"OUT OF THE SHADOW" IS BASED ON FAMOUS E. W. HORNUNG'S NOVEL

Pauline Frederick's New Film Has Exceptionally Strong Role for Star.

There are few who have not read E. W. Hornung's powerful novel, "The Shadow of the Rope," which was published several years ago and which has enjoyed a phenomenal sale. This story has been pictured by Paramount under the title of "Out of the Shadow," and it will be shown at the Griffin Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with beautiful Pauline Frederick in the stellar role.

Mr. Hornung has told in graphic style the story of a young Australian girl who weds a man, is treated with fendish cruelty by him, and when he is slain in self-defence by a pianist of whom he is jealous, the bride is arrested for his murder. She is tried, but acquitted, and later, her innocence is established when the slayer confesses.

The young woman then learns to love a strong man and their love rom-

THE BRIDE SHOP

Heralded as one of the most expensive productions on the road today, "The Bride Shop," George Choos, magnificent musical comedy organization which will be the attraction at the Grand to-night.

"The Bride Shop" is a musical farce comedy in two parts by Fred De Gressac, who wrote those well known successes, "The Purple Road," "The Enchantress," and "Flo, Flo," with lyrics and music by Earl MacBoyle and Walter L. Rosemont, who are very well known song writers.

The story is one of rapid romance and deals with an ambitious mother, a daughter with a mind of her own, a brother who thinks the men of this country are good enough for him, a newspaperman, an Earl to be (maybe) and several minor characters who manage to get into a lot of complications without half trying; there is also a chorus de Luxe and a Fashion Parade that will no doubt create some talk and envy among the fair sex. There are almost a score of the most tuneful and catchy melodies interspersed during the action of the play which will no doubt become very popular, once they have been heard.

Mr. Choos has gone to the extreme in mounting the piece, spending money like a prodigal on costumes and scenery, and has engaged a cast that is fully adequate to the demands made upon it among whom will be found Eddie Vogt, John Sully, Lew Naden, George Gould, Edith Benjan Nan Hopestill, Muriel Kastrick, Sally Hunt, Frances Allison, Muriel Thom and as others. The fashion parade will disclose numerous gowns and many new designs in lingerie and "what-cher-may-call-em-s." Scenically, the production is as picturesque as one would find anywhere, every detail having been given the most minute attention.

Says the Allies Have an Offer From Russia

Withdrawal of Allied Troops From that Country and Non-Interference in Affairs of Other Nations Basis of Proposals Says Editor

(Special to The Journal) London, March 31.—George L. Murray, editor of the New Labor newspaper, the Daily Herald, declares that the Allies have received a proposal from Russia for a resolution some time ago asked that a daylight saving measure be passed by Parliament, but on failure of proposal to carry at Ottawa last week the Council met in special session and of that understanding are the withdrawal of allied troops from Russia and the abandonment of policy interference in Russian affairs. Russia in her part, would be willing not to interfere with the affairs of other nations, allow Finland, Estonia, Lithuania and other Republics, formed from the by-gone Russian Empire, to choose their own forms of government and to pay Russia's international debts.
