STRIKES THAT LASTED.

Battles Between Labor and Capital that Continued for Years.

The large number of strikes, especially among longshoremen, which have taken place in Canadian cities during the spring, may recall to many that the boycott by its teachers of the West Ham Educational Authority in England may very possibly prove the beginning of one of the most prolonged strikes of modern times. The National Union of Teachers has a membership of 60,000, and already it has pledged itself to support the strikers for five years at the least, paying them full salaries during the whole of that period.

The great Bethesda strike, which was recently brought back to memory by the death of Lord Penryn, lasted just over three years, cost the district in wages alone £364,000, and seems likely to have crippled the British slate industry for some time to come. This is, up till now, the longest labor war on record, but it looks like being exceeded, in point of time, by that which broke out two and a half years ago at the Hensworth Colliery, Yorkshire, and which is still unsettled, the pits meanwhile lying idle, and the men receiving regular wages for doing nothing—from the Yorkshire Miners' Union.

Two and a half years, by the way, is precisely the length of the duration of the engineers' strike which broke out in Sunderland in the spring of 1883, which left the men just where they were, while it cost the Union £200,000 in strike pay.

It may well be, however, that all the above mentioned strikes will be eclipsed by the great strike of agricultural laborers which began last month in the province of Ferrara, Italy. The men have been saving up for the struggle for more than twenty years past, and as an indication of the spirit that animated the strikers, it may be mentioned that their womenfolk have sent away from the scene of conflict all their babies, seventeen hundred in number, to be cared for in artisan households in various parts of Upper Italy.

THINKS KINDLY OF CANADA.

Chancellor Von Buelow's Remarks as to Trade and Emigration.

A recent despatch from Baden (Germany) says:

It is evident from incidents in the remarkable official and unofficial reception given to the British journalists now touring in Germany, that the German Government and all commercial classes await with sympathetic interest the outcome of the present visit to Europe of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Mr. Fielding.

Prince Von Buelow, the German chancellor, received Percy Hurd, who is one of the visiting journalists. He expressed warm interest in Canadian progress, and asked for minute details of Canada's recent advance in population, wealth and national status.

He said it was gratifying to know that the Germans who formerly went to Canada proved so prosperous. He knew they would make good settlers. Especially did he know they would make loyal Canadian citizens, but he himself, as a German, was anxious for Germany's welfare, and rejoiced that whereas 25 years ago Germany emigrated 300,000 people, some of the best of whom went to Canada, to-day Germany found work and a future at home for all her people.

He expressed surprise at the extent of United States immigration into Canada. All he heard confirmed him in the belief that Canada was destined to become a great country, whose progress Germany watched with sympathetic concern.

At a civic banquet in the Town Hall, which was followed by a reception in the Reichstag, Herr Von Mendelssohn, the well-known banker, said, amid cheers: "It would be very desirable if trade relations between the two great states, Germany and Canada, were again to become normal and friendly."

The present visit to Germany of British journalists would, he hoped, contribute, to that end, because there were really no divergent commercial or political interest between Canada and Germany.

Sharing Our Blessings.

What we have we should give, we are bound to give. We should never withhold it. It is not ours to keep only for ourselves. God gives nothing for selfish hoarding or for selfish use. Always we are his stewards, and are blessed ourselves in order that we may be a blessing to others. This is true of every good thing we receive. It ceases to be a good thing to us if we refuse to share it or to pass it on.

This is true of our common, earthly blessings. The great law of love all we have at the call of God for human need. The love of God, which is given to us so freely and with such infinite lavishness, blesses us only when we too become loving like God and love others as He loves us. The divine forgiveness can become ours only if we will pass it on, forgiving as we are forgiven.

We can get God's comfort in our sorrow only when we are ready to give it out again, comforting others with the comfort wherewith we ourselves have been comforted of God.—Rev. J. E. Miles.

King Edward's Birth.

