METHODIST W. M. S. IN ANNUAL SESSION

Encouraging Reports of Work in Western and Far Eastern Field Are Presented.

The 27th annual meeting of the board of managers of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church opened yesterday morning in Carlton-street Church.

The reports of the nominating committee and the reception of memorials and resolutions were next presented, followed by a most interesting report given by Mrs. G. P. McKay, the home corresponding secretary. Her report contained the following statistics of interest: Of mission circles there was a reported increase of 81, with a total membership of 29,269, in the mission board branch, an increase of 64 in the number of bands were reported with a total membership of 9594.

The salient feature of the report of the supply committee was the fact that the special demands on the society were large. The total amount sent in to the general treasurer was $88,123.10, or $300 more than last year, while the eastern thank offerings alone realized the sum of $4,827.81.

Mrs. Geo. Kerr, associate field secretary, gave a complete report of the work among the French, Indian and Galician settlements in Canada. The Institute Methodiste Francaise, Montreal, had accommodated 104 residential students during the year, while its capacity was only 80. Thirty-six of these students had joined the Methodist Church.

The French Protestant Home had 16 boys and 15 girls in attendance. Ten of the children were old enough to attend public school and all passed the promotion examinations. During the year Mrs. Pearson, the matron, had been forced to resign on account of ill health and had been succeeded by Miss Fisher, a graduate of the Deaconess Training School.

The teachers in the day school at St. Jovite, St. Theobald, Quebec, and East and West Montreal had all made satisfactory progress. Taking up the Indian work Mrs. Kerr said the conduct of the 46 girls in the Crosby Home was deserving of highest commendation, while in domestic art they had carried off prizes at the promotion examinations. During the year Mrs. Pearson, the matron, had been forced to resign on account of ill health and had been succeeded by Miss Fisher, a graduate of the Deaconess Training School.

Between 80 and 90 Indian boys were being trained in the Colbaletza Institute. Forty dollars had been raised by them towards mission work. Miss Hunter had been prominently successful in deaconess work among the mothers.

The hospitals among the British Columbia Indians, Rivers Inlet, Hazelton and Clayouct and the one at Morley, Alberta, continued to be centres of light and healing.

Since the government school had been opened at Wabstao and the Galician people made to some extent responsible for Simpson, the attendance had greatly increased. The workers of the society had made 191 evangelistic visits during the year and held 45 women's meetings. The Pkan Hospital for Galicians had supplied a great need as these people were particularly deficient in caring for their sick.

Reviewing the work in Japan, the field secretary, Mrs. E. B. Strachan of Hamilton, said: "Notwithstanding some government restrictions, and in one case the rivalry of an adjacent Roman Catholic institution, our three boarding and day schools in Tokio, Shizuoka and Kofu have been crowded to the utmost, and aside from the knowledge imparted, there has been careful and practical training (not always easy), but the results in growth

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

SHE LAUGHED.

Advently I said I loved her:
That without her smile to cheer,
Blessings would turn to pitfalls,
Life be meaningless and drear,
In her eyes I sought my answer,
Tremblingly 'twixt hope and fear,
And—she laughed,
Looking straight into my face, Sir,
She laughed.

One year afterward I met her;
Back again the mad thoughts rushed,
All the pain that I thought buried,
All the longings that crushed,
As a stranger then, I passed her,
Tho' my conscious face was flushed;
But—she laughed!
Gaily bidding me good morning, Sir,
She laughed.

Still another year I met her,
Fair as ere she used to be,
My heart bounded as I saw her,
For I knew that I was free
From the fancied load I carried;
And I smiled, and, quick to see,
She laughed.
In my heart, then, how I thanked her
That
She'd laughed!

Rival of Fudge.

Do you know how to make "divinity"? It is putting our old friend fudge to second place.

Two saucepans are used, and in the one is put three cupsful of granulated sugar, the other pan is put two-thirds of a cupful of water.

Into the other pan is put a cupful of granulated sugar, and half a cupful of water.

