vary their style to the occasion

Some there are only for more formal wear, others just as exclusively for street wear. But the most charming are those practical modes developed in satin (sometimes in combination with serge) which are practical for all occasions.

TEDDY POSSUM ATTEMPTS A TOWN MEETING.
After Mr. Wolf had scared all the little people of Silver Pond, and they had either climbed up their family trees or hidden in the waters of the pond, there was a wonderful silence in the Great Forest. And after a long wait Mr. Wolf decided to go away and hunt elsewhere.

After Mr. Wolf had gone, all the little people came down from their family trees, or came out of the water where they had been hiding, quivering with fear because of Mr. Wolf's unexpected visit.

All the little people gathered again at the Beaver's dam, and agreed to call a Town Meeting to decide which was the most ancient family in the Great Forest.

That is, all the little folk thought he was asleep, for he was inside his little house, and all the windows and doors were shut, and all the blinds and shutters were closed. You remember that Grandpa Turtle carries the bungalow in which he lives on his back.

As Grandpa Turtle was so still, and his little house was so quiet and dark, Teddy Possum, who thought himself so smart, yelled out: "Jimmy Coon, will you throw a stone against the window of old Mr. Turtle's house and wake him up? For it's time to begin this Town Meeting."

And quick as you could wink an eye out popped Grandpa Turtle's head from his front door, and his bright eyes snapped.

"You see, Grandpa Turtle is very, very old, and very, very wise, and all the little people have great respect for his wisdom. You know, Grandpa Turtle is over one hundred years old, and he has always lived in Silver Pond. And Grandpa Turtle's grandfather lived to be a hundred and fifty years old."

Tomorrow—Grandpa Turtle is Chairman of the Town Meeting.

WHY NOT JOIN THE W. F. W. O.?

Why should farmer women organize? Is it not sufficient for our purpose that the men are organizing, in view of the fact that we are under the present U. F. O. constitution, that we are honorary members of the association? These are the questions that have been asked frequently. When women are made merely honorary members of the farming profession they will be content, perhaps, to be mere honorary members of the club. But the successful farmer today are those that have been managed by the joint work and planning of husband and wife. Indeed, in no other business does the wife's success depend so largely on his wife's capability and co-operation. Whether the present farm problems are viewed from a personal, community or national standpoint, women feel the inconvenience and injustice of the whole situation just as keenly as men do, and the situation is grave enough that it will need our united effort to successfully cope with it.

Women are now voters. Any organization has weight with the Government, just in proportion to the actual number of votes contained by it. The reason why farmers receive practically no consideration is because up to the present time they have been just individuals, and, of course, could not have any real influence.

The conditions on the farm are far from ideal. We work longer hours and receive less for our work than any other class. We produce three-quarters of the nation's wealth, and own—what? So our aim is the betterment of farm conditions by our own interchange of ideas, co-operation and by organizing to secure needed legislation.

The farm woman must learn something of the principles underlying Government policy if she is to vote intelligently, and one cannot help repeating again and again that the one need of today is thoughtful, honorable use of the franchise. To the majority of us the ballot comes unsought, and so in our clubs we must study civics, and the science of government, in order that we may cast our votes where they will count most for righteous government, and we must have no "political skin"; to her, but they are directly opposite, so she must think for herself.

Eligibility for Membership.
Who may join these clubs? Farmers' wives and daughters 18 years of age or over, or any person of that age whose work and aims are in accord with those of our club. Until after December 31, 1918, organization is provisional. At the U. F. O. convention, which will be held at that date, the constitution of the U. F. O. will be amended, striking out the clause which makes women honorary members, and gives the U. F. W. O. equal standing with the U. F. O. The officers are Mrs. George J. J. Newman, president, and Miss Emma Griesbach, Collingwood, secretary-treasurer. There is also a standing committee of seven members.

Either of the above ladies will be glad to answer any questions relative to our work. Wherever there is a U. F. W. O. there should be a U. F. W. O. Five women may meet, elect president, secretary and three directors, and then add to their numbers. The fee is the same as that of the U. F. O., $1 per year, 50 cents of which is sent to the provincial secretary and the remainder kept by the local club. Meetings can be arranged either jointly with the U. F. O., or as in the case of the Women's Institute. Let us each put ourselves in touch with this great movement, widen our outlook, increase our influence and help to make our profession the power it should be in helping to mold national trend of thought and action. Yesterday is past. Tomorrow will be shaped largely by today's action. Let us be up and awake.

POLLY AND HER PALS.—The Neighbors May Complain, But Who Will Hear Them?

Daily Bible Question Club

UNIFORM LESSON FOR SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1918.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION.

By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.

Conquering evil, May be used with temperance applications.—L. Kings xxi: 1-21; Eph. v: 6-21.

Questions For Today.

8. Verses 9-14.—What is the limit of the badness to which men may be driven by pride and covetousness?

9. Verses 15, 16.—On what principle in human nature can you explain Ahah's entering gladly into possession of a property by perjury and murder?

10. Verses 17-24.—What was the penalty which God pronounced against Ahah, and Jezebel, and how was it carried out?

Golden text: Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather even remove them.—Eph. v: 11. WE SHOULD NEVER PATRONIZE SIN.

The evils which we have to fight are many, and it is essential that all who are good, and true, should continue their warfare against them. But besides this, we should never, in any way, allow ourselves to patronize sin, for that matter, to patronize any of the tendency of which is sinful.

Many things which church members patronize these days, that the fathers would blush at, if they were alive. We should not be narrow, nor oppose anything which is healthful, and helpful, but we should have courage enough to not patronize many doubtful things which are very popular. The theatre, and for the most part, the moving picture shows, the dance, and the use of tobacco, are things which we should denounce.

A faded colored waist may be made white by boiling it in a cream-of-tartar solution. One teaspoonful of cream of tartar to one quart of water will bleach it perfectly.

Mr. Edmund Meredith, K.C., and Miss Mary Meredith have returned from the States.

Mrs. A. W. Robinson of Waterloo street and two children have left on the S.S. Hamonic for Duluth.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at a home of Rev. J. M. Gunne, when Miss Ina McLean was united in marriage to Arthur Stanton of this city.

The church was attended by her sister, Mrs. M. Shields, and the groom was supported by W. A. Rae, Grey street.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanton left for Duluth, and on their return they will reside on Cartwright street.

Mrs. Layton Pitt of this city, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. John Butler, and little granddaughter, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Perkins, Hyde Park, over the holiday.

Mrs. Roy Jenkins and infant son and daughter of Brandon, Manitoba, are visiting in the city, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Holland, Edward street.

"Cedar Lodge," the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. O. White of Mapleton, was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding when Miss Lenore, youngest daughter of Mrs. White, was united in marriage to John Wesley Johnston of La Maure, North Dakota.

The wedding was the culmination of a college romance that institution in 1917. Both were active in college life and members of the Delta Gamma and Phi Beta Kappa fraternities respectively.

Several guests from a distance were present, and many beautiful presents were received. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful wedding ring, the gold band of which was set with cut diamonds. After a short trip east, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston will reside at home at La Maure, North Dakota.

Sheriff D. M. Cameron has resumed his duties after spending a short vacation, in company with Mrs. Cameron, at Santa Beach.
