EKEUTE FOR SHEBUTER A MAD DOG.—

RECURSION THE BITSOT A MAD DOG.—
Franklin Dyer, a highly respectable and instelligent tarmer of Galena, Md., gives the following as a sure cure for the bite of a mad dog. As will be seen, he has tested it with the most gratifying regular teleanness in a plant well finesyn, and is found in many of our gardens. Immediately after being bitten take one-ounce of the root of elecampane (the green is best, but the dry will do, it may be found Imany drug store; slice or bruise; put in a pintofreeh milk; boil down to a half pint; strain; when cold drink it, fasting at least six hours afterwards. Next morning repeat the dose prepared as the last, and this will be sufficient. It is recommended that after each dose nothing be eaten for at least six hours. I have a son that was bitten by a mad dog eighteen years since, and four other children in the neighborhood were also bitten. They took the above dose and are slive and well to this day. I have known a number of others who were bitten and applied the same remedy. The rost contains a principle which being taken up by the bleed in its circulation counteracts or neutralizes the deadly effects of the poison. I feel so much taken up by the blood in its uncontained the deadly sometimes of the poison. I feel so much confidence in this simple remedy, that I am willing you should give my name in a connection with this statement.

A new beauty has appeared upon the horizon of London. She is from the Channel Islands, and is the daughter of the Dean of St. Heliers. Mr. Millais was the troubadour who first told nations that she was beautiful by offering to paint her portrait. 'Society' has gone madover her. The other day, at a party, she was positively mobbed, and and more than one duchess climbed upon a chair to gaze upon her.

In September, 1776, there was a great conflagration on Manhattan Island, and nearly all the west side of Broadway, from Whitehall st. to Barclay-st. was laid in ashes. Old Trinity shared the fate of the city, but the royal arms were torn down and borne out of the burning building. After the Revolution they were taken by Loyalist families to St. John, N. B., and placed in a small house in Germain-st. between Queen and Duke-sts. which was used as a place of worship prior to the srection of Trinity Church. This edifice was built in 1788, and was subsequently enlarged. It was a plain wooden structure, with a spire and a clock tower. The roof was sustained by two lines of Doric columns, and the walls were adorned with tablets. Here hung the royal arms until the late fire, when the church was destroyed.
