The recruiting for the Engineers it was stated yesterday, is going on in a satisfactory manner. During the first fifteen days of the present month, 115 men were enrolled according to the record kept at the depot at St. John's, Que.

The Montreal Star says:

"Like a miniature village, the barracks at St. John's, Que., appears to the uninitiated.

"Lodged within the walls of this barracks are men representing all the trades that are usually found in any busy town. It is a veritable beehive of industry, for it is in this historic barracks that the Canadian Engineers are training for overseas work. The Engineers is a unit which is only recruited from among the trades and labor men. Carpenters, etc., are the class of men most needed. Skilled men joining this unit do not have to look forward to long days of barracks life; for just as soon as a man is qualified, he is sent overseas."

Lieut. McBeath and Sergeant Major Beattie are actively conducting a campaign in the city for this unit, and seldom a day passes but that they secure at least two or three men for the unit. Yesterday two men signed on for the Canadian Engineers. They were Frank Vanwart, of this city, and Garnet Gilchrist, of Cambridge, N. B.

Returned Hero at Bathurst.

Lieutenant Frank Meahan, of Bathurst, who was promoted on the field of battle for conspicuous bravery, and who also has been recommended for the D. S. O., is at present at his brother's home in Bathurst, on leave of absence. He arrived on Saturday afternoon and was met at the railway station by a large number of his fellow townsmen who had assembled to do him honor.

When the war broke out Lieut. Meahan was employed on the staff of the Royal Bank of Canada at Calgary. He enlisted in the 31st Alberta Battalion under Lieut.-Col. Bell and after six months' training at that city he crossed over to England. Here he underwent further training, and in August, 1915, he proceeded to the trenches in France, where he was in the thick of the fighting until he was wounded at St. Etloi. His story is a thrilling one.

During the engagement he and three companions found themselves cut off from their main body, and to this meagre handful of Canucks fell the tremendous task of holding that portion of the line where they were. It was a most important segment, and for forty-one hours Lieut. Meahan and his little band of three held the fort, beating back attack after attack of the foe. Against overwhelming odds they succeeded after a defense as stern and dogged as any told in the annals of this war. So near were they to destruction that the point a German infantryman leaped on to their parapet and with the butt of his rifle dislodged two of Lieut. Meahan's teeth. The lieutenant lost his ivory teeth, but retained his nerve, and since then his antagonist has taken no further interest in dental or any other matters. When at the last gasp the dauntless four were relieved and escorted to the rear and safety.

Lieut. Meahan was found to be suffering from a dangerous shrapnel wound in the shoulder and he was promptly sent to the hospital. Here he remained four months after which he undertook light duty at Shorncliffe, in England.

He has been recalled for further service, this time with the 236th, and when the Klitties are ready Lieut. Meahan will accompany them to old scenes where he will doubtless win fresh laurels for himself, and further reflected glory for the town of his birth.

Safe Home Treatment for Objectionable Hairs

(Boudoir Secrets)

The electric needle is not required for the removal of hair or fuzz, for with the use of plain delatone the most stubborn growth can be quickly banished. A paste is made with water and a little of the powder, then spread over the hairy surface. In about 2 minutes it is rubbed off and the skin washed. This simple treatment not only removes the hair, but leaves the skin free from blemish. Be sure you get genuine delatone.

Frederick C. Parker.

The funeral of Frederick Chapman Parker took place from his father's residence, 27 Gooderich street, services being conducted by Rev. S. S. Poole. Interment was in Fernhill.
