Recital Enjoyed In Centenary Hall By Large Audience Under the auspices of the W. M. LORNEVILLE MAN LOSES LIFE AS BOAT UPSETS

Charles O'Dell is Victim; Andrew and Thomas Galbraith Rescued

The opening of the lobster fishing season yesterday was marked by a sad fatality when Charles O'Dell, of Lorneville, lost his life while hauling in his traps off the East Head light-house near Musquash, in the Bay of Fundy, as he and two companions were thrown into the rough sea by a number which capsized their fishing boat.

TO THE RESCUE. Fortunately Joseph Galbraith, keeper of the East Head light and father of Andrew and Thomas, was watching the three men when the fishing boat was upset. He immediately launched his rowboat and rowed through the seas to the scene of the accident, it taking him about half an hour to reach the men. He managed to get them in his boat and it was on their way to shore that it was noticed that Mr. O'Dell was dead.

THOSE SURVIVING. Mr. O'Dell was about 38 years of age and one of the most popular residents of Lorneville. Deep sympathy is extended to his family. Besides his mother and father, Mr. O'Dell has two children, Elton, a three-month-old boy, and a daughter, Sylvia, aged three years; also one brother, George O'Dell, West Saint John water and sewerage staff, and one sister, Mrs. Frederick O'Dell, also of West Saint John.

The Rule of 8 In Silverware

You don't sit six to a table, or twelve. Always you invite enough guests to make up fours for the Bridge that follows. Therefore why not buy silverware so as to accommodate eight—the fill of a dining table.
