

paings for pledge-signing in all our Sunday Schools and congregations; and campaigns against every moral or social wrong found in any community;

(4) By constantly reminding our ministers and people that the Department is always ready to render every possible assistance in every campaign for moral and social betterment, such as furnishing speakers or literature in campaigns—enforcing the laws concerning liquor, the Lord's Day Act, the Criminal Code against social vice, gambling, etc., etc., obtaining amendments to make existing laws more effective or new laws to bring about improved conditions; and aiding in the establishment and maintenance of social settlements, rescue homes, etc., in any community where such may be needed.

(5) By planning for the organization wherever possible of the Good Citizenship Brotherhoods, which have proven very helpful in meeting social needs and solving problems of citizenship, both in urban and rural communities.

(6) By reminding our people that while the Department stands ever ready to render every possible aid on behalf of temperance and prohibition throughout the whole field of the Church, it also stands ready to assist, by all proper means, every effort on behalf of social purity, against the horrible White Slave traffic, against the growing vice of gambling—as well as every other reform which seeks the uplifting of our citizenship, the righting of all moral and social wrongs, and the incoming of the kingdom of God among men.

(7) By informing the General Secretary concerning the moral and social conditions throughout the District, and every movement which seeks the cleansing of conditions and the welfare of humanity.

(8) By earnestly co-operating with the District Epworth League, as a member of its Executive (Disc., par. 330, Art. V), in the endeavor to increase the efficiency of the Good Citizenship Department of Local Leagues.

The Circuit Committee of Temperance and Moral Reform, composed of the Pastor and not less than three others, is elected by the Quarterly Official Board, at the second meeting thereof each year. (Disc., pars. 178, sec. 4; 343, sec. 3.) This committee is given general oversight of the work of Temperance and Social Service within the bounds of the Circuit.

A General Superintendent, if present, presides over the Annual Meeting of the Board, the Executive Committee and the Provincial Group. The meeting elects a Chairman for that session if no General Superintendent is present. The Annual Conference Committee elect their own Chairman.

The Treasurer is custodian of the funds of the Department. All payments are made by cheques signed by him, and countersigned by the General Secretary.

The General Secretary is elected by the General Conference, and is the medium of communication between the Board and all parts of the work. He is responsible for the administration of the business of
