This addition to a man's avoirdupois, secured as the result of breathing pure air and drinking good water, is one of the few commodities allowed to go untaxed by the McKinlev Bill.

The Gormans' Minstrels.

The mere announcement of the appearance at the Grand to-morrow evening of the Gormans and their always reliable minstrels, 'accompanied by Mr. George Brunton, the popular tenor of this city, should attract a large house. The Boston Herald says: "The departure the Gormans have made in their minstrel entertainment was evidently pleasing to the big audience that was present at the opening of the Globe Theater Monday evening. and everybody who attended apparently went away feeling in the best of humor. Three one-act comedictuse constituted the evening's amusement, and proved sufficient to satisfy all—"Percy Pendragon," "Wig and Gown," and "A Double Lesson." Miss Nokes appeared only in the latter two, and kept the entire audience in the best of spirits throughout. She can laugh, she can dance, she can sing, she can impersonate, and these all thoroughly and in such a winning manner as to spread her own gaiety over all the audience. As the impersonator of Miss 'St. Almond, a burlesque actress, she scored a perfect hit, and even showed a wealth of dramatic power when she veered into the tragic. Felix Morris, an old favorite, was a capital support, his part of Primmer, a Scotch butter, being a clever piece of acting, and showing good command of the Scotch dialect. The balance of the company was fully up to the requirement of their allotted parts, and proved excellent support throughout.

was spent until about 9 o'clock. Dr. Leonard, U.S. consul, occupied the chair, when the gathering was finally called to order in the church. In his brief opening address he dealt with the history of the church and the recent troubles through which it had passed. He painted a very hopeful picture of the church's future, and predicted that with united action prosperity was sure to attend them. Short, spirited and encouraging addresses, much on the same lines, were delivered by Kev. M. Watson, Liverpool, N. S., S. Bond, A. C. Courtice, W. J. Clark and J. Allister Murray, of the city churches, and J. Aytuard, of Cobourg. A very enjoyable musical programme was presented by the choir, assisted by Misses Mutch and Goldsmith in solos. Mrs. Mathewson gave a recitation. Mr. E. Green played the accompaniments. Very Bad Boys.

A correspondent writes that a gang of very bad boys every evening cause a great deal of annoyance at the corner of Horton and Burwell streets. They are even guilty of larceny. She says: "Last evening they opened a door so the bell did not ring and stole a box of candy. They keep throwing a store door open and give the shopkeeper a lot of abuse. From about 6 till 9 o'clock they prevent her from doing anything but look after them. Friday evening one of them broke the window and was stealing candy through it when a neighbor came and told the owner." It is certainly high time the police made an example of some of the urchins.

The Union Sabbath School Anniversary.

Despite the rain and sleet of last night, the old edifice known as the Whitehead Schoolhouse, Delaware road, was packed to the doors for the purpose of celebrating the sixth anniversary of the Union Sabbath School. On account of the absence of the pastor, Rev. J. Hueston, Mr. J. R. Watt, school master, was appointed chairman, after which the concert opened with the following programme: Chairman's address; chorus by a number of young ladies; recitation, Master Freeman Blackwell; chorus, ten little girls; recitation, Miss Mary Teaker; dialogue, "Coming," two boys; song, Mr. Hunt; recitation, Miss May and Maurice Hooper; guitar selections, Messra. Halloweon's Fun and Frolie.

Among is and lasses who have not reached the low making any it is a time for not done would be a supersition. The New Opera, the Sea King.

"The Sea King," the new comic opera by Richard Stahl, whose earlier work of "Said Pasha" is well remembered, and which has from all accounts merited the high things said in its favor, will receive its first production at the London Grand Opera House on Thursdaynight, the plan being now open. The opera first received its initial production in the city of Philadelphia the past summer, where its great success was so quickly established that after a month's run in that city it was transferred to Palmer's Theater, New York, and made as distinct a success as add "Erminic." "Clover," and to afford amusement to thousands of lovers of comic opera. Everything in the new work has been accomplished with a liberality never before accorded any comic opera production and that Mr. Gilmore firmly believes it will make him fame and fortune can in no way be better illustrated than by his purchase outright of the score and book. The opera will be given here with a very stong cast and will be given here with a very stong cast and will be given here with a very stong cast and will be given in its entirety, The opera will be given here with a very stong cast and will be given in its entirety, with every attention to detail the same as at Palmer's Theater, New York City.

Thanksgiving Supper.

The opera will be given here with a very stong cast and will be given in its entirety, evening. It is addressed to the gentler sex at Palmer's Theater, New York City.

Turn your boots towards the street, Turn your garters on your feet, Put your stockings on your head You'll dream of him you'll surely wed. You'l dream of him you'l need You'l dream of him you'l surely wed.

The dream, according to the old superstition, must not only come, but the shoes will in the morning be turned in a direction indicating the home of the lover. An incident is known where a pair of shoes thus placed were found turned towards the barn, suggesting the hostler as a future husband, but it was discovered that a prankish young brother, instead of a supernatural fate, had turned them. Notwithstanding that all the spells and ceremonies of a pagan or mythological character are now ridiculed. Halloween is still celebrated in a manner that much resembles the observances of that evening by the ancient Druids.

Thanksgiving Supper.

The Laidies' Aid Society of the Colborne Street Church tendered a thanksgiving supper to the members of the congregation last evening, the church and lecture hall being tastefully decorated with flowers. Previous to the meeting in the church the visitors were entertained by the ladies in the lecture hall, where refreshments were served, after which they repaired to the church. Dr. Eecles was called upon by the pastor to fill the chair as the greatest favorite with the ladies. Following a short address from the chair, a piano solo was given by Miss Forsythe and was well received. Between solos by Messra. Soper and Forsythe, Rev. G. W. Henderson, pastor of the Wellington Street Church, gave an address to young men on "Mental Culture" replete with excellent advice as to how they should commence life. Mr. Crawford then gave a recitation entitled "Sent Back by the Angels," which received an excellent rendition. A solo by Miss. I. Smyth concluded the musical part of the programme and received an encore. The last number on the programme was a speech from Rev. George Boyd, of the Queen's Avenue Church, on "Church work and what qualities were essential for a successful and prosperous church." Mr. W. J. Birks played the accompaniments during the evening.
