The Recital at the Kirk

A very fair audience assembled at the Kirk last evening to hear Mr. Mawer's Recital, and a pleasant hour and a half it proved to be. The selections were all sacred, and of a high class, and Mr. Mawer and his choir are to be congratulated upon the success which they achieved. The male voices were strengthened by the presence of Messrs. Crane, LeMessurier and Gornick. The Sopranos were very good, with powerful, ringing tones, so much so, in fact, that they overpowered the other parts at times, and this disturbed the balance of the voices. The Altos were few in number and therefore unable to cope with the body of sopranos. This is a matter that is beyond Mr. Mawer's control. He cannot make voices to fill up the parts requiring aid; he can only make the best possible use of such voices as can be procured from the congregation worshipping in the Church. Taking these circumstances into account, the choir deserves credit for attempting "Worthy is the Lamb," a chorus which, in its fugal portion, especially, requires all parts to be well-balanced. The anthem, "Blessed be the God and Father" by Wesley, was very nicely sung. Miss Strang taking the soprano solo and Mr. Mawer, himself, the bass or baritone solo, as well as playing the accompaniment. The audience greatly enjoyed "Seek ye the Lord," for the voices were softer, and Miss McKinley sang the solo splendidly. In Grey's anthem, "O God, the Rock of Ages," Miss Irving was soloist and sang with much expression. The choir evidently enjoyed this number for they sang with good volume and kept well together. The closing chorus was "The Heavens are telling," from the "Creation," and it was sung with spirit, the choir coming out with a glowing burst of harmony. The trio was taken by Mrs. McKinley and Messrs. Crane and Hepburn. Quite an array of soloists was in evidence last evening. Dr. Smith led the way with "Waft her, angels," followed by Mrs. McKinley in "I know that my Redeemer liveth." This was highly appreciated. Mrs. McKinley's softer tones being very sweet. Mr. Hepburn has a pleasing baritone voice and sang "Arm, arm, ye brave," very acceptably. That really very difficult solo, "If with all your hearts" (Elijah) was given by Mr. Strang. He has a sympathetic voice of good quality and sang with feeling. He has large possibilities before him. Miss Strang is so well-known that it is needless to say that she sang splendidly. With great expression, a full command of her voice, and in perfect tune she performed her work to the great pleasure and satisfaction of the audience. Mr. Hugh LeMessurier was the last soloist and he gave "Honour and Arms" (Samson) in a most effective manner. He kept his voice in good control and yet declaimed the airs with vigor and emphasis. Raff's "Cavatina" by Miss Johnson served to show her undoubted ability to produce good tone and to reflect, through her playing, the soul of the musician. The organ numbers by Mr. Mawer were pleasing, and the "Epic Ode" was given with breadth. He showed much taste and judgment in his accompaniments, supporting, but not overpowering the voices, and deserves congratulations upon the success of the evening, as do also the members of the choir and those who so ably assisted them.

DIED FIGHTING FOR AIR.

Special to Evening Telegram. CHERRY, Ill., April 11. All active 2 o'clock p.m., Nov. 14. This is the latest message from the fatal St. Paul Coal Mine fire was brought to light to-day with the recovery of 31 bodies which had been entombed since the disaster of Nov. 15th. The bodies were taken from the lowest level, 500 feet below ground. The men were in a space of 20 feet square, and constructed a rude fan to keep the air circulating. On the fan in big letters were chalked the words quoted above, indicating that the men took turns at the crank of the fan, for one of the bodies was found prostrated over the handle, as though the man died while struggling to maintain the air. It was said tonight by mine officials that the bodies of nearly all the 300 miners killed by the disaster have been accounted for.

THE VETO.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, April 11. Interest in the political situation centres in the dispute between Chancellor Lloyd George and the O'Brienites regarding the alleged Budget concessions to Ireland. John Redmond, of the Irish Parliamentary Party, has issued an emphatic denial of Mr. O'Brien's statements made at Cork on Saturday night, but attempts in the House of Commons to-day to draw the Chancellor out on the subject were without result. Nothing further is likely to develop until Mr. O'Brien makes a personal statement before Parliament on Thursday. The House of Commons to-night debated Premier Asquith's second paragraph of the Veto resolutions. The discussion was notable for the capital maiden speech of the Hon. Nell Primrose, the youngest son of the Earl of Rosebery, which was listened to by his father and Queen Alexandra. Mr. Primrose was complimented on all sides for his style of oratory which was strongly reminiscent of his father.

Death of Mr. J. Curtis.

News was received in town yesterday that Mr. John Curtis, of Twillingate, died yesterday after a short illness due to a heavy cold. It is only a fortnight ago or so since his wife died. Another sad circumstance is that all his family were absent except a young grandson. The deceased was an estimable and well-known citizen and a staunch Liberal.

REBELS DISPERSE.

Special to Evening Telegram. CONSTANTINOPLE, April 11. The Government has promised to consider their grievances, and to comply with any reasonable demands if the rebels remain peaceful.

When Sleep Fails You

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD will bring rest, comfort and vitality by building up the nerves. Mr. Jas. Wesley Weaver, a veteran of the Fenian Raid, Port Dalhousie Ont., writes: "For years I was afflicted with nervousness and drowsiness, so that I never knew for three years what a full hour's sleep was, never more than dozing for a few minutes at a time. Heart pain and headaches almost drove me wild. I had spells of weakness and cramps in stomach and limbs. "Though I tried several doctors, it was money uselessly spent. Finally Dr. Chase's Nerve Food was brought to me and eight boxes cured me. I am simply wonderful what benefit I have obtained from this treatment." Sleeplessness and headaches are warnings of approaching nervous collapse. You can positively remove these symptoms and prevent prostration of paralysis by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmondson Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

Mail Couriers Fall Through Ice.

The mail couriers bound to Miller-Town Junction from Springdale with the Green Bay mail fell through the ice yesterday, while crossing Hall's Bay. Fortunately no lives were lost nor were the mail-bags, but four mail-bags were much damaged by the water. The news came through the Miller-Town Junction Postmaster to the Postmaster-General.

Wedding at Kelligrews

The wedding of Mr. Leo Nugent and Miss Rachael Craig, of Kelligrews, was solemnized at the R. C. Church there by Rev. Father Coady on Lov Monday. The bride was dressed in a beautiful costume of navy blue tulle with hat to match. Mr. James Nugent was best man. Miss Maggie Farrell attended the bride and looked pretty in a pale blue blouse, etc. The presents were many and useful, testifying to the popularity of the bride and groom, who are members of the leading families of Kelligrews. The bride is a niece of the late Mrs. Walsh of Kelligrews, who kept the hostler and had so many friends in the city. After the wedding supper dancing was begun and kept up till morning. The Telegram extends its congratulations to the newly wedded pair.

Personal Notes.

Mr. Francis R. Wallace, who has represented the International Correspondence schools in Newfoundland for the past two years and a half, has been promoted to the responsible position of Division Superintendent for New Brunswick of this great educational institution, and will make his headquarters at St. John, N. B. He leaves to take up his new duties on May 1st.