The connection respecting the birth of a royal baby in Spain recalls an incident in connection with the appearance in this world of the present King of England. Among the notabilities at Buckingham Palace awaiting the auspicious event was the great Duke of Wellington, the hero of Waterloo, then over 70 years of age. The young nurse came into the reception-room and announced the birth. "Is it a boy?" asked the veteran duke. "It is a boy, Prince, your grace," answered the dame in a somewhat offended tone. Some months later, when asked by a lady how the youngster was getting on, the duke replied: "Well, madam, very well, if I am any judge. I am told that all healthy babies kick hard and cry loudly, and I can personally testify that His Royal Highness is a very healthy baby."

Where Sentiment Clings.

"There is a lot of sentiment in New York," said a renting agent. "Some of our tenants find it in chunks, and then they come and tell us about it. It is usually centered in some room in a boarding or furnished room house on our list. You wouldn't think there would be much romance attached to a place of that kind, yet that is where the spirit of sentiment most frequently manifests itself. Some people, mostly women, of course, come back year after year and ask to be allowed to see certain rooms in certain houses. Great events in their lives apparently took place there. Maybe somebody was born there, maybe somebody died, or it might have been some other tragedy of some other joy. Anyhow to those persons those particular rooms are hallowed spots, and on certain dates, anniversaries probably, they make a pilgrimage there. Sometimes the tenant, if a newcomer, suspects thieves and refuses permission to enter, but as a rule, the most stony hearted yields to the spirit of romance and the visitor is allowed to weep and mourn to her heart's content."—New York Press.

When the heart is healthy and performing its functions naturally, it should beat regularly seventy-two times a minute without causing its owner the slightest inconvenience or distress.

When it begins to beat irregularly or intermittently, palpitate and throb, skip beats, beat fast for a time, then slow as to seem almost to stop, it causes great anxiety and alarm.

The least excitement or exertion seems to affect it.

Many people are kept in a state of morbid fear of death, become weak, worn and miserable, and are unable to attend to either social or business duties, through unnatural action of their heart.

I started taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after using three boxes I felt much better. I continued the use until I had taken twelve boxes and I am now well."

CZAR'S GUARDS MUTINY

Revolt of Squadron of Hussars at Tsarskoe-Selo.

Too Strict Discipline Was Cause of the Outbreak—Mutineers Disarmed By Other Troops—Ringleaders to Be Tried—Disloyalty Not a Factor—Rebellion Was Not in Any Way Political.

St. Petersburg, June 6.—The Fourth Squadron of the Hussars of the Guard, stationed at Tsarskoe-Selo to which the imperial family had removed, revolted yesterday against the strict discipline which recently had been instituted by a new commander.

The trouble for a time threatened to spread through the entire regiment, but the mutinous troops were promptly surrounded and disarmed by other troops and order was restored without bloodshed. The ringleaders have already been turned over to a court-martial.

The news of the mutiny at Tsarskoe-Selo was received during Foreign Minister Iswolsky's weekly reception of the diplomats and caused considerable apprehension, the first news reporting the affair to be far more serious than the revolt of the soldiers of the Preobrazhensky Regiment, in June, 1906.

The officers of the Hussar Regiment say that the outbreak was not political.

FARMER SHOT, HOUSE ROBBED.

Apparent Case of Murder Near South Mountain.

Cornwall, June 4.—The authorities here think they are on the track of a murder supposed to have been committed some time Saturday night or Sunday morning.

The victim is a man by the name of James Lashway, a well-to-do farmer of Mountain Township, who was found dead in his home Sunday night with a bullet wound in his brain.

It was at first thought that it was a case of suicide, but further investigation revealed a few details which set the authorities thinking.

Lashway was found in his house Sunday night by a woman who did housework for him since his separation from his wife. He was laying on the floor and had a revolver in his left hand, but from the fact that the deceased was right-handed it seems doubtful if he would have fired the fatal shot with his left hand. Furthermore the position of the wound does not seem to indicate that it was self-inflicted.

Work of Burglars.

