For nearly two years, not a stone has been laid upon it, although heaps lie on the easterly sidewalk, and elsewhere, broken and ready to put down. The solitary sidewalk has become dilapidated and dangerous, the road almost impassible, and more like a plowed field from the furrows that abound in it, and the notorious Tannery hollow a terror to travelers and pedestrians, for here there is no sidewalk, excepting a raised bank of red mud, which it is almost impossible for men, to say nothing of women and children, to pass over after rain, and especially dren, to pass over after rain, and especially such rain as we had yesterday. I heard one indignant workman exclaim as I passed him a few days since after wet weather, "I wish to heavens I could drag our ward aldermen through this," as he slipped and almost fell on his back, to which I inwardly ejaculated amen. Now I should like to know why this state of things is allowed to continue? More than I should like to know why this state of things is allowed to continue? More than a year ago, the question of filling the "hollow," to enable the street cars to run up to the north end of the city, was mooted, and what has been done in this direction since? A retaining wall on the west side, contracted for in about July, 1883, was commenced, corporation like, in November or December following, with the natural result, that the frost got into the work, and it became a question in the the matural result, that the lives got inthe work, and it became a question in the following spring if it should not be pulled down before it fell down! Then some of down before it fell down! Then some of the huge blocks of stone not used in the work were left in the contracted roadway, to the great peril of life and limb, for many months. During the early part of this year the plea of doing nothing to the road-way was set up because the sewer was nec-essary. At length, and before last summer set in, the sewer was completed. Then tenders had to be obtained for filling the "hollow," and I am told that these came in one was accepted and the contract one was accepted and the contract ned weeks, if not months ago, but corporation like, nothing has been done, or will likely be done on the road, until the whole northern part of Yonge street is kept back for want of the street railway, which the Hon. Frank Smith told the kept back for want of the street railway, which the Hon. Frank Smith told the writer, he would construct in a week, if the road were prepared for him. Now, whilst the corporation are "dickering" with the county about the toll-gate and the piece of road, through and over which citizens have to pay tolls, in addition to their taxes (and which has been going on for nearly two years), the Metropolitan street railway, with landable enterprise, are forcing their road through, and actually commencing to lay their track, although they only broke ground two days ago, intending to complete it from the railway crossing to Eglinton in about six weeks with the result that by this time next year (when it is hoped the dity will have got through its arrangements with the county) a part of the metropolitan tramway will be found in the city, and the residents on the west side of Yonge street will find themselves overloaded with tramways, one being on their side of the road close to the ditch, and blocking the access to their premises, and the other in the middle of the road, (the proper place for it) whilst the regular throad down will have to be comthe other in the middle of the road, (the proper place for it) whilst the regular traffic up and down will have to be confined to the east side of the road, all of which might have been avoided had the corporation displayed one-tenth of the same dilligence that any business man would exert in his ordinary avocations. Verily the residents of the northern part of the city on Yonge street are a long suffering people and have not much cause to rejoice over the day that increased the burden of their taxes, by linking their fortunes to the city of Toronto. I may ask the privilege of again averting to this subject, meanwhile I subscribe myself,

King Street's Snide Show.

Since The World first called attention to the King street abomination, the fakirs who run it have been taking every measure in their power to evade the clutches of th law. One of their first acts on Monday was to remove the most repulsive features of their show. These must be nameless here, but it ought to be understood that bear relating. They evidently fear a raid from the police force, and have been furnishing the officers with any amount of tree tickets.

William Goodwin, Henry Upson and Thomas Watson at the police court yesterday were charged with disorderly conduct and Watson was also charged with assaulting P. C. Stewart. Stewart swore that he heard a loud noise on Yonge street at 1 o'clock yesterday morning as if some parties were singing, and when he questioned the prisoners he was knocked down and kicked and had to draw his baton to and kicked and had to draw his baton to defend himself. Upson and Goodwin were discharged, and after being sworn stated that they had been to the theatre and that they had been to the theatre and after going home sat on their door step singing. A constable came up and without speaking struck Watson on the head with a club. Watson protected himself, and was arrested. The magistrate discharged Watson and ordered the deputy chief to bring the matter before the police commissioners.

