It is further evident, that if each one of the 5698 pays to a common fund £1 at the beginning of a year, it will amount to a sum which will admit of the payment of £100 to the heirs of each of the 56 who may die during the year; and this can be continued year after year, though the payment must increase, in proportion to the annually increased chance of death.

A Life Assurance Company, may be said to proffer its aid as a Bank of Deposit, to receive these sums, and as the Depositors die, to pay the full share to their heirs; but as these Institutions generally profess to admit only healthy