Both pans are put on the fire until the syrup spins into a thread when poured. When both pans are ready the syrup in the first pan is stirred slowly over the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs, a continual beating going on all the time.

Then the second pan is turned over after a cupful of chopped nuts has been added. It is all turned into a buttered pan, it can be marked off into small pieces like fudge when it is cool.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The annual rally meeting of the Northern Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held in the parlors of the Woodgreen Presbyterian Church, Bloor-street east, to-day at 8 p.m. The winter's work will be discussed and superintendents will be appointed.

Protection.

Many an unlined blouse, whether of silk or wash material, quickly becomes unsightly across the shoulders, because marked by perspiration. A resourceful woman takes a large size man's handkerchief—an inexpensive one—cuts one across the middle, and then opens one side from the hem to the circle. This she slips on and lets it fall into place, removing the perspiration marks admirably. Of course, if one cuts several pieces of cotton cloth the shape of the yoke in back and fastens them in the center, they are better when they are soiled, the same purpose is served.

Odd Sets of Lace.

Never throw away a scrap of lace, no matter how short or small it may be. It will come in for some good purpose. The lace of a few inches for the sleeves or neck of baby's dress, and still fewer for a knot or rosette on his little linen booties. For a jabot and other bits of neckwear, lace of almost every size and description is of use. However, in keeping the lace, see that they are carefully smoothed and pressed, otherwise it is scarcely worth while keeping them.

To Stop Rusting.

Truly this suggestion seems odd, yet a trial is said to have convinced many that it is thoroughly practical. The claim is that needles and pins rusted in the pin cushion will be things of the past, if the cushions are filled with coffee grounds—no fresh ground coffee, but the grounds from the coffee pot, rinsed and dried.

A Mother's Letter to Her Son.

So you are 21?
And you stand up clear-eyed, clean-minded, to look all the world square, by in the eye. You are a man!
Did you ever think, son, how much it has cost to make a man out of you?
Someone has figured up the cost in money of rearing a child. He says to bring up a young man to legal age, care for him and educate him, costs $25,000. Which is a lot of money to put into flesh and blood.
But that isn't all.
You have cost your father many hard knocks and short dinners and worry and gray streaks in his hair. And your mother—ah, boy, you will never know! You have cost her days and nights of anxiety and wrinkles in her dear face and heartaches and sacrifice.
It has been expensive to grow you.
But—
If you are what we think you are, you are worth all you cost—and much, much more.
Be sure of this: While father doesn't say much by "Hello, son," you down deep in his tough, staunch heart, he thinks you are the finest, bravest, and as for the little mother, she simply cannot keep her love and pride for you out of her eyes.
You are a man!
And some time you must step into your father's shoes. He wouldn't like you to call him old, but, just the same, he isn't as young as he used to be. You see, young man, he has been working pretty hard for more than twenty-five years to help you up! And already your mother is beginning to lean on you.
Doesn't that sober you. Twenty-one!
Your father has done fairly well, but you can do better. You may not think so, but he does. He has given you a better chance than he had. In many ways you can begin where he left off. He expects a good deal from you, and that is why he has tried to make a man of you.
Don't flinch, boy.
The world will try you out. It will put to the test every fiber in you.

In Society.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Davidson, Alexander-street, was the scene of a quiet wedding Saturday afternoon at three o'clock, when their daughter, Christina Alice, was married to Mr. Harry T. MacDonald, formerly of the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, and now advertising manager for J. W. T. Fairweather, by Rev. S. W. Pallas of Woodstock, Ontario.

The ceremony was performed in the drawing room, which was prettily decorated with asters and palms and Mrs. E. F. Arnold, the bride's sister, played the wedding march.

The bride was given away by her father, and wore a princess lace robe over white silk, embroidered in pearls. Her attendant was her little niece, Jean Arnold, who acted as flower girl, in a dainty pale blue silk dress with basket of lilies of the valley.

