Where Are We At?

Drink water and get typhoid. Drink milk and get tuberculosis. Drink whisky and get the jinnams. Eat soup and get Bright's disease. Eat meat and encourage apoplexy. Eat oysters and acquire tetanus. Eat vegetables and weaken the system. Eat dessert and take to paresis. Smoke cigarettes and die early. Smoke cigars and get catarrh. Drink coffee and obtain nervous prostration. Drink wine and get the gout. In order to be entirely healthy, one must eat nothing, drink nothing, smoke nothing, and even before breathing one should see that the air is properly sterilized.

The English "Society for the Prevention of Consumption" presided over by the Prince of Wales, was recently addressed by Sir William Broadbent, who stated that it was definitely known that every case of consumption began from a germ communicated from some other case. There is no bid absolute defiance to this deadly scourge, is to be able to strengthen the weak lungs, and build up a strong body. The answer to this need is found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It so purifies the blood and increases the blood supply, that disease is thrown off and the weak organs are nourished into perfect health, which defies germs of every kind. People, given up by doctors, emaciated, bleeding at the lungs, with obstinate, lingering coughs, are being cured every day by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery." It is a strictly temperance medicine containing no alcohol, whisky or other intoxicant.

Bread Better Than Blood.

You could give a number of children a good bowl of oatmeal and milk at a penny a head. This means for 300 days $1.50 per head; say, for 200,000 children for every week day in the year, $250,000. The war in South Africa cost about $250,000,000. Taking money at 3 per cent, this is equivalent to $7,500,000 per annum. And yet probably the advantage to the race of giving a substantial meal to 200,000 children every day that they attend school would be worth a good deal more than any benefit likely to accrue to us from the South African war.—London Truth.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the system, and thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. When the day breaks some men are too lazy to make use of the pieces.

THIS IS WHAT THEY SAY.

Those who take Hood's Sarsaparilla for scrofula, eczema, eruptions, catarrh, rheumatism or dyspepsia, say it cures promptly and permanently, even after all other preparations fail.

You may take this medicine with the utmost confidence that it will do you good. What it has done for others you have every reason to believe it will do for you.

Constipation is cured by Hood's Pills. 25c.

A Portrayal of Present and Field by John Burroughs.

Now comes the sunset of the verdant year, When chemist, trees, still and slow, Burn in the leaves till trees and groves appear Dipped in the sunset's glow.

Through many stained windows of the wood, The day seeds down its beams, Till all the acorn-punctured solitude Of sunshine softly dreams.

I take my way where sentry cedars stand Along the dusky lane, And whittens str and call on every hand Or lift their wavering strain;

Where hazel bush holds up its crinkled gold, And scents the lottering breeze, A nuptial wreath amid its leafage old That laughs at frost's deceits.

A purple bloom is creeping o'er the ash, Full wine against the day, While dusky cedars wear a crimson sash Of woodbine's kindred spray.

I see the sturdy oak tree's smould'ring fire Sullen against the emerald eye, And yonder sugar maple's wild desire To match the sunset's sky.

On hedge and tree the bittersweet has hung, Its fruit that looks a dower, While alder spray with coral berries strong Is part of autumn's dower.

The plaintive calls of bluebirds fill the air, Wandering by irresolute; The ruby kinglet dithers here and there, Fitting now his elin dute.

Now downy shyly drills his winter cell, His white chips strewn the ground, While squirrels bark from hill or acorned A true autumnal sound.

I hear the feathered thunder of the grouse Rolling through the wood, Or pause to note where hurrying mole or mouse Just stirs the solitude.

Listen—the furrow neck-call of the quail Comes up from weedy fields; Beyond, the mellow thrum of lonely fall Its homely music yields.

Behold the orchards piled with painted spheres, New blacked from bending trees, And bronzed husks tussling golden ears In genial sun and breeze.

Once more the tranquil days brood o'er the hills, And soothe the earth's tolling breast; A benediction all the landscape fills That breathes of peace and rest.

—John Burroughs.

DON'TS FOR WOMEN.

Little Things the Wise Ones Know and the Unwise Ought to Know.

Don't talk about other people's promises to you and your future plans.

Don't be good in a superior manner and don't be perpetually pointing out the fact that you are doing things in the right way. It is an excellent method of getting yourself hated.