The theory that it was the work of burglars has also certain ground for belief. The door of the house appears to have been forced open and the whole place ransacked. Trunks were broken into, and their contents scattered about in all directions, and Lashway's watch and money are missing.

There has of late been considerable work done through the country by desperadoes, and it is not thought improbable that one of the gangs is responsible for the death of Lashway.

Deceased had visited his brother on Saturday and told him that he would return on Sunday. He was 50 years of age.

An inquest has been opened by the coroner, and the investigation will be continued on Friday. County Attorney Dingwall of Cornwall has been requested to attend the inquest.

ONE FOUND, ONE MISSING.

Boy's Body Recovered But No Trace of Companion.

St. John, N.B., June 5.—After a search of hours the body of John Lobb, aged 15, was found in the upper end of the harbor Monday night, but no trace was found of Harry Oulger, aged 15, his companion, who was with him. Lobb was playing on logs in a small cove, when it is supposed he fell off in deep water. His hat was found floating near by, and a search of the water with the net which the body was recovered in a short time. Oulger was seen with Lobb during the afternoon, and has not yet returned to his home. It is thought that the boy fell into the water, possibly while trying to get Lobb out. Searchers are still at work.

New Liskeard, June 5.—Orpin Orr and Jeff Thompson, of Toronto, were drowned at Temiskaming Falls, near New Liskeard, yesterday morning.

Several weeks ago Orr had obtained leave of absence from work for six months. With his brother-in-law, Frank Orr, and his companion, Jeff Thompson, he went to Cobalt district for his vacation.

The Temiskaming Falls are situated between Outlet Bay and Cross Lake, bodies of water directly south of the Islands in the Temagami Lake.

Two Men Drowned.

Widder, Yk., June 5.—Jeremiah O'Meara and Stephen Hall were drowned in the Connecticut River here yesterday, while the men were towing a cable. The boat capsized near a dam, and both men were swept over the falls. Hall was 28 years of age and married. O'Meara was 35. He came from Boston.

"PE-RU-NA WAS SUCCESSFUL WHERE DOCTORS FAILED,"

Writes Mr. Cholette After Taking Pe-ru-na.

MR. MENESIPPE CHOLETTE.

Mr. Menesippe Cholette, Ste. Therese de Blainville, P. Q., writes: "I shall never be able to speak in terms high enough to express the entire confidence I have in Peruna."

"There is nothing better to restore health. I took eight bottles. 'All the pains I had in the head and bowels, also the catarrh of the nose and stomach, as well as all other symptoms disappeared after I had taken the third bottle.'

"Peruna was successful where two doctors had failed. 'Were I the first to testify in favor of this remedy, it might be thought that I exaggerate, but many testimonials before mine have pointed out the great virtue of this effective tonic.'

"It would be unreasonable to undervalue a remedy which has snatched from premature death poor human beings who were beyond rescue by the doctors."

"This remedy has restored many a victim of incipient consumption and other diseases."

"Peruna is the best remedy for all catarrhal diseases."

WHEN the catarrh has become systemic—that is, when it has been allowed to spread through the entire system, it is a difficult disease to cure. Physicians do not always understand it and some of them do not care to treat it. Hence the inability of a great many patients to find a cure.

The correct thing to do for these cases is to make use of some internal, systemic catarrh remedy—one that will reach every internal organ of the body and exercise a healing, strengthening and soothing effect upon the mucous membranes lining these various organs.

Such a remedy has been found in Peruna. As Mr. Cholette states, his testimonial is not the first one written in behalf of Peruna, the remedy which brings permanent relief in all cases of systemic catarrh.

schools, with special attention to public school work. For the teachers now employed the senior teaching examination is to be divided into four parts, or the subjects may be taken in two parts, one in May and one in September, or both in September.

The requirements on the departmental examinations will still be 40 per cent. on each subject, and 60 per cent. on the total.

Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues resting in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood-purifier, stomach tonic and bowel regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages (the medicine will do that and cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and hang-on-coughs, which, if neglected or badly treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption. Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" as time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and just trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get the full benefits.
