Many a man who waves because he has to wait ten minutes for a train, can sit on a day and fish without getting a bite.

"What? Not lend a paltry $10 to me—to you?—her self?" "My dear fellow, I should never get it back—I know myself so well!"

The poet wrote "the child is father of the man," was somewhat disconcerted when a practical friend asked him the case would be if the child were a girl.

"Papa," said a lad the other night, after attentively studying for some minutes an engraving of a human skeleton, "how did this man manage to keep in his dinner?"

Few editors are so frank as he of the Raleigh News. Returning from his vacation he began, "Well, we have come back to the staff and all that, but our heart is up in the mountains."

"Poor man," said Mr. Partington, "and so he's really gone at last! Ninety-eight, was he? Dear, dear, to think how if he'd lived two years more he'd have been a centurion!"

The telegraph business is down pretty fine. It is so now that you telegraph ahead telling friends you are coming to see them on such a day, and you reach there a day's time to find your own own telegram, and make sure there are no mistakes in it.

At the commencement of the last sporting season the following information was exhibited at Lord Camden's seat, the Hermitage near Sevenoaks—"This is to give notice that Lord Camden does not mean to shoot himself or any of his tenants till the 14th of September."

"Say, George," said the married man whose wife had been ill; "I've discharged that nurse we had, and I'm taking her place myself now." "Taking her place?" inquired George. "Oh, I mean I can you do, old man?" "Oh, I can do about all," was the reply. "I always was a sound sleeper."

 Faithfulness and industry are the great work of all men.

He who can't sit at the table with the poor to duty, approaches duty with a high opinion of his own worth.
 Banish the word "I" from your vocabulary, and you will be a better man.

An ability and the opportunity to do good ought to be combined as well as they can be.
 Character is nobler than intellect. A great soul will be strong to live as well as to think.

Vanity keeps persons in favor with their selves who are out of favor with others.
 If we had no faults, we should not take so much notice in reflecting them in others.

The hearts of men are their books; events are their tutors; great actions are their choicest lectures.
 Be deaf to the great names blazoned to the sky, and glory in those who are cheerfully inquisitive.

We should do anything we can for others, if only to dissipate the thought of what they ought to do for us.
 Education does not prevent waste of time or misdeeds; it mistakes themselves as a means to the best teachers.

One act of kindness will have more influence on the spirits than all the soft water bath that were ever invented.
 Nothing makes the world seem so spacious as to have friends at a distance. They make the latitudes and longitudes.

Life does not count by years. Some suffer a lifetime in a day, and so grow old between the rising and the setting of the sun.
 A man without ambition is like dough without leaven in it to make it rise.

Perils of the Young.

Rev. John Hall, D.D., pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, New York, in an address to the central Young Men's Christian Association recently, amongst other pithy things, said there were five perils incident to city life which he would mention. The first was precocious development. It is, he said, said that there are no children now, and it is true that the little ones too early become authoritative and self-governing.

In a book I recently saw a chapter headed "children and how they should bring up parents in the way they should go." If a child is precociously developed, he is apt to be tempted to become selfish. The second peril is found in the false estimate to which we are so rapidly coming.

A boy is taught that happiness exists in proportion to riches. He sees a hand some mansion, fine horses, richly dressed people; he reads of entertainments, and it is natural for him to associate happiness with wealth. Don't be betrayed. The possession of wealth does not necessarily mean that the possessor is happy. The next peril is of a somewhat different kind. It is disregarding the privileges of Sunday and church attendance.

If there were no eternity, a day of rest, with its Christian institution, is a necessity. If we could get all the young men into our churches on Sunday who now frequent places where they would be ashamed to let their parents see them, we would be doing much to make their lives useful.

Loose thinking about great realities, or defective theology, I would name as the fourth peril. I have heard people speak of newspaper theology in no sense offensive to the newspapers. They are for the purpose, as their name implies, of giving news, and we owe much to them for the energy they exhibit in obtaining news. Let a man preach the old story, 1900 year old, and he will not be reported much. But let some one stand up who has something new, born perhaps in his fertile brain yesterday, and he will be in the papers of course.

I have become acquainted through the papers with a Mr. Miln, of Chicago, then a minister, who made a somewhat unusual statement about having learned the deepest truths in a theatre. That was news and he received a prominent place in the morning papers. My friends, have deep religious views and avoid loose thinking.

As a man thinketh in his heart, so he is in his life the world over.
 The last peril to which I shall call your attention belongs to the classes which appeals to our appetites, to our passions, to our natural lusts. You may find the perils in places where gambling facilities are provided, where drinking to the man's uttermost is a constant, and where the pleasures of the senses are made to become the temptress and the wayward way that leads to degradation. When a young man without public opinion, without consequent discipline, comes to such a place, he is at once routed out. When he is old he does not appreciate the home, for he does not know that it is a "home" but he would rather live in a "home" than in a "home."

Life of an Editor.

Before you go for an editor, young man, pause and take a big think! Do not rush into the editorial business too hastily. Look around and see if there is not an alibi or some meat cart to drive, some soil somewhere to be tilled, or a clerkship to be filled—anything that is respectable and healthy, rather than going for an editor, which is a bad business at best. We are not a horse, and consequently do not get as soon called upon to furnish the motive power for a thrashing machine; but we fancy that the life of an editor which is forced to write, whether he feels like it or not, is much like the steed in question. If the years and nights could be obtained, we believe that the thrashing machine is preferable to the sanctum editorial. The editor's work is never done. He is drained incessantly, and no wonder that he dries up prematurely. Other people can attend banquets, weddings, &c., visit halls of dazzling light, get inebriated, break windows, and enjoy themselves in a variety of ways, but the editor cannot. He must conscientiously stick to the quill. The press, like a sick baby, must not be left to run itself over for a day, or somebody indignantly orders the carrier boy to stop bringing that wire cled paper. "There is nothing in it; I won't have it in the house."—[Artemus Ward.]

A Blessing to all Mankind.
 In those times when our newspapers are flooded with patent medicine advertisements, it is gratifying to know that to procure that will certainly cure you if you are bilious, blood out of order, liver inactive, or general debilitated, there is nothing in the world that will cure you so quickly as Electric Bitters. They are a blessing to all mankind, and can be had for only fifty cents a bottle of James Wilson.

Thousands bear witness to the positive curative powers of the Great German Invigorator, the only remedy that has proved itself a specific for general debility, seminal weakness, impotency, etc., and all diseases that arise from self-abuse or overtaxed brain, finally ending in consumption, insanity and a premature grave. Sold by all druggists, or will be sent free on receipt of $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Address F. J. CHENEY, Toledo, Ohio, sole agent for the United States. Send for circular and testimonials of genuine cures. Geo. Rhyнас, Goderich.

A New Device.
 A Gananogue merchant has lately been further enlightened as to the thrift and enterprise of farmers' wives. A woman sold him some eggs that looked as though they had not been sat on for weeks; but as they did not "shake," he supposed they must be good. However, to make sure, he broke several of them, and found that they had been boiled, which so hardened the putrid contents as to keep them quiet when shaken. He is lying low for that woman now.—[Kingston News.]

A writer in the Bavarian Vaterland has found out that "the maidens of Hardanger, in Norway, are not allowed even to be betrothed—to say nothing of being married—until they can spin, knit and weave bread. The consequence is that every girl who has reached the age of 15 is a competent spinster in the original sense of the word—can knit excellent stockings and bake good bread." A similar education as a possible house-mistress, if not a positive law, was once the custom in other parts of Europe.