After the reception at which only the immediate friends and relatives were present, Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald left for New York and Philadelphia, the bride traveling in a tan chiffon broadcloth suit with large brown felt hat. They will be at 32 Alexander-street on their return.

There were many beautiful gifts from a large number of interested friends.

Mrs. W. S. Ross, who has been spending the summer in Toronto, left Monday afternoon per steamer Toronto for Montreal, where she will visit Mrs. L. J. Beinau, Westmount.

The engagement is announced of Pauline, daughter of Thomas P. Offord, West Toronto, late of Kensington, London, Eng., to Ronald D. Miller, also of London, Eng. Miss Offord is leaving for England this week where final arrangements will be made for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Franks of Beatrice-street, and Master Gordon, have returned home after spending a very pleasant month at Sparrow Lake.

A marriage will take place next month between Helen Cornelia, youngest daughter of Col. and Mrs. N. P. Paterson, and Mr. Edward Francis Qua.

Dr. W. J. Dobble, physician-in-chief of the Toronto Free Hospital and the King Edward Sanatorium, and Dr. W. B. Kendall, physician-in-chief of the Muskoka Cottage Sanatorium and the Muskoka Free Hospital, leave on Thursday to attend the International

Public Amusements

Music lovers will be glad to know that the new Julian Edwards comic opera, "The Gay Musician," which ran for one hundred nights this summer at Wallace's Theatre, New York, and which has proven a sensation in Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Montreal, is to be presented at the Princess Theatre on Monday night and for the week with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. The original company, the superb singing chorus and the gorgeous scenery, which marked the New York premiere of the comic opera, will be brought here intact.

It is the manager of the opera company who controls the destiny of the production. The verity of this is exactly seen in the case of the Imperial Opera Company at the Royal Alexandra Theatre. Manager Lambert, probably the most diplomatic and capable man in the profession, is constantly studying the members of his organization with a view of obtaining the very best results. It is due entirely to his skill and diplomacy that the Imperial Opera Company has risen from a small stock company into being the largest and most capable opera company ever assembled and it is his fixed purpose to continue until he shall have given the world a company of such standard it will never have a peer.

A treat is in store for the lovers of a good play with music, when "Marrying Mary," the successful musical play by Edwin Milton Royle and Silvio Helt, comes to the Grand next week. In the play, the part of the young man, Marrying Mary Montgomery, is taken by Florence Gear, the favorite singing comedienne. Miss Gear is reputed to be an exceedingly attractive woman. "Marrying Mary" was made famous by Marie Cahill and has never before been presented in this city at less than dollar fifty prices.

Next week's offering at the Majestic is the realistic melodrama, "The Card King of the Coast," a play of the "Klondike," with a real avalanche and snow slide, gamblers, miners, hairbreadth escapes, heroic rescues, exciting incidents and thrilling climaxes.

Edgar Selwyn, the author manager, who also spent his boyhood in Toronto, is a good deal better known on Broadway than he is here, is renewing many old friendships this week and the audience who fill the Princess Theatre at each performance of "Pierre of the Plains" are drawn so less by loyalty to the star than by the excellence of the production and the beauty of the play.

Not enough credit can be handed Miss Cora Livingston, the clever female wrestler, who is meeting all comers at the Star this week. To enjoy her one must see this wonderful woman. Her work on the wrestling mat is bordering on the sensational order. She is meeting a different opponent at each and every performance. The Brigadiers are a merry lot of burlesquers.

One of the most evenly balanced extravaganza companies on the road this season is Wm. S. Clark's Jersey Lites, which will appear at the Gaiety Theatre next week. Leon Errol, America's foremost knockabout comedian and author of the two musical satires, "The Atry Widow" and "Hunting an Heiress," will appear in the comedy roles. The features of the vaudeville division will be the three Alvarettas, European comedy acrobatic act.

The steamer will be from Detroit across Lake Huron to the Canadian port and then to the straits of Mackinac, making a zig-zag course.
