OVER NIGHT IS MUCH ENJOYED

A Fine Comedy in Good Hands at Opera House for Exhibition Week

"Over Night," a bright breezy three-act comedy, was presented to two fairly large audiences at the Opera House yesterday afternoon and last evening. The play is an exceedingly funny one, and the many complicated situations are productive of much merriment. The plot of the play is woven around the escapades of two young married couples. George Kettle, a military aviator, and Richard Kettle, a meek little man with a pronounced limp, are united in matrimony, as are Elsie Darling, a demure little maid, and Percy Darling, a strong, able-bodied chap. All four met just before embarking on the Albany Day Line S.S. "Hendrick Hudson." Mrs. Kettle goes ashore to look after a telegram. Just as they leave the boat, the whistle blows and away goes the steamer. This leaves Mrs. Darling and Mr.
Kettle on board. They meet some friends who later follow them to the Rip Van Winkle Hotel, near Houghbosque.
In many situations that arise during the time the "newly weds" are together are exceedingly funny, and the audience was kept in a constant state of uproar all during the performance. In the last act matters are settled by the assistance of Professor Diggs, a hypnotist.
To Forrest Young, as Richard Kettle, and Kathryn Bryan, as Elsie Darling, are entrusted the chief characters. Mr. Young made a very funny Mr. Kettle, and with his pronounced limp, funny actions and admirable way of smoothing things over, made a great hit with the audience. He is eminently suited to the part he plays and was accorded much hearty applause for his excellent work. He is well assisted by Miss Bryan and the other members of the cast. Howard A. Teasdale, as Percy Darling, made a great deal of deal to do, excepting in the last act, but it must be said that his pronounced limp, funny actions and admirable way of smoothing things over,

admirable way of smoothing things over,
