COGS ON THE STAGE.

eaping For the Villain's Neck-A Very Sensitive Animal. Four legged animals in drama are of ourse a very common sight today. Although they are often of far more importance than the mere super, they have an affinity to that class, for their is no speaking part, unless one counts the bark of a dog as such.

A little time ago the writer met an actor who was taking the part of a villain in a play wherein a big mastiff seizes him at the back of the neck just as he (the villain) was about to murder the heroine. "Nasty part, that of yours How do you manage to escape nightly being bitten by that big brute of dog?" "Not a nice part, it is true," he answered, "but the dog is well trained. He is kept without food for a few hours before the show. A piece of cooked liver is tied to my neck. He is held in the wings till the cue comes, then he rushes on to me for his supper, and the curtain goes down on a very effective tableau. I don't object to the dog.

It's the liver." The mention of stage dogs brings to mind an amusing incident that occurred in a well known theatrical agent's office last summer. In came a rough looking little man wearing a check suit that once used to speak out for itself, but was now silenced by the heavy hand of time. The man was followed by a dog of attractive appearance. The visitor said he did a "tramp act," assisted by the animal. Then they gave an exhibition of themselves and were certainly above the average. "What are your terms?" the agent queried. "Ten pounds a week." "I'll give you two." The imitation tramp-but he was not far from the real thing-looked with a sad, reproachful eye at the agent and silently backed out of the office, the dog meekly following. However, within a few seconds the man returned, quickly closing the door to exclude his partner, who clamored to get in. "I'll take it," he said in a hurried whisper. Where's the contract? I'm real broke, so it's a clear case of push; but, for heaven's sake, don't mention the price

Differences Between the Legs, Eye and Ears of Men and Women

The two sides of a person's face are ever alike. The eyes are out of line in two cases out of five, and one eye is stronger than the other in seven per sons out of ten. The right ear is also, as a rule, higher than the left.

Only one person in 15 has perfect eyes, the largest percentage of defects prevailing among fair haired people Short sight is more common in town than among country folk, and of all people the Germans have the larges proportion of shortsighted persons. The crystalline lens of the eye is the one portion of the human body which continues to increase with the attainment of maturity.

The smallest interval of sound can aminations of the Business Educators' be better distinguished with one ear than with both. The nails of two fingers never grow with the same rapidity, that of the middle finger growing the fastest, while that of the thumb grows the slowest.

In 54 cases out of 100 the left leg is shorter than the right. The bones of an average human male skeleton weigh 20 pounds, those of a woman are six pounds lighter. That unruly member, the tongue of a woman, is also smaller than that of a man, given a man and a woman of equal size and weight. It may be appalling to reflect, but it is nevertheless true, that the muscles of the human law exert a force of over 500 pounds. The symmetry which is the sole intelligible ground for our idea of beauty, the proportion between the upper and lower half of the human body, exists in nearly all males, but is never found in the female. American limbs are more symmetrical than those of any other people. The rocking chair, according to an English scientist, is responsible for the exercise which increases the beauty of the lower limbs. The push which the toes give to keep the chair in motion, repeated and repeated, makes the instep high, the calf round and full, and it makes the ankle delicate and slender.-Exchange.

When Irving Forgot Himself. Ben Webster, an English actor, told good story of how he held his own when Sir Henry Irving happened to be absentminded. In the "Lyons Mail" there is a touching scene between Lesurques (played by Irving) and his daughter Julie, of which Didier (Mr. Hen Webster) is a perfectly silent wit-

One night Sir Henry, instead of making his long speech, appealed in trembling tones to Mr. Webster: "Speak to her, Didier; speak to her!" Didier was dumfounded. There was an awful pause. Irving, quite unconscious of his own mistake, frowned wrathfully at the young actor, but Mr. Webster equal to the occasion, gave way to a burst of tears and exclaimed, "I can not; you know I cannot speak!" and turned his back on the audie Then Sir Henry picked up his lines with a start, and it was observed that Didler's shoulders shock with emotion

