Wrong Kind of Compliments

BY RUTH CAMERON.

The other afternoon I had a caller who said nice things about my house, my clothes, my flowers, my family, etc. a 1 m o s t every time she opened her pretty mouth.

And such clever and graceful nice things, too! She assured me that my old-fashioned furniture was beautiful in itself but even more beautiful as a background for my personality.

She flattered my taste in clothes by asking if I would mind if she copied a certain point in a gown which I wore. The full force of this compliment is only understood when you are told that she dresses infinitely better than I do and knows it, and knows that I know it.

She declared that I must be prepared to have her intrude frequently because she did so enjoy drinking afternoon tea from my old blue cups; it added so much to the flavor of the tea, "which is exquisite enough in itself, my dear."

You would surely think I would have been in a glow of pleasure over all these compliments, wouldn't you? And yet, hear my confession—they meant little or nothing to me.

And now, before you condemn my lack of appreciation, let me explain. I did not feel delighted with her gracious speeches because I knew they were actuated not by genuine enthusiasm but yet by a desire to please me, not merely by the wish to say clever and pretty things, that she herself might shine thereby in the eyes of my other guests and myself. How did I know it? I felt it just as one usually feels insincerity and pretense.

You think I may be doing her an injustice? Possibly. But I doubt it very much.

I think she is a type of a large class; the people who say gracious things and do kind acts not from any desire to give happiness but simply to make themselves appear well.

Surely you have met such people. Surely you have known by the self-satisfied smile with which they launched their pretty compliments that it was of themselves and not of you they were thinking. Surely you have realized the shallowness of their benevolence and seen it emanate beneath some slight inconvenience or annoyance or an insufficient return in gratitude.

Such people sometimes wonder why they are not more popular. They do the world an injustice. They think it unable to sense insincerity and tell a pose from a genuine feeling.

A pretty speech made with a genuine emotion behind it, an admiring note for the pleasure it will give and not the emotion behind it, and made only joy forever.

But the other kind, and the people who make them, we could well do without.

Household Notes.

Waterspilled on the bed when some one is ill may be quickly dried by filling a hot-water bottle full of boiling water and placing it between the mattress and the bed clothing.

If bread crumbs are kept tightly covered in a fruit jar, they are apt to become strong. Try tying a piece of muslin over the top; this gives ventilation and also keeps out the dust.

When buying a broom test it by pressing the edge against the floor. If the straws remain in a solid mass, the broom is a good one; if they break out and bend down, don't buy it.

The old worn bedspread will make a pretty tablecloth. Trim off the worn portion and dye it a pretty color, then turn a two-inch hem around the edges and finish with a fringe.

A stove that has been splashed with fat can be effectively cleaned by dipping a rag into the soot at the back of the stove and rubbing the greasy spots before applying the blacking.

To clean silk embroidery dip a camel's hair brush in spirits of wine and brush over the embroidery until it is clean. The brush should be frequently rinsed in some spirits of wine and brush over the embroidery until it is clean. The brush should be frequently rinsed in some spirit to remove the dirt.

Hard water stains can be removed from the bathtub by taking equal quantities of soft soap and whiteness. Apply with a soft rag or flannel, wash with warm water and polish with ammonia.

The wooden skewers which come with the joint of meat from the butcher's are most useful. Dampen the point with brick dust; it will reach any corner or crevice and remove stains or dirt.

The water marks on porcelain are successfully removed by saturating a flannel cloth with kerosene and thoroughly rubbing the tub; then wash with boiling water in which a little washing soda has been dissolved.

PRESCRIPTION "A"

CURES INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA IN ALL ITS FORMS.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: "Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heartiness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself, and at times I care for nothing."

I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden.

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a bottle of Prescription "A". A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at costly kind from them. He then spoke of the differing climates under which those twenty-five years had been spent. He congratulated the ladies on the capital manner in which they had kept all this secret, it being to him a real surprise and totally unexpected. Whatever power he possessed, he said, was at the service of his faithful parishioners, who had always been kind.

