McGill Professor Disagrees With Radial Estimates of Hydro.

TORONTO, March 2.—Dr. L. A. Herdt, professor of electrical engineering at McGill University, Montreal, who gave evidence here yesterday before the royal commission that is inquiring into the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission; radial railway projects was royal commission that is inquiring into the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission's radial railway projects, was on the witness stand again today, when he was cross-examined by Robert Mc-Kay, K.C., counsel for the municipalities which favor the radial railways. Dr. Herdt, who in answer to a question placed the cost of steam railway operation per car mile at about 16.7c, said that the railway operation per mile did not matter, ag it was no basis of comparison with the radials.

Estimates of surpluses on three of the five radial railway lines would prove to be deficits, Dr. Herdt claimed. The deficits, he said, would be as follows:
Toronto-St. Catharines, $204,049; Toronto Eastern, $342,391, and the Hamilton-Guelph-Elmira line, $94,467. Assuming that a sinking fund of 1 per cent should be allowed for, Dr. Herdt found that the total deficit would amount to $711, 291, as contrasted with hydro estimates of a surplus of $807,642, less the sinking fund charge of $456,411.

Only on the Toronto Suburban and Nagara Central did Dr. Herdt agree with the hydro commission's estimates.
