CAPTAIN SPEAKS OF DREAM TRAGEDY

Could Not Swim, But Helped Save Lives

Able to Work Way With Life Belt and Plank—A Tribute to People of the Neighborhood—Fireman Hawkes Got Out Through Ashes Hole.

Captain C. W. McLean, who was in command of the Dream, which capsized and sank in the St. John river near the mouth of the Bellefleur on last Friday, has returned to his home in Metcalf street extension. Interviewed by a Times representative today he told the following story of the tragedy:

"I was in the pilot house of the steamer when we rounded the point near the Mistake. Suddenly a small struck us broadside and the ship took a lurch and immediately started to capsize. This I think was due to a quantity of freight shifting. I rushed out of the pilot house to one of the large life boats and vainly endeavored to get it free from the davits. The ship was sinking rapidly and as I was alone I was unable to get it clear and was suddenly flung into the water. I am unable to swim a stroke, but when I came up a life belt was floating alongside me. I seized it and just then heard Mr. Pierce, a passenger, calling for help. I saw him and Jefferson Dyleman a short distance away having a hard time of it. I pushed the belt to Mr. Dyleman and, seizing a plank, worked to where Mr. Pierce was struggling. He seized the end of the plank and I assisted him to one of the boats, which was partially floating upside down and still attached to the davits. By securing the life belt Mr. Dyleman was able to make land and save his life, while Mr. Pierce, through the aid of the plank, was able to keep afloat until assistance arrived.

"After endeavoring to save the lives of the two passengers I turned my attention to the other passenger and members of my crew, who were in the Intyre holding on to an empty apple barrel, working his way towards the Mistake, but a short time later lost sight of him. I saw fireman Hawkes struggling towards an oil drum and at first I feared that I was too late, but Williams had lost his life, but a few moments saw him also holding on to the oil drum. Purser Ganong was also there.

"I do not remember any passenger by the name of Nelson although I was told he was one of the passengers. When Medley Johnson and the other men arrived in the boat and rescued us we were nearly all dead with cold. I was hardly able to keep afloat and the others were in a bad shape."

Captain McLean said he was able to keep up without any doctor's care and in the excitement and anxiety did not even stop to change his clothes. He said he felt the after effects but all right now. He had no idea what the intentions were regarding the raising or abandoning of the steamer.

With reference to the people in the surrounding district, he said, words could hardly express his appreciation. Everyone was kind and all did all in their power to render succor to those who were saved. He paid a glowing tribute to the work of the rescue party who secured a boat and although forced to haul it over the land at the Mistake, reached them in remarkably fast time although it seemed very long while they were fighting for their lives in the water.

The Fireman.

Fireman Hawkes, who is also at his home in this city, said he was in the stoker's hold when the boat took the lurch and started to capsize. He said he was able to get out through an opening in the side used for removing ashes. He said he never swam a stroke in his life until the steamer capsized and in some manner he worked his way to the oil drum. He is feeling well although at the time he suffered from shock and cold.

MATTER ARISING OUT OF DEMONSTRATION OF GLASS BLOWING ARRANGED FOR EXHIBITION.

William J. Quinn was in court this morning on a warrant charging him with the unlawful conversion of $100. The information was made by H. A. Porter acting on behalf of the St. John Exhibition Association. The accused pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Porter asked Mr. Quinn, who was to appear for the accused, had he any goods which had been taken from the exhibition? The accused said he had none.

Mr. Porter said that during April he and the defendant had had a conference at which it had been agreed that the accused should put on a demonstration of glass blowing at the 1922 exhibition. He said there had been a written agreement dated May 1 by which the sum of $100 had been given to the accused for the purchase of raw materials. It was given in two checks of $40 and $60. These checks, he said, had been cashed by the defendant. The exhibition had not appeared to give the demonstration or accounted for or returned the $100. The witness said on September 3 and he had promised to appear on September 5 but did not appear on the date of the fair. He said he had seen the accused since and he had promised to make an accounting but had never done so. The checks had been cashed on May 4.

To the accused Mr. Porter said that he had told him that he had been expected some goods which had not been delivered. He had promised to put on the demonstration with what he had but had never done so.

An accused said the agreement was right and the money had been received from the association and used legitimately in traveling and the purchase of raw materials. The goods ordered had not arrived in time for the exhibition but since arrived and were now in his possession. He said the matter could be amicably arranged at once and an opportunity was given for this to be done.

Death of Professor.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 24.—Following an operation for appendicitis, Professor Sturley, formerly lecturer in chemistry at King's College, Windsor, N. S., but lately chemistry lecturer at York, is dead in Boston. He was a graduate of Lennoxville College, Quebec, and was a Rhodes Scholar.

"Who Said Taxes"?

(From the Winnipeg Hydro Annual Report for 1921.)

"The depreciation reserve has now reached two million dollars in addition to the investment with the sinking fund trustees, which exceeds one million dollars, and the question arises as to how far the city is justified in increasing this reserve fund.