An additional gift arrived from a member of the parish and his wife—a handsome silver breakfast tray for which the rector also expressed his thanks.

The Rev. George R. Harrison, as an old St. George's boy, spoke very feelingly of St. George's and its rector, and thanked the congregation for all their kind interest in him those years back.

Refreshments were served by the ladies and a most pleasant evening was concluded in the loyal way and final benediction by the rector.—Halifax Daily Mail.

[The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham will be glad to hear these pleasant tidings of them. They were married in 1886 in the Cathedral here, and a report appeared in the Evening Telegram at the time, which they have kept by them. Mr. Cunningham is a son of one of the old-time missionaries on the West Coast.—Ed.]

Remembered Generously by the People

On Their Silver Anniversary, the Rector of St. George's Church and Mrs. Cunningham Received a "Surprise."

A very genuine surprise was extended to the Rev. Rural Dean Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham last night when they were suddenly called over from the rectory to St. George's Hall. They found the warden, J. G. Mitchell and G. A. Cook, in full charge, with a large gathering of the parishioners. The rector and Mrs. Cunningham were asked to go upon the platform, where Mr. Mitchell made a very happy speech of welcome and congratulation, and then read the accompanying address, after which Mr. Cook, on behalf of the congregation, presented to the rector and Mrs. Cunningham a splendid set of table silver in walnut case. At the same time little Miss Margery Mosher presented Mrs. Cunningham, with a beautiful bouquet of carnations. The address follows:

Halifax, June 9th, 1913.
To Rev. H. W. and Mrs. Cunningham, St. George's Church:
Dear Rector and Mrs. Cunningham,—When two persons have lived together for twenty-five years they should certainly know something about matrimony. It strongly appeals to us that storms and clouds have been few in your horizon, or else the pure wind and bright sunshine have dispersed them. It would be almost impossible to find a happier looking couple than your good selves, whose silver wedding we are here to celebrate. Even time has dealt very gently with you, so much so that we can scarcely realize a quarter of a century has elapsed since you pledged your vows before the altar. May the future be as bright and unclouded as the shining gifts that loving hearts have placed before you. May kind Providence long spare you and your good wife to enjoy the happiness resulting from mutual trust and love, a happiness that fame and wealth can never bestow.

On behalf of the members of your congregation, we remain,
Yours sincerely,
J. G. MITCHELL,
G. A. COOK,
Wardens.

The rector, in replying and expressing his own and Mrs. Cunningham's thanks for the kind thoughtfulness of those who had been so good to them, remarked that half of that twenty-five years had been spent in St. George's parish, where he had done his best to make others happy and as the warden said, they were going to ask the rector to sit in the pew while they did some talking, all he could say was that it was more pleasant to be in the pew than he could have imagined, and he hoped that the things dispensed from the pulpit and surrounding parts of St. George's Church might always be as acceptable to them, the actual pewholders, as it was to him and his to receive gifts of the lovely and Fifty Families Homeless.

Cobalt, Ont., June 13.—Nearly fifty settlers in the townships of Tudhope, Traux, Robillard and Daek, in the immediate vicinity of the town of Charlton, lost their homes and all their belongings in a bush fire which cut a swath several miles in width, and swept through the townships Wednesday and Thursday.

The settlers, with their families, fled from their homes, and no fatalities have occurred.

Not since the Porcupine fire of 1911 has such a fire swept the north country. Not only Charlton is affected, but practically every other township in the district where slashings have been made. In addition to the farmers' homes, which were destroyed, many saw mills also have fallen and lumber camps wiped out. Twelve miles in length was covered by the fire in the Long Lake section. The large saw and planing mill of the Northern Ontario Lumber Company, which stood on the shores of Long Lake, was destroyed by fire late Wednesday evening. The Company's loss will amount to about $1,000.