lone, charged with trespass, were discharged. Wm. Winsor, a wife beater, remanded for a week. James Walsh, stealing an overcoat from Wm. Johnston, was sent down for a month. Wm. Sinnott, charged with assaulting P. C. Coulter, was fined $10 and costs or forty days. John Campbell, charged with having committed Campbell, charged with having committed an indecent assault on his landlady, was fined $20 and costs or thirty days. Judith Trembly, a vagrant, was remanded until Thursday. Three small boys, John Kav-anagh, Alex. Ross and Joseph Redden, handkerchief from John McClellen on a street car, were brought before the magistrate yesterday morning. Inspector Newhall has been making enquiries regarding the pair and reported that St. Clair was a professional the from Detroit, upon hearing which the magistrate sent him down for 60 days. Irving's record was even worse than St. Clair. He was arrested on a charge of highway robbery in the states worse than St. Clair. He was arrested on a charge of highway robbery in the states under the name of Dwyer, but before his trial carde on he escaped from Jackson prison. He was sent to the central prison for nine months.

Duncan Clarke, Alex. Dixon, T. R. Wood, G. M. McGurn, R. Wickens, Wm. Henderson, Chas. Berry, Hugh Scott, G. J. Pyke, J. J. Kenny, S. Wood, Robert Maclean and T. R. Ball. They are charged to ask that insurance rates in this city be raised 10 per cent., owing to the defective and irregular working of the fire alarm system, the Toronto board promising to system, the Toronto board promising to restore the old rates when the system has been thoroughly repaired.

The question is, what are our city fathers going to do about it?

A Small Horse Thief. James Ryan of Colborne street yester day morning missed his horse and buggy day morning missed his horse and buggy from the front of his office where he had tied the horse a few minutes previously. No traces of the animal could be found, and he gave information to the police. As he was proceeding along Queen street west yesterday evening he noticed a boy driving a horse and buggy which he recognized as his. He notified P. C. Hart who arrested the boy and took him to No. 2 station where he gave his name as Luis Bevivue, 12 years old, of University street.

THE REASON WHY.

Joining the Egyptian Expedition.

From the Winnipeg Sun.

It has just been discovered that a detario bank. He was also captain of the Winnipeg bicycle club. It is charged that house in company with a younger brother he had been living rather fast for some and sister, between 8 and 9 o'clock, when, time before leaving the city. He told the manager a couple of weeks ago that he wanted to go west for a few days as a holiday. The manager had no objection, especially as Mr. Nourse balanced up his accounts and they appeared to be perfectly square. When the Winnipeg contingent of the Gordon relief expedition left the city, Mr. Nourse left with it. The loan company that guaranteed him desired to know if his accounts were all right, but as the bank manager could not say that anything was wrong, Nourse was allowed to depart. An investigation is being made into his accounts and some small deficiencies have been discovered. It is expected that more will be found before the investigation is concluded. Nourse left a number of creditors behind him.

The marriage of young Carling, aged 17, to a mere child in Canada last week, recalls to mind some startling facts about early marriages. The world is given to oddling these baby lovers to such an extent that a master and miss not yet out of short clothes are adorned with all the short clothes are adorned with all the airs and graces of marriageable parties. Girls of tender age must be arrayed in satins and silks, flirt, sit up with "company" until midnight and the like when they should be abed at dark and up with the lark in the morning. Recent statistics show that very early marriages are becoming exceedingly common. In New York girls and boys of 12 and 14 keep "company," and fathers 16 years old and mothers 12 and 14 are by no means uncommon. Among the Indians this is true to a greater extent, and an Italian girl is not allowed to grow more than half her alloted time before she is stunted by an early marriage. early marriage.

The Hudson Bay Rout "What is more important for you, men of Canada, it is the truly grand project of the Hudson's bay navigation. I am aware committee of experts is now sitting on the project and considering whether it is practicable. If it be declared practicable, well and good; but if not, then I will never abandon the hope that it will be found so so by a future generation. I believe it must be practicable as the sea has been must be practicable as the sea has been navigated for generations by the Hudson's bay company's vessels, and what is possible for them must be for the finely equipped steamers of the present day. What are the objections urged to the scheme? That the harbors in the bay are open only a few months in the year. But I believe the Hudson's bay company's ships came almost when they pleased, and why should not the steamer? But if not, I do not see why the route is not practicable. I have seen in the old

But if not, I do not see why the route is not practicable. I have seen in the old country a line which was open only three or four months in the year, and did an enormous business. So that if for only three or four months you have open navigation in the bay, and ocean going vessels come from Liverpool to Port Nelson, that circumstance will make a world of difference to the Northwest and introduce a new feature into your political life. It will make a new country of you, placing Winnipeg almost in direct communication with the markets of Liverpool, and it will have an immense effect on the great northern district which I regret I have not had time to visit."—Sir Richard Temple, in