"The physical condition of the plant has been maintained at a very high standard and some of our friendly critics claim that now, with adequate reserves which should be maintained at their present figure but not increased, further levies should be discontinued and should be applied to the reduction in rates.

"It is questionable, however, whether the time has arrived for a reduction in rates that are already undeniably low."

GIRL MAKES CHARGE, AND MAN DENIES IT

County Hospital Waitress Says She Was Annoyed at Union Depot.

A case against Robert Stafford, charged with assault, was taken up in the police court this morning. Katie Caplin, who said she was a waitress at the county hospital, said that on October 16 she had been at the Union Depot waiting for some girl friends when the accused had come along asked her to go for a walk with him. When she refused, he insisted and dragged her across in the direction of Pond street. He tried to kiss her and slapped and kicked her. She had complained to C. N. B. Policeman Ross. The affair, she said, had taken place about 8.30 in the evening.

Stafford said he could bring a witness to show that he had been at a house at eight o'clock. He said he wanted to get counsel.

Policeman Ross said the girl had questioned the train shed on the night in question and had been crying. She had told him that a man had dragged her across to Pond street. He had gone to the front of the station but could not see the accused. He told the girl to go into the waiting room and see if the man would come back. She did so and in a few minutes came running to him to say she had seen him. The witness said that when he went to the door the accused was not to be seen but later had seen him go into the Grand Central Hotel. He had given the description to Policeman Ross and told him to watch for him and Barden had later seen a man answering to his description sitting in the hotel. By that time the girl had gone.

The accused was remanded until Friday morning.

Two men were charged with drunkenness. One of them, an old offender, was fined $8 for being drunk and $80 for drinking in public. The other was remanded.

F. P. BRADY, HIGH RAILWAY OFFICIAL, DEAD IN WEST

Formerly One of Triumvirate in Management of the Intercolonial.

F. P. Brady, aged 69, adviser to the executive of the Canadian National Railways, and for many years prominent in railway circles in the Dominion died in Winnipeg yesterday.

Franklin Pierce Brady was born in Haverhill, N. H., in 1853 and educated in the common schools and seminary at Newbury, Vt. In 1869, when but sixteen years of age, he started on his railway career as station baggage master of the Passumpsic Railway, and rose through the various gradations in the operating department until he was one of the most prominent railway officials in the Dominion. He joined the C. P. R., in 1888 as train dispatcher and was successively assistant superintendent at Smith's Falls and Fort William, assistant general superintendent at Winnipeg and general superintendent of the Lake Superior district with headquarters at North Bay. He resigned from the C. P. R., in 1908 and in the following year was appointed a member of the Canadian Government Railways managing board and became joint manager of the Intercolonial Railway with Messrs. Butler and Yiffin.

After the advent of P. P. Gaultier, Mr. Brady was made manager under the Canadian National Railways board, of the eastern section, including the I. C. and the Transcontinental, east of Montreal, and more recently was transferred to Toronto in an advisory capacity. In the days of the C. P. R., Mr. Brady made frequent visits to St. John. He was a strict disciplinarian but of kindly heart.

A. P. Barnhill, K. C., a former member of the C. N. R. managing board, said today when told of Mr. Brady's death, "I am very sorry to hear it indeed; Mr. Brady was a fine type of man and a good, reliable railway official."

Mr. Brady was an excellent railroad official, and I am sorry to learn of his death," said J. M. Woodman, general superintendent of the C. P. R. for the New Brunswick district, when told of the news this afternoon.

The body of Mr. Brady was forwarded from Montreal by train to Concord for interment.

OPPORTUNITY FOR ADJUSTMENT

OPEN FISHER HEADQUARTERS

Rooms in Coburg Street near Union to be Centre of the Fight for Hydro at Cost.

The campaign in behalf of G. Fred Fisher is progressing very favorably. The ward organizations are in rapid process of completion. Mr. Fisher finds in every ward solid citizens eager to work in his behalf. The next forward step will be the opening of rooms tomorrow evening in the hall in Coburg street, near Union, where all friends of power at cost are invited to assemble and get into the campaign.

The rooms will be opened at eight o'clock tomorrow evening and the candidate will be present. They will be open during the balance of the campaign, and should be an effective rallying point where citizens will go to manifest their interest and give aid in a fight which means progress or stagnation for St. John.

BURIED TODAY.

The funeral of Arthur J. Martin was held this morning at 8.30 o'clock from his late residence, 61 High street, to St. Peter's church, where high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William Hogan, C. S. R., assisted by Rev. Francis Healey, C. S. R., deacon, and Rev. James Woods, C. S. R., sub-deacon. Many floral and spiritual offerings were received, including a large wreath from the staff of the Pottinill wharf, where Mr. Martin was employed, and a casket from the staff of D. J. Purdy, with whom his daughter is employed. Interment was in the old Catholic cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Anastasia Spitz-Slater was held this afternoon from her late residence, 89 Duke street, to the Cathedral for service by Rev. Simon Oram. Interment was in the new Catholic cemetery.
