

It only remains for all who heard and for those who may read the proceedings of this Convention to reduce to practice the profitable instructions given, so that better than any commendation of ours, may be the blessed fruit that shall appear in a higher value and more devoted study of God's Word, more importunate prayer, stronger faith, and entire consecration to Him who loved us and gave himself for us.

WILLIAM MILLARD.

General Secretary.