Victoria's Proposal. It was at Windsor castle that Que Victoria, then only a girl of 20, die what she described as "the most nerv ous thing a woman was ever called on to do"—when she summoned the young Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha te a private interview and "proposed" to him. She had first met him when as a boy of 17 he came with his father to England, and when, three years later he "made no secret" of his love for his fair cousin "no one was surprised and every one was delighted."—London Tis

A grain of sand in the eye can caus excruciating agony. A grain of pep-per in place of the grain of sand in-tensifies the torment. The pain is not confined to the organs affected. The whole body feels the shock of that little irritating particle. It is so when there is any derangement or disorder of the delicate womanly organs. The disorder may seem trivial, but the whole body feels it. The nervous system is disordered. There are fretfulness, irritability, sullenness and de-pression of spirits. LETTER

What has Been Going on at the Parliamentary Headquarters.

A Busy Week-The Leader of the Opposition Vindicates His Choice.

Ottawa, April 30th. Within the last few weeks there has been an agitation to do away with Hansard and for a year or two there has been an attempt to impress the liament and not "talkee-talkee." What is the meaning of the word parliament but a place where people speak? The only speaking which can take place there is speaking either in the interests of the people, or which professes to be in their interests. Any man who knows what is going on would say what is needed is more speaking of the what is needed is more speaking of the right kind, and this opposition's talk is of the right kind. Only by speech, by criticism, by attack, by complaint the part of the opposition is any curb put on extravagance and corruption—and that curb would have half its links taken away and its strength and power of pressure destroyed if there were no Hansard because the newspan. were no Hansard, because the newspa-pers do not profess to report all that takes place in the House. The parliamentary week which clos-

THE FALL OF LAURIER. Is the heading of an article in the Evening News, of Toronto, which com-menced on the striking circumstance that the Biograph portrait of the Pre-mier was hissed from all parts of the theatre here. It was a most unusual theatre here. It was a most unusual thing. How is it to be accounted for? Nicholas Flood Davin, the author of the article, assigns two causes for it. First, Laurier's extraordinary "levity of opinion," so that it is impossible to know where he is at. Secondly, the deeds of his friends and colleagues leagues which he sanctions and for which he is therefore responsible,—the sharp and shady transactions; Cote's circular to the priests of the parish; the circular to the representations of the parish; the circular of the Ross government inviting fraud and perjury in order to get at the politics of lads from sixteen to twenty-one; Blair's contract with the twenty-one; Blair's contract with the Clergue company; Tarte's defiance of all safeguards of the public purse; the evidence that the government means to strike at electoral freedom by cog-ging electoral machinery; the ineffi-ciency of the Dapartment of Agricul-; the extravagance of Sifton in ding vast sums on immigration to ture : reward heelers bringing in Doukho-bors; Tarte's dismissal of workmen to the number of 75 to replace them, as he admitted, by partisans: 'All this and more has brought the Government into ill odor.

STEALING THE NIPISSING SEAT. On Wednesday Mr. Northrup, of election steal to the committee of priv leges and elections and was voted down by 94 to 51. The election act pro-vides that excepting Algoma all the elections in Ontario at a general elec-tion shall take place on the same day. The nomination was on the 31st of October. On that day the returning officer with his clerk hid themselves so that no nomination could take place. Mr. Klock was at the place appointed with his friends to make his deposit with his friends to make his deposit and put in his nomination paper. But no returning officer was to be found. Meanwhile the returning officers had made trips to Ottawa and saw the Sec-retary of State who told him to go on and hold the election on the old lists of 1898. On the 26th a memorandum for an order in council is alleged to have been signed for four ministers, and on this memorandum an order in council was passed instructing the sheriffs of Algoma to prepare new voters' lists. The newspapers show that the four ministers could not have signed the memorandum as they were far from Ottawa at the time-On the 10th of Nov.

AN ILLEGAL WRIT was issued on the 10th of November The Solicitor-General admitted that here was no precedent for such a thing-there was no law or constitution for it. And if the conduct of the government is to form a precedent there is no limit to the tampering of an unscrupulous government with elections and the time when they shall be held can be juggled with to any extent. THE CLERGUE CONTRACT..

