

SCRAP BOOK.

"Don't!" exclaimed John, while his "better half" was energetically laboring him with the broomstick, "don't, wife, you are tiring yourself all out."

A Connecticut man advertises himself as a "temperance bootmaker." Which means, we suppose, that when his boots prove to be tight he will reform them.

Do you ever read the newspapers? No! Have you any opinions about anything? No! Do you know your right hand from your left? No! Do you consider yourself a species of born idiot? Yes! Then you are fit for a jurymen. Swear him.

An Englishman who insulated his bedstead by placing underneath each post a broken off bottle, says he had never been free from rheumatic gout for fifteen years, and that he began to improve immediately after application of the insulators. A paper quoting this, wisely says: "There's many a fellow who could cure his gout, if he would break off the bottoms of his glass bottles in time."

INALIENABLE RIGHTS.—Every woman has a right to any age she pleases, for if she were to state her real age, no one would believe her. Every woman who makes puddings has a perfect right to believe that she can make a better pudding than any other woman in the world. Every man who carries has a decided right to think of himself, by putting a few of the best bits aside. Every woman has a right to think her child the "prettiest baby in the world," and it would be the greatest folly to deny her this right, for she would be sure to take it. Every young lady has a right to faint when she pleases, if her lover is by her side to catch her.

Old Mr. Thorp went into the parlor the other night at the witching hour of 11:45, and found the room unlighted, and his daughter and a very dear friend—one of the dual forms of garment variety—occupying the tete a tete in the corner. "Evangeline," the old man said, sternly, "this is scandalous." "Yes, papa," she answered, sweetly, "it is candleless, because times are so hard and lights cost so much, that Ferdinand and I said we would try and get along with just the starlight." And the old gentleman turned about in speechless amazement, and tried to walk out of the room through a panel in the wall paper.

ABOUT DRINKING.—When it can be said of a young man "he drinks," and it can be proven, what store wants him for a clerk? What church wants him for a member? Who will trust him? What dying man will appoint him as his executor? He may have been forty years building his reputation—it goes down. Letters of recommendation, the backing of business firms, a brilliant ancestry, cannot save him. The world shies off. Why? It is whispered all through the community, "He drinks! he drinks!" That blasts him. When a young man loses his reputation for sobriety, he might as well be at the bottom of the sea. There are young men who have their good names as their only capital.

THE OPINIONS OF MEN.—The saintly Cure of Ars relates that on a certain day, he received two letters, one heaping insults upon him, the other calling him a Saint. Showing the letters to his Daughters of Providence, he said, "See the danger of trusting to human feelings. This morning I should have lost the peace of my soul, if I had paid any attention to the insults addressed to me, and this evening, I should have been greatly tempted to pride, if I had listened to all those compliments. Oh! how prudent is it not to dwell upon the vain opinions and discourses of men, nor to take any account of them." On another occasion he said "I received two letters by the same post; one said I was a great saint, and the other that I was a hypocrite and impostor. The first added nothing to me; and the second took nothing from me. We are what we are before God, and nothing more."

A PUNCTUATION PUZZLE.—The following article forcibly illustrates the necessity of punctuation. It can be read in two ways, making it a very bad or good man, the result depending upon the manner in which it is punctuated. It is well worthy the study of teachers and pupils: "He is an old and experienced man in vice and wickedness he is never found in opposing the works of iniquity he takes delight in the downfall of his neighbors he never rejoices in the prosperity of any of his fellow-creatures he is always ready to assist in destroying the peace of society he takes no pleasure in serving the Lord he is uncommonly diligent in sowing discord among his friends and acquaintances he takes no pride in laboring to promote the cause of Christianity he has not been negligent in endeavoring to stigmatize all public teachers he makes no efforts to subdue his evil passions he strives hard to build up Satan's kingdom he lends no aid to the support of the gospel among the heathen he contributes largely to the evil adversity he pays no attention to good advice he pays great heed to the devil he will never go to heaven he must go where he will receive the just recompense of reward."
