

Cultural Promotion: Opportunities Abroad for Professional Canadian Artists

Development of Markets Abroad

The Department provides financial assistance for artists to tour abroad for short periods of time to give lectures, readings and exhibitions. These tours can often be organized with the help of a Canadian mission.

Financial assistance is limited to the cost of international transportation. The host institution is expected to cover local costs.

Participation in Major International Events Abroad

Professional Canadian cultural associations may apply for assistance to participate in major international conferences, symposia, festivals, and other events of this nature.

Financial assistance is limited to the cost of international transportation.

Participation in Major Artistic Events Abroad

Artists invited to participate actively in major international events abroad may apply to the Department for financial assistance. This assistance is limited to the cost of international transportation.

Projects submitted to the Department under the above three programs are studied by its Advisory Committee on Foreign Cultural Relations.
