order to save the gold sweepings. This was done, and in it he bored two holes and fit-ted an opera glass whereby he could watch the combinations when Mr. Wheeler open-ed the safe. By means of auger holes above the detectives could also watch him. At length he succeeded in opening the safe and was arrested. In his room was found $17,000 worth of watch cases. The rest he had melted and sold to the United States Assay office. His wife and a male acquain tance, who had assisted in selling the goods, were also arrested. Kindt was sen-tenced to Sing Sing for fifteen years, but in 1871 sawed through his bars and acaped. He engaged himself to the Hackensack Jewelry Company under the name of Capt. Marshall.
