

More quorum difficulties

A scheduled meeting of the water management advisory board of the Credit Valley Conservation Authority was cancelled this week because of a lack of a quorum.

The meeting was to be held last Wednesday afternoon at 4 p.m., but only three of the 10 members of the committee indicated they could make the meeting. They were committee chairman Ken Whillans, the authority chairman, Grant Clarkson, and citizen member Hubert Wolf.

City Councillors Mary Helen Spence, Larry Taylor and Harold Kennedy were scheduled for all-day meetings at city hall. City Engineer William Taylor, who is also a board member, was also involved in those meetings.

The citizen members who could not make the session were Blake Goodings, Jack Jones, and Richard Martin.

The committee has experienced some difficulty in getting a quorum recently and held one meeting without one.

The Wednesday scheduling conflicts with Mississauga councillors' calendars. Shortly after it was decided to hold water management board meetings Wednesday afternoons, the city decided to reserve all day each Wednesday for general committee.

At the full authority meeting Thursday night, Whillans was highly critical of city councillors for lack of attendance. He and Spence were involved in a sharp conflict over the issue.

At one point Whillans said he would consider asking for Mrs. Spence's resignation because of poor attendance.

The Ward 2 Councillor suggested Whillans set the meetings on a day when it is convenient for city members to attend.

She said the authority had been told "at least a dozen times" that Wednesday sessions present problems for Mississauga representatives.

Erindale awards

O'Donnell, social sciences division, Oakville; Elizabeth P. D. Marz, part-time studies, Mississauga; Peter Hamilton, sciences division, Mississauga. Hamilton also won the Governor General's silver medal. Erindale's first principal, Dr. D. C. Williams, received an honorary Doctor of Laws Degree at the ceremonies.

Authority backs Mullett proposal

The proposals by developers Cadillac-Fairview Corporation and Markborough Properties to channelize part of the Mullett Creek has been approved in principle by the conservation authority.

The move came despite argument from some Credit Valley Conservation Authority members that the proposal should be referred to the city's engineering department first.

Councillor Frank Leavers of Mississauga and Brampton's Ken Whillans wanted the plan referred to City Engineer William Taylor.

Under the proposal by authority staff, part of the creek would be channelized from Highway 401 south to the Mullett Creek diversion near Erin Mills Parkway. A small portion of the west bank would also be channelized, but staff wants to preserve the scenic upstream portion of the west branch. This area is designated as an Environmental Protection Area in the city's draft Official Plan, meaning there should be no development in it.

Ward 2 Councillor Mary Helen Spence felt the authority should approve staff recommendations in principle before sending them to city staff for review.

The day after the meeting, Mrs. Spence explained that she felt it was "very important that the city engineering department not take over the work of the conservation authority."

STRAWBERRY SOCIAL

Lakeview United Church will hold a Strawberry Social Dinner, 1023 Greaves Ave., on June 29 from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. There will be door prizes and lots to eat. Admission is $4 for adults and $2 for children 6 to 12. Children under six are admitted free.

There have been some conflicts surface recently between the conservation authority staff and city engineering staff. The city has claimed that some proposals by the authority to maximize conservation safeguard are not manageable in proposed subdivisions.

CVCA Chairman Grant Clarkson supported approval in principle of the Mullett Creek proposals. The authority agreed to endorse the staff recommendations in principle and refer the matter to Mississauga staff for comment.

NEW FAIR DATE

Creek change approved

The Carolyn Creek realignment to facilitate the proposed sanitary landfill site in central Mississauga has been approved in principle by the Credit Valley Conservation Authority.

At its meeting Thursday night in Caledon East, the authority agreed with recommendations in the engineering report by the consulting firm of Proctor and Redfern. They prepared the engineering study of the site for Peel Region.

After a recent Environmental Hearing Board session on the proposed location, the region is awaiting approval of the site at Second Line West and Britannia Road.

Although the authority gave approval in principle this week, the detailed engineering proposals to realign Carolyn Creek will be submitted to staff and reviewed by the authority's executive committee before any final endorsement.

MORE POWER TO YOUR MONEY

Who writes the cheques to pay for rent or mortgage, food, car repairs, telephone, clothing or, you name it? Do you realize those tiny slips of paper probably cost about 20 CENTS EACH when they are presented for payment! — And, at some places you have to buy them in the first place . . .

PERSONALIZED CHEQUING ACCOUNTS AT JET POWER ARE ABSOLUTELY FREE!

Individual or Joint Accounts with names and addresses are supplied in any quantity required, a record book to enter deposits and withdrawals, and a wallet to carry both the cheques and the book are included. Then there is no charge for handling the cheques, and you receive a monthly statement and your cancelled cheques mailed to your address — free, of course.

That's one of the benefits of doing business with a financial co-operative where a $5. deposit in a share/savings account makes you a part-owner. Then we have to treat you right . . . But no overdrafts, please.
