Buffalo Express. A bicyclist who was arrested re-cently for fast riding told Judge Hinson that he was not going faster than one revolution to the second," he de-clared. That statement was sufficient in itself to convict him had the po-liceman or the judge taken the trouble to figure it out. For the defendant's bicycle was of 72 gear. At the rate of one revolution a second a wheel of that gear covers nearly thirteen miles an hour, or almost three miles an hour more than the City

A little figuring will show these wheelmen their error. It will be also of benefit to wheelmen who have never yet been arrested, and who are positive that they never go faster than the rate of ten miles an hour. It is, of course, impracticable for wheelmen to gauge their speed according to a watch as they ride along, but it is not unlikely that, if T. Ballantyne & Sons shipped $15,000 they will time themselves for a few minutes when they are at leisure, they can become acquainted with the rate of speed the law allows them, and, by a little practice, form the habit of riding under the limit. If, then, a policeman should misjudge their speed (for policemen rely solely on their judgment, and are liable to Aberfoyle and Morriston, on Sunday err as a civilian does) they can prove last.

not violating the law. In computing the number of revolutions per minute allowed by law, allowance must be made for the different gears of wheels. For instance, gear is allowed more revolutions than a 68, because the 68 covers more ground each revolution. The gear of a machine is equivalent to the diamis to say, a safety of 68 gear covers the same distance revolution as an ordinary inches in diameter. The circumference of a circle being 3.1416 times its diameter, the gear must be multiplied by 3.1416 to calculate the distance the machine will go each distance the machine will go tach distance revolution.