But in the history of parliament or for that matter in the history of human degradation there never was such an exhibition as Blair made last week. a contract for 25,000 tons of rails at $32.60, a ton for this year and, had ar arrangements for 25,000 each year for each year for four years at the market price in England—on the 10th he brought down a draft of the contract. brought down a draft of the contract. He stated when laying it on the table that his Deputy told him that the Clergue people had not returned the tract executed, and that they said to him: "Telegraph to tham return it executed." The contract was found to be an absolute five years contract for five years without any provision for the approval of perliament. The conthe approval of parlian the approval of perliament. The contract was shown to be an improvident contract, as it was made in a falling market; one month—a suspicious thing before the election, and $7 a ton being lost therefore on the first 25,000 while as regards the succeeding four years the company could choose its own time to fix the current rate in England. Mr. Blain did not appear in the House for going on three weeks. England. Mr. Blair, did not appear in the House for going on three weeks. Then what did he do? He says there was no contract, that the contract never been seen by him! Never been read by him! A contract for $4,000,000! The government forced him to come ward and make this barefaced state-ment and then they backed up the falsehood.

THE COOK INVESTIGATION which I attended could leave no doubt on any mind but that Cook spoke the truth when he said he was offered the Senatorship for $10,000 and did not get it because he refused to be bled—Sir Richard was put in the box and could remember nothing, Cameron's son within a fortnight and could not remember whether and could not remember whether this hopeful youth was to get a billet which yet is the case, never-theless letters of Cameron were found to make the conclusion plain, and, as Mr. Marsh said, the evidence incriminated not only Sir Richard but the premier himself. The appearance of that man Preston in the witness box was something awful, and this is the man Sifton gives $3,000 a year and expenses to galavant over Europe and flood the country with Doukhobors and Italians. LABOR.

On Tuesday a great deal of time was given to Labor. First you had the Valleyfield strike and later on you had $50,000 voted in the Labor Gazette. When the Government, as Mr. R. Borden pointed out, was pass people with the idea that what was ing its fair wages resolution Mr. wanted at Ottawa was a business parliament and not "talkee-talkee." What a bill and thus make it obligatory. But that was not done and therefore we find it is not working as satisfac tory as was expected. The criticism of the vote showed that there is a great deal of money spent on the Ga-zette and that it is not kept as clear of political bias as it should be. BORDEN AS LEADER.

On Tuesday, when Mr. Blair made his turn about face transformation act, Mr. Borden, the leader of the opposition vindicated his choice for leader. He laid Mr. Blair out. Then, when the Premier came forward to try to prove that there was no contract for five years and read in council which provides for such a con-tract and in fact makes a contract, the leader of the opposition put him too on the grass when Mr. Fielding was rash enough to quote, a law case to prove that a contract with a govent may be repudiated by Parliament, Mr. Borden showed that in that case there was fraud and prov-ed abundantly that there are bonafides on the part of the contractor Parliament will not repudiate a contract with a government though it be improvident. Hence the incompetence or worse of the action of the Government. The way Mr. Borden met the foremost men on th ministerial side and gave a good account of them was both strong and neat, and demonstrated that the opposition have found an effective lead er, a leader, too, whose skirts are free from the intrigues and follies and coteries of the post.

THE CENSUS CIRCULARS. All of Friday was given up to the Cens Circular, the fraudulent circular 102 com missioners or assistant commissioners sa missioners or assistant commissioners said they had seen and the answers of the twelve others were equally fishy. In regard to the parish priest in Quebec, it was shown that only to French speaking priests was the circular sent asking them to sent Mr. Cote the names of those who had emigrated to the United States. Mr. Barker read an article from Le Soleil, the organ of the Liberal party, pointing out that the larger the population of Quebec could be made out to be, the smaller the representation in the House of Commons from the other House of Commons from the other provinces. The lamest excuse was giver for the word "Confidential" being or the circulars. The object, as Mr. Barket said, was only too plain.