Don't bluff and don't boast. You may have a more intelligent audience than you think, and anyway there are always enough clever people to see through you.

Don't talk all the time. Give others a chance.

Don't forget that all really good conversation is impersonal.

Don't tell what you could do if you had the chance. Either do it or don't talk about it.

Don't be afraid to acknowledge when you are in the wrong, but when you are in the right stand firm.

Don't run after other women, and they will run after you.

Don't, when a woman tells you her troubles, immediately cheapen her tale of woe by hatching up a more doleful one of your own.

Don't tell your women friends' secrets. Remember that their friendship may some day be dissolved, and while some women do keep secrets, no woman ever allowed a secret to last any longer than her friendship.

Don't tell everybody if you make your own clothes.

Don't be a slave to your house or your furniture.

Don't doubt your own success, and others must believe in you.

Don't forget that personality counts for more than beauty.

Turned His Coat.

A writer tells this story of the governor of a British colony: "A gentleman was serving as a private in a volunteer corps in another colony. Being a man of good social position, he had dined with the governor, when one day, being in private uniform, he was taken by one of the officers of his regiment to luncheon in a tent in which the governor happened to be, whereupon the latter remarked in a loud voice to the officer in question that he could not sit down to table with one in private's uniform. When in consequence the man was about to retire the governor said it was not the man, he objected to, but the dress, and suggested that he should either change it or turn it inside out. Being much in want of his luncheon, the man swallowed the insult and turned his coat inside out."

Two Sunsets Per Day.

There is only one place in the world where the sun sets twice daily, and that is at Leek, in Staffordshire, England. The reason of this is that a jagged mountain is situated to the west of the town, and in the evening the sun sets behind it and darkness comes on. Then the first sunset occurs; the gas-lamps are lit, and apparently night has set in. But it has not, for in the space of an hour or so the sun reappears again through the opening at the side of the mountain and daylight again appears. Artificial lights are extinguished and daylight again prevails, until the sun descends below the opening and the second sunset occurs and night comes to stay.

A Study in Preconception.

"Have you started on that job of work?"

"No, sir," answered Mr. Erastus Pinkley. "I speak it might as well put it off till next week."

"Why, this is only Monday."

"I know it, but de maw'nin's half gone, an' den it's only a few days till Friday, an' dat's bad luck, an' I don't want to work on Sunday, so I reckons I better wait till I kin git a clean start."

Covering Books.

To cover paper bound books take two pieces of cardboard a tiny bit larger than book. Paste fly leaves at front and back to cardboard, which of course is outside. Then take a strip of strong cotton cloth; paste it down back of book; have it wide, so it will cover about one inch of each piece of cardboard, thereby joining the two pieces together. Now put a cover of brown paper over all, pasting securely, and your decorated cover goes over this.

The books may be covered with decorated silk, paper or duck if you paint or embroider, but the simplest way is to cover with tissue paper (not crepe). Paste a pretty card on the front, and after cutting title and author's name from old cover arrange them prettily in the new one.

It is a great evil as well as a misfortune to be unable to utter a prompt and decided no.—Simmons.

TO FEEL JUST RIGHT

The Stomach Must be Right—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets make the Stomach Right. Testimony of H. Hutchinson, of Chatham.

The stomach must be right or the man or woman cannot be right. The stomach's work is to provide the different parts of the body with the food and heat they need. If this is not done the body becomes starved and cold and weak.

Consequently if you are feeling useless you know that your stomach needs help.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets give the stomach the right kind of help. They digest the food and the stomach rights itself naturally. Then the body gets the food it needs, and energy and vigor return.

H. Hutchinson, Ont., is one of the thousands who have proved that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure Stomach Trouble of any stage. He says:

"I had suffered for a long period from Dyspepsia until a short time ago a friend brought me a box of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and from the very first I got relief."

"I keep them by me, and any time I feel my food is likely to disagree with me I just take one or two of them and feel no more effects of Indigestion."

The Age of a Bison.

The bison lives to an age of from thirty to fifty years, the bull being more long lived than the cow. When they grow very old both bull and cow become blind and lose their teeth, so that they cannot provide themselves with sufficient food and finally dwindle away and die.

