

IN DREAMS

new powers. As things are now, to be emotional is to be considered weak, sentimental, or sinful. Pauline self-repression is the ideal on the one hand, and hypocrisy and license the result on the other. Both roads lead to a selfishness that defeats the collective ideal of nature and impairs the success of our civilization, which is itself the expression of the collective ideal."