish to particularly thank the doctors and nurses of the General Public Hospital, also Mr. Stewart, for their great kindness and patience in their treatment of Edward McKinley. Great credit is due to the doctors, especially Dr. Murray, McIntyre, for the way they handled this most difficult case. After being completely helpless with paralysis since last December, the boy is now able to get around again and was taken home yesterday.

DIRTY WORK. A well known motor boat owner of the North End had an unpleasant experience on Saturday afternoon, when he found, in coming down river, that someone had helped himself liberally to his store of gasoline. His launch had been at the Cedars during last week and he had placed a supply of twenty gallons of the fluid in his tanks aboard the boat. On Saturday afternoon he started to come down river, but when he about opposite Carleton's Point the craft ceased to run, and he wondered what was wrong. He stopped, and after working about the engine for a little while, to his intense surprise, he discovered that someone had helped themselves to his gasoline, leaving him very little to run on. Those who perpetrated the misdeed are not known, but their trick was certainly not sportsmanlike, to say nothing of honest. The owner of the boat reached Ingonish late in the afternoon.

ARE STIRRED BY STRANGE MURDER CASE

Proprietor of Extraordinary School Shot Down at His Door-Wife is Arrested

Paris, July 22-The country is stirred by the details of a case which bears some resemblance to that of the assassination of M. Guillotin. M. and Mme Clerc kept a school for young ladies at Sevres-or, rather, Madame did, while Monsieur was an artist-engraver. On Monday night the couple went to the theatre in Paris, returning at a quarter to the late train, reaching home about half past one in the morning. Just as they reached the door a shot rang and Clerc fell mortally wounded. He died without being able to give any clue to the murderer.

Mme. Clerc affirms that her husband was not alone, but that she was with him on which to keep house. There were twenty-three girls in the school, whose parents paid between $6.20 and $8.25 monthly. There were several children in the Clerc family itself, three servants, and various members. Not only did the institution flourish, but it appears that the Clercs had laid by nearly $20,000.

Why, they say the judges, was the woman always grumbling about money, and, finally why have her husband murdered? The suspicion is that the school served as the refuge for children whom their parents intended ultimately to abandon. The murderer, a man named Parratt, seems to have left his own child with strangers till she was nine years old, and then to have sent for a year or two to Mme. Clerc before propounding her servant's place in the house. He was, however, a man of high intelligence, and he spent 8000 left by her in foolish expenses, and then, having no means of living, imagined that the simplest way was to feign madness and be kept in case and idleness in a lunatic asylum. His mind, however, was evidently slightly unbalanced, and the body of his wife had been incriminated, whenever he saw the head of a motor car he used to get out in terror that he saw the flames of the crematorium.

Last Thursday Parratt obtained leave from the asylum, and commissioned a friend to buy him a revolver. According to Mme. Clerc's story he came to visit her, and when she related the sufferings she endured through the intolerable aridity and humidity of her husband, he offered her $100 to rid her of him. Without thoroughly realizing what she was doing, she consented. It is almost certain that the crime must have been pre-arranged; otherwise Parratt would scarcely have been lurking outside the house in the small hours of the morning waiting for the return of the pair from the theatre.

Again, when her husband fell, Madame seems to have gone to the nearest doctor and told him that her husband was slightly wounded, but that it was not worth while for him to come if he would tell her what to do. The doctor recommended injections of iodine, and Madame went quietly home and to bed while the unfortunate man lay dying in the next room on the sofa.

The Clerc had eight children, of whom three are still living. A search has been made for the books of the school and the registers with the names of the pupils, but these appear to have been destroyed. The murderer Parratt has completely vanished, and is supposed to be hiding in the forest of Montau. He did not wear the name of Parratt, but he is found for the three servants are all former pupils abandoned by their parents, but only one, who is the daughter of a government functionary by his first wife, seems to know anything of her family history.

MAN'S INCONSISTENCY. Mrs. Peck: "My husband was such an ardent lover. You should have seen how he pressed his suit on me."

Mrs. Heck: "Yes, and now he complains because you wear the trousers."

MONTREAL TRIPLETS SET NEW RECORD

Montreal, July 22-When the stork dropped in at the Shapiro home, Eplanades Avenue, he established a new weight record for Montreal. Mrs. Shapiro gave birth to the third set of triplets added to Montreal's population this year. They consisted of two boys and one girl, and their total weight was fifteen pounds, two ounces. The previous record, held by triplets born three days ago to Mrs. William MacLachlan was thirteen pounds, fourteen ounces. Mrs. Shapiro, the Mrs. Shapiro and the Masters Shapiro are all doing well.

A POPULAR ROLE

Mrs. Rogers had the barrel of russet apples placed in the attic, because they were not quite ripe enough to eat, and she warned her three boys, whose ages range from five to eleven years, not to touch them.

Then, one rainy day, when she sought the attic to get something from a trunk, she came full upon her sons, surrounded by apple-cores. At her approach two of the boys drew closer together; but the third, a little distance off, who lay on his stomach contentedly munching an apple, apparently paid no attention to his mother's entrance.

"Jack! Henry! Willie!" she exclaimed, reproachfully. "Whatever you are doing! And those apples! Didn't I tell you not to touch them?"

"Yes, mamma," replied Jack, the eldest, "but we're not really eating them. We're eating the Garden of Eden. Willie and I are Adam and Eve, and Henry, over there, is the serpent, trying to lead us to our downfall by showing us how good the apples are."

"But," began the mother, as sternly as she was able, "you two must have been eating apples. Henry hasn't done it all I see as many as ten cores around you."

"Oh, yes," returned Willie, the youngest. "We've all been taking turns being the serpent."

"Ven, mamma," replied Jack, the eldest, "but we're not really eating them. We're eating the Garden of Eden. Willie and I are Adam and Eve, and Henry, over there, is the serpent, trying to lead us to our downfall by showing us how good the apples are."

CONDUIT IN CHARLOTTE STREET. Among the matters to be dealt with at tomorrow's meeting of the city council is a recommendation by Commissioner of Public Works that the New Brunswick Telephone Co. be granted permission to lay a conduit in Charlotte street, in order that they might lay their wires underground. Commissioner Schofield will recommend the sale of five lots just beyond Fairville station, suitable for a factory site. The matter of ferry rates postponed from a previous meeting will also come up.