"No?" queried her husband politely. "No; they should be called 'discontinued stories.'"—Exchange.

THE ONLY WAY.

Count Leo Tolstoy Tells How to Serve Mankind—Live Among Men and Not Away From Them.

The changing of a man's conception of the world involves inevitably the changing of the manner in which he lives, and the change in his mode of life not only aids in the changing of his possessions and of his conception of the world, but still more induces this change in directing human attention and activity in a false way. To change the mode of life while hoping by this means to change the qualities of men and their conception of the world is the same thing as placing green wood in the stove in the hope that somehow it will burn.

This error is so evident that men could not be addicted to it were there not a cause tending to this deceit. This cause is that the changing of the qualities of men commences voluntarily and demands much from stripes and from work, while the change in the mode of life is made easily, without internal effort, and has the aid of a most important and serious activity.

It is against this evil, the greatest source of evil, that I would warn men who desire sincerely to serve their neighbors by their life.

It would be perfect if each could serve men as he pleases, but that is impossible. There is only one way of serving men, of improving their condition: it is to profess the doctrine whence proceeds the internal work of the perfecting of oneself and the perfecting of the true Christian, who naturally always lives among men and not away from them; consists in the establishment of better relations, more and more cordial, between him and other men. The establishment of such relations between men cannot but ameliorate their general condition, although the form of the amelioration remains unknown to man.—Count Leo Tolstoy.

BEGINNING RIGHT.

A Wife Who Trained Her Husband, and the Result.

"I was brought up in Germany," said Mrs. Harman. "In our part of the country workmen usually gave all their wages to their wives so soon as they received them. The wife kept the family purse, bought food, clothing and paid the other expenses of the household, giving the husband such sums as he desired for his own personal use. The plan worked very well. I naturally expected if I ever married to do as my mother and grandmother before me had done—keep the family purse."

"I was married soon after coming to Canada. I realized beforehand that if my husband and I were to get ahead in the world I must look after the outlay in our family. I resolved to begin right at the start, when my husband was still soft and loving and would do anything for his bride."

"You can hardly believe it, but my husband was earning only $10 a week when we were married. We had two rooms rented and furnished, and we went into them and set up house-keeping at once. Our modest wedding was quickly over, and my husband went back to business. The morning he did so he laid a one dollar bill upon the mantelpiece."

"What is that for?" I asked him.

"Why, it's for you to pay out for house expenses, of course."

"No, no, sweetheart," I said. "You give all your money to me, and I will take care of it. Here is this little cabinet that I have. There are two keys to it. I will keep one, you keep the other. You give me your wages every week, dear, and I will put them in the cabinet. When you need money unlock it and get what you want. I will do the same. That's the best way, isn't it, for us both to be satisfied?"

"A man who has only been married three days cannot deny his wife husband said yes, and there never was any trouble between us about money from that day on. I tell you a bride must start right with a man in the very beginning."

Mrs. Harman was too modest to continue and tell the result of her financial management, but here it is: As time went on the young wife found she could save a little even on $10 a week. She saved it, and as the sum swelled she invested it, wisely keeping matters of this sort mostly to herself. Children came, dear, bright little sons and daughters; the husband's pay increased; still this model wise woman of King Solomon looked well to the ways of her household and went on laying by such small sums as she could. By and by with the money she had saved her husband was able to go into business for himself.

Then the day of prosperity began, the wife still having charge of the purse. That fact gave her a dignity and consideration from her husband and sons nothing else could have done. This is quite true. Money does talk.

Sarah Bernhardt's New Book.

Sarah Bernhardt, the famous French actress, has signed a contract to write her memoirs. The book will be published simultaneously in Paris, London and New York. She had to be paid $8,000 down before consenting to put a pen to paper. In addition she is to receive a good royalty on the sales. She is making arrangements to have the book translated into most of the European languages. The book must be ready in August.

Edison's One Speech.

Edison has made but one speech in his life. It was not a brilliant one. He had agreed to lecture on electricity before a girls' seminary and had engaged a friend named Adams to work the apparatus while he talked. But when the inventor arose to address his audience he felt so dazed that he simply said, "Ladies, Mr. Adams will now address you as electricity, and I will demonstrate what he has to say with the apparatus."
