

work in connection with the church was always performed in a remarkably quiet, unostentatious manner, and with such fidelity and painstaking as endeared him to his brethren. "With charity for all, and with malice toward none" he stood by his convictions of truth and right, and was recognized by all who knew him as a man of sterling integrity. In his death the church has lost one of its very best members, and society one of its most valuable citizens.

His funeral occurred on the 22d of February. A very large company of neighbors and friends assembled at his late residence at two o'clock p. m., and after a brief prayer by Rev. J. B. Tuttle, the procession moved to the First Baptist Church, where the religious services were conducted by pastor Tuttle, assisted by the Rev. James Grant of Paris. Over fifty carriages and sleighs followed the remains from the house to the church, where they were met by hundreds of the citizens of Brantford. The pulpit and furniture were handsomely draped, and in front of the desk stood a beautiful floral anchor, the gift of the children of the Mission School over which the deceased had presided for a number of years. The large audience-room was crowded, many being obliged to stand throughout the service. Deacons T. S. Shenston, Geo. Hill, E. Benedict, Geo. Chittenden, D. Dengate, and Wm. Moyle acted as pall bearers. Seldom in the history of the church has death removed one from our midst so universally mourned by the entire church and community, and none could have been more sadly missed than this dear servant of the Lord.